GNP Off 10.4% In Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gross National Product dropped at an annual rate of 10.4 per cent during the first quarter of this year, the steepest three-month decline in the nation's economy on record, the Commerce Department reported today.

The decline in the GNP, the broadest measure of the nation's economic performance, was the steepest three-month decline since the Commerce Department began keeping quarterly GNP records in 1947.

The first quarter decline in the economy also meant the current recession has been the longest and deepest since the Great Depression.

The total economy, as measured by the GNP, has declined 7.5 per cent since the recession began in the first quarter of last year.

But the government's latest GNP report showed improvement in the problem of inflation. It said over-all prices in the first three months of the year increased at an 8 per cent annual rate, down from 14.4 per cent in the previous quarter and the lowest three-month inflation rate since the second quarter of 1973.

While the report showed the recession hit the economy with full fury in the first three months, government economists stuck to their predictions that things would be better in the current quarter and the economy would begin the slow process of improvement beginning about mid-year.

The previous longest and deepest recession since the Great Depression of the 1930s was in a 13-month decline in GNP of 3.4 per cent in 1953 and 1954. The GNP fell 3.9 per cent during a nine-month period in the recession of 1957 and 1958.

James L. Pate, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said in a statement.

County Skies Might Clear By Weekend

An apparent 10-year April rainfall cycle was still in full swing in Orange County today, with some hope that the weekend might be fair.

The weatherman said there was a 10 per cent chance of more showers tonight but that Friday should be fair and warmer. Gusts were expected to spring up tonight and continue through Saturday in some areas.

More than 2 inches of rain have fallen in the Santa Ana area during this normally dry month, more than in the past six Aprils combined.

But 10 years ago, 5.90 inches soaked Orange County. Santa Ana weather logs show only .30 inch fell last year in April. There was not enough rain to measure in 1973.

The Irvine Ranch measured the most rain in the past 24 hours, 4.1 inch. Modjeska logged .30 inch and Laguna Beach, which has had nothing measurable this week, reported .38 inches.

Granny Soothes Thief With Knife At Throat

NEW YORK (AP) — While a confessed bandit held a knife at her throat, a plucky New Jersey grandmother offered the teenager candy and joked: "You're missing my eye, aren't you?"

The grandmother, 64, was sitting in a car when the youth's Legal Aid attorney rushed to the scene and persuaded the then-sobbing youth to surrender.

Mrs. Gernan was on her way to work as a waitress when the youth demanded her money and then pressed his knife to her throat as two policemen arrived in the car.

The policemen, both in plain clothes, said they recognized the youth, Gilberto Rodriguez, who had previous arrests.

LOS ALAMITOS—The first group of Vietnam orphans to arrive directly in Orange County was welcomed at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station Wednesday to a world of television lights, big people and frigid breezes.

The 37 children, each accompanied by an adult volunteer, unloaded one by one from the huge Air Force C-141 transport, each receiving a last minute medical once-over at the door.

Four were loaded into ambulances and rushed to nearby hospitals. But the rest boarded buses with their volunteer guardians to be whisked with police escort to the Long Beach Naval Station at Terminal Island for processing.

All 37 orphans had been spoken for, Navy officials said. Spokesmen said they would eventually be released to the Catholic Relief Services. The children had been evacuated from a Catholic orphanage in South Vietnam and already were matched with American adoptive parents, the spokesman said.

Captains and privates, sailors, and airmen looked on together as the children and volunteers stepped down onto American soil.

The children had left the Philippines where they had been temporarily housed, at 1 a.m. PDT. They had stopped for two hours in Hawaii before arriving at Los Alamitos shortly after 7 p.m.

Bundled in blankets, some of the children were mere babes in arms and too young to understand their arrival in a new homeland. Other older ones walked beside their volunteer guardians, too dazed or too excited by the commotion around them to feel the cold wind.

Television crews jostled to record the orphans' arrivals. Newspaper photographers and reporters strained forward as well as not to miss anything.

Los Alamitos City Manager Mike Graziano, who was at the base with Mayor Phil Cox and Councilman Tom Homrighausen, watched quietly from the sidelines.

"No," he smiled, when asked

SANTA ANA—The vote fraud convictions earlier this year of eight persons who worked on Rep. Jerry Patterson's 1974 congressional campaign may have revealed only the tip of an iceberg.

The Orange County Grand Jury, which returned the indictments in the Patterson campaign case, now says it has found evidence of "a great number of instances, possibly

Cambodia Capitulates To Insurgent Forces

By The Associated Press

With white flags aflutter and thousands of residents cheering the victors, Phnom Penh surrendered to the Communist-led Khmer Rouge insurgents today after a 3½-month siege. The capitulation ended five years of war that devastated Cambodia, caused uncounted casualties and disrupted the lives of seven million people.

In Paris, a member of Cambodia's revolutionary politburo, Chau Seng, said that in some cases there will be trials in the Cambodian capital, but "we will judge in a humane way. You've seen that there is no blood bath in Phnom Penh."

Seng said the new Phnom Penh government would be neutral and nonaligned, but "vigilant" in its attitude toward the United States.

There were unconfirmed reports that Premier Long Boret had fled in a helicopter. In Bangkok, Thailand, military sources said Long Boret flew from Phnom Penh to Kompong Chhnang north of the Cambodian capital about 2 p.m., but his present location was not known.

In Saigon, the military command said fighting tapered off across South Vietnam, with the situation at Xuan Loc, the besieged provincial capital 40 miles northeast of Saigon, "quiet."

White flags and banners of surrender fluttered from every building and shop in downtown Phnom Penh to welcome the black-uniformed Khmer Rouge forces. Rebel troops hugged Cambodian army soldiers and took them aboard their armored personnel carriers for a victory parade along the waterfront.

Government gunboats steamed up and down the Mekong and Tonle Sap rivers on the east side of Phnom Penh, hoisting white flags and banners. "The white flag means cease-fire," an officer said, adding that display of surrender flags had been ordered by the Cambodian military command.

Unarmed soldiers in an armored personnel carrier drove along a boulevard shouting "Bravo" and "Peace - Peace." Some shooting was heard, but it came from other Khmer Rouge soldiers firing jubilantly into the air as they moved among crowds of welcoming citizens.

"There are no words to express my joy at the reports that the Khmer Rouge have liberated Phnom Penh," Prince Norodom Sihanouk was quoted as saying in a telephone interview from Peking.

Asked by the Japan Broadcasting Corp. if a curfew had been imposed on the city, Sihanouk, nominal leader of the insurgents, said, "No, no. As a matter of fact people came out into the streets to welcome our forces."

However, Sihanouk, who was ousted five years ago as Cambodia's chief of state and has since served as titular head of the Khmer Rouge government in exile in Peking, indicated he did not plan to return in the near future.

Tanjung, the official Yugoslav news agency, reported a statement from the prince that while he remains Cambodia's chief of state, 45-year-old Khieu Samphan, his deputy premier and chief commander of the "Armed Force of National Unity in Cambodia," would execute direct power in the country along with the Khmer Rouge.

Sihanouk said he would continue to represent Cambodia abroad and would guarantee

"Cambodian policies of non-alignment."

Meanwhile, the commander

Hem Ket Dara, established his

tion Ministry building in the Cambodian capital.

SEN. SPARKMAN SAYS

S. Viet Minister, Envoy Ready To Talk With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — South

Vietnam's foreign minister and its ambassador to the United States expressed readiness today to negotiate a settlement with the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese without pre-

Senate Foreign Relations Com-

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.,

told the Overseas Writers Club at that Foreign Minister Vuong

Van Bac and Ambassador Tran

Kim Phung told him they are willing to negotiate a military

Paris.

Shortly before Sparkman told of meeting in his office with the South Vietnamese, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger accused the Soviet Union and China of helping to make "a mockery" of the 1973 Paris cease-fire agreements by supplying arms to North Vietnam.

In a wide-ranging speech,

Kissinger said the United States also cannot overlook the "melancholy fact that none of the signers of the peace accords joined this country in at

grant violations" in its punishing assault on the South.

"Such silence can only undermine any meaningful standards of international responsibility," he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

In his remarks before the foreign correspondents club, Sparkman noted that the Communists have set three conditions

of South Vietnamese President

Thieu, the end of all U.S. aid and the formation of a new government of national reconciliation in Saigon.

Sparkman said Vuong Van

Bac and Tran Kim Phung said

nothing to him about Thieu stepping down. Although many persons in the U.S. government involved with South Vietnam were concerned about such a move, the senator said it was

Three Orange County men and a Marine sergeant were arrested Wednesday and charged with murdering two employees of the Playgirl Club

peared nearly three years ago.

All four men were booked into

San Bernardino County jail on two counts of murder.

They were identified as Richard James Weissman, 39, of 4611 Lomond St., Huntington

Beach; Donald W. Blansett,

32, of 5581 Gloria St., Apt. 1,

Garden Grove; Blansett's brother, Randall Wayne Blan-

sett, 20, of 5561 Pebble Beach

Austin, 34, a Marine sergeant stationed at Yuma, Ariz.

The arrests were made in Orange County and Yuma by homicide detectives from the San Bernardino County sheriff's office who were aided in their

police, Huntington Beach police, the Orange County sheriff's department and U. S. Treasury agents.

Also aiding the homicide detectives in establishing one victim's identity were two Calif-

A San Bernardino County sheriff's spokesman said the arrests culminated a seven-month investigation into the disappearance and deaths of John Henry

Gressmann, 39, Orange, and

Norman Russell Olsey, 28,

Westminster.

Deputies said they know the motive for the two slayings, but declined to release any information because they do not want to prejudice their court case.

Gressmann has been missing since September 1972, and his body has not been found. San Bernardino deputies said. They refused to comment on how they known that Gressmann had been

However, homicide detec-body of Olsey, who was reported missing in November 1973, was

Ford Theater Draws Ford In Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford unhesitatingly will break historic precedent when he attends Ford's Theater tonight for the opening of a play about one of his favorite presidents, Harry Truman.

No other president has been to Ford's Theater since Abraham Lincoln was assassinated there April 14, 1865.

"Give 'Em Hell, Harry," lured President and Mrs. Ford and a VIP audience to Ford's Theater, where the performance of James Whitmore as President Truman received glowing preview press reviews.

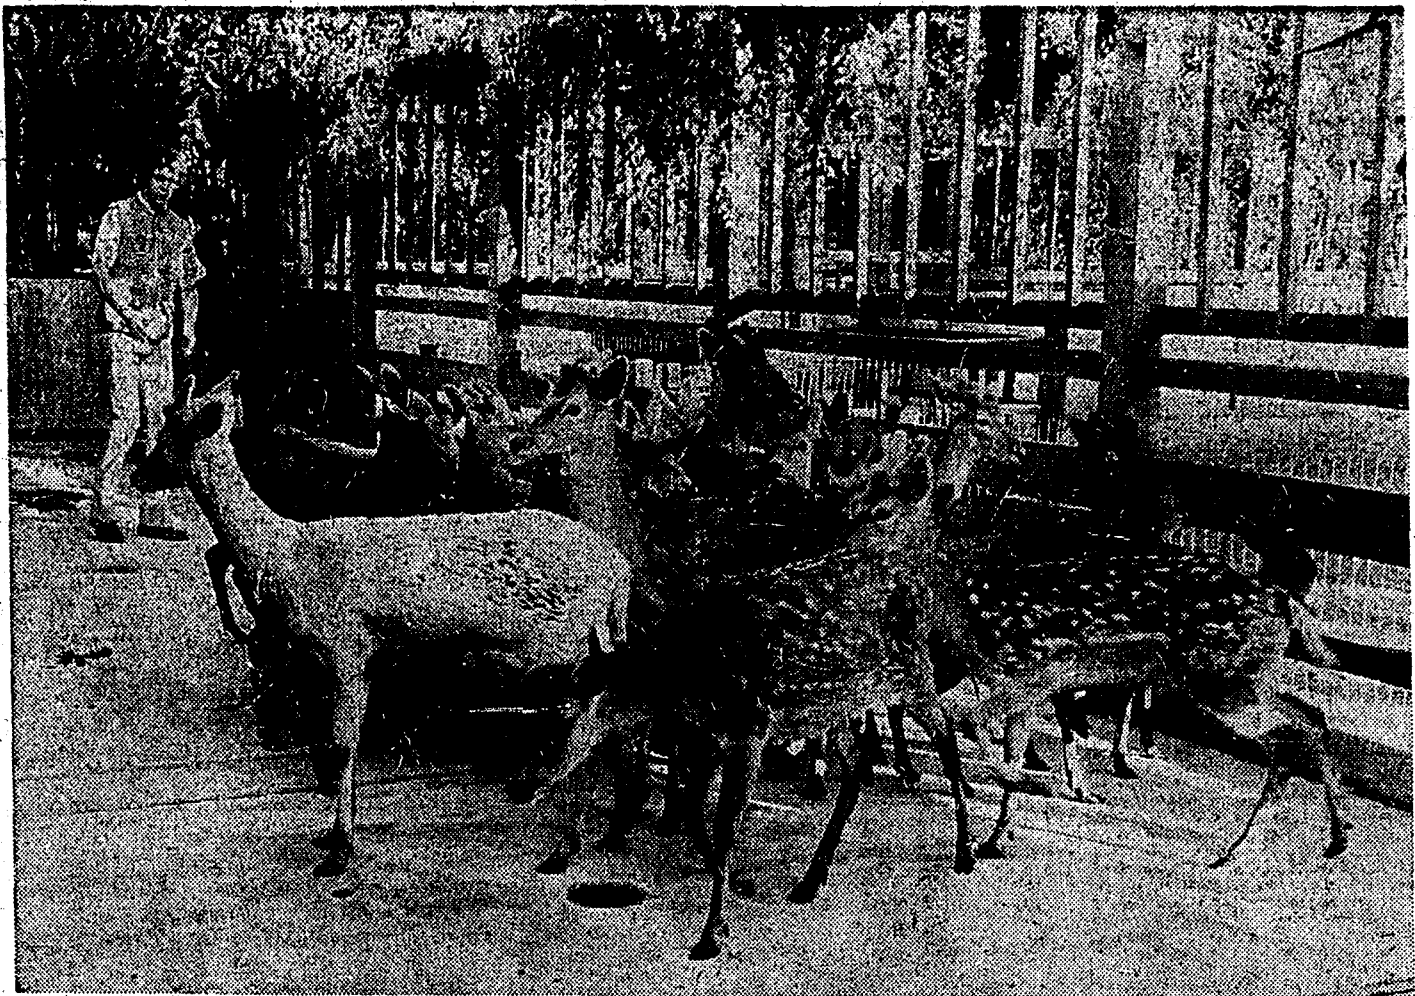

The show is a one-man performance in which actor Whitmore, alone on the stage, portrays Truman almost entirely from the former president's own words in scenes ranging from the Oval Office to the lawn at his Independence, Mo., home.

The Fords accepted the invitation to see the play but they did not plan to attend a supper afterward for the theater goers.

House Passes $7.9 Billion School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a $7.9-billion federal school aid appropriations bill Wednesday that exceeded what President Ford had asked in his budget by some $1.1 billion.

The measure, approved by voice vote, was sent to the Senate.

The basic spending package for elementary, secondary, college and special schooling programs had been set at $6.8 billion by the Appropriations Committee.

The panel's figure was $661 million above what the President sought for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and $318 million over what had been appropriated for the current fiscal year.

However, the House approved by a vote of 259 to 143 an amendment by Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., to add another $487.5 million.

Roybal said the increases he proposed for college student aid and vocational, bilingual and handicapped schooling were needed to offset inflation.

He also said the increases would help states that have been ordered by the courts in many cases to increase aid in special schooling areas.

The House rejected by 308 to 94 a compromise amendment by Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., which would have cut Roybal's hikes to $137 million.

Republicans and some senior Democrats argued that the measure was "adequate and expensive enough without the increases in light of the nation's mounting debt."

Chicago Market Chains Start Price Rollbacks

CHICAGO (AP) — Two major Chicago grocery chains have cut back prices on thousands of items and industry spokesmen say the action may be the start of a nationwide trend toward lower supermarket prices.

Officials of the companies said the reductions were not a price war but partially the result of lower wholesale prices and a softening of the inflationary effect on food and household items.

The supermarket chains, Jewel Food Stores and Dominick's Finer Foods, said another factor in the cutback is their expectation that customers will be attracted to the lower prices and increase their sales volume.

A spokesman for the Supermarket Institute said industry specialists now believe the 1975 increase in food prices will be far below 1974's 15 per cent rise.

Preliminary figures for this year indicate that wholesalers are lowering prices on some items and substantially cutting the numbers of price increases on other items, said Dick Bragah, spokesman for the institute, which represents about 600 food companies.

Prices paid to farmers have been declining steadily, although the decreases generally are not yet reflected at the retail level.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted food prices in the first half of this year will rise at an annual rate of 11 or 12 per cent. Some USDA economists say there could be declines during the second six months and add that if this happens, the overall food price increase in 1975 could be about 7 per cent.

A spokesman for the National Association of Retail Grocers, whose membership includes 3,600 independent food retailers, said that "prices are coming down. This is happening mainly because of supply and demand. The supply to wholesalers is up and, because of the recession, consumers are being more selective in their purchases," said Kenneth Brent.

"The combination of the two is the surest way of bringing about reduced retail prices."

In announcing price cuts on 3,300 of the 9,000 to 10,000 items at Jewel's 250 outlets in the Midwest, spokesman William Newby said the company noted "considerable stability in the market and anticipated further decreases in wholesale prices."

Grocery Cost Survey Figures For Average Family Variable

How much does the average American family spend on groceries? It all depends on whom you ask, what you include on the shopping list and whether you count fractions of people.

The latest entrant in the survey sweepstakes is a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics which compiles the Consumer Price Index.

The bureau is trying to update the information on which the price index is based, and it surveyed 10,000 families in 1972.

73 to try to learn about their buying habits. Preliminary results released Wednesday showed that during the survey period, the average American family spent $30.32 a week on food — $22.17 at the grocery store and $8.15 for meals or snacks away from home.

That $30.32 figure, however, doesn't reflect inflation. When it is adjusted to take into account the 32.1 per cent rise in food prices since the survey period, the average weekly expenditure increases to $40.05.

The $30.32 figure also doesn't reflect the nonfood items such as paper goods, soaps and tobacco that Americans buy at supermarkets. Most grocery price surveys cover only food, although a spokesman for the National Association of Food Chains estimates that 20 to 25 per cent of a family's supermarket bill goes for nonfood purchases.

Don't try to compare the $30.32 figure — or the inflation adjusted $40.05 total — with your family expenditure. Unless, that is, your family earns $10,185 a year and includes 2.9 persons.

That's the income level and size of the family in the survey and it's only a hypothetical average. The Consumer Price Index, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture marketbasket, currently are based on hypothetical families of 3.2 persons. The one-third of a person lost in the current survey reflects the declining birth rate.

Now, let's take a look at some of the other spending indicators.

The USDA, using figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, issues monthly reports showing the cost of food at home at three price levels: low, moderate and liberal.

Utility Industry Echoes Prediction Of Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The utility industry, backing warnings from federal officials, says recent cancellations of power-plant construction plans may impose power shortages on most of the nation as early as 1978.

In a special report late Wednesday, the National Electric Reliability Council said such a situation could lead to "some form of rationing or planned power supply curtailment" with severe impacts on the economy and lifestyles.

This is the same conclusion reached by Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb. The council's report contained new estimates appearing to promise adequate electric power for the next decade — but only if the U.S. economy and its energy demand remain depressed.

Economic recovery, without a reversal of the trend to cut back power plant construction, would bring the threat of brownouts and blackouts everywhere except in the western states, the report indicated.

The entire southern tier of states and the East Coast could see their safety margin of reserve generating capacity virtually disappear, just about guaranteeing serious problems, the report showed.

In north central states, reserve capacity might be marginally adequate but too low for comfort, it said.

In most regions, power shortages could be avoided if power-plant construction improves or if the economy does not improve, the report showed.

But one region — Illinois, eastern Wisconsin and the northeastern half of Missouri — seemed headed for a tight power supply no matter what, indicating that at best the area may have to rely on help from other areas through interconnecting power lines.

Zarb, answering questions at a Wednesday meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE), said he was receiving indications "that at our current rate, given a reasonable (economic) recovery, over the next five years we can be in a power-shortage position."

He later told The Associated Press he was worried that it might become necessary in the early 1980s to ration electric power "to certain industrial users to keep the local population living."

Other FEA officials said the agency's trouble warnings were coming from members of state utility commissions.

Ford Stalls Pending Rail Strike 60 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford invoked emergency action Wednesday to avert a nationwide railroad strike threatened Friday by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. Ford created a fact-finding board to investigate the dispute under procedures of the Railway Labor Act, a step that automatically delays any strike for 60 days.

Attorney and labor arbitrator Alexander B. Porter was named to head the 3-member board, which is to report its findings to the President within 30 days. The board's findings will then be taken back to negotiators, who will resume talks on the basis of the board's recommendations.

If the parties fail to reach an agreement, the union will then be legally free to strike.

Union President C.L. Dennis announced earlier this week that his 250,000 members were preparing to strike the railroad industry at 12:01 a.m. Friday. Dennis has refused to accept a new 3-year contract approved earlier by seven other railway unions.

Ford said he acted on the recommendation of the National Mediation Board, which decided that a nationwide rail strike "threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive a section of the country of essential transportation service."

Meanwhile, Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop told reporters he feared that economic recovery could be cut short by inadequate generating capacity or bottlenecks in the production of basic materials.

Zarb said it would be three to five months before the FEA could estimate about where and when power shortages might strike.

Later in the day, however, the National Electric Reliability Council (NERC) released its "special analysis," explaining that "the recent wave of postponements and cancellations of generating plant and major transmission facilities has raised new and serious questions."

The NERC report, based on construction plans and forecasts as of Jan. 1, 1975, found that out of the 951,400 megawatts of generating capacity predicted earlier for the year 1984, more than 107,000 megawatts — about 11 per cent — are doubtful because construction plans have been cancelled or postponed.

The utility industry has often explained these steps in terms of soaring costs and problems of financing construction. Meanwhile, the forecasts of summer peak demand for electricity in 1984 have been pared down about 10.4 per cent below last year's estimate of 764,000 megawatts, reflecting the lethargic economy.

As a result, generating reserves — the safety margin for meeting unexpected demands, breakdowns or other problems — are now forecast to reach 23.3 per cent in 1984, only slightly lower than previously predicted and still comfortably above the 15-to-20-per-cent range usually considered necessary.

Called the Pacer Plan, Richmond said it has already received more than $750,000 in federal funds during the 1974 and 1975 fiscal years for preliminary feasibility studies performed by the Weapons and Plovershare programs of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The H-bomb electric plan would cost $40 million the first three years and would cost $1.3 billion over a 12-year period, Richmond said. He said the proposal was presented to ERDA by R&D Associates of Santa Monica, and the National Science Laboratory at Los Alamos, N.M.

A spokesman for ERDA confirmed the agency is considering the plan but said Dr. Robert J. Seamans Jr., ERDA administrator, "did not indicate up or down" on the proposal.

Producing electricity through thermonuclear explosions would be cheaper than nuclear energy produced through conventional means if the most favorable cost is achieved, the spokesman said. But if that cost is not achieved, he said, it would cost as much as the more expensive coal or oil generated power.

Richmond said he has written Seamans and said the "mad scheme... should be placed in cold storage immediately."

In talking about the plan, Richmond said the environmental effect of the Pacer Plan "could well be catastrophic."

He also said there are no adequate safeguards against possible theft of the thousands of H-bombs which would have to be produced for the project.

'Umbrellas' To Block Hole In Girl's Heart

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl has become the first person to undergo a 90-minute medical procedure that could eliminate the need for some open heart surgery, doctors announced Thursday.

Two small umbrellas were pushed through a vein into Suzanne Marie Creppal's heart to seal a hole between its upper chambers.

It took only seven minutes to insert a tube holding the umbrellas into the vein through an incision in her right leg and direct it into place in her heart.

The stainless steel and dacron umbrellas, each about an inch and a half in diameter, were then opened to cover each side of the hole.

The procedure was developed by Dr. Terry King, a pediatric cardiologist, and Dr. Noel Mills, a cardiovascular surgeon. They performed the operation April 8 at Oschner Foundation Hospital.

They said use of the King-Mills Umbrella Catheter, as their device is called, will be considerably less expensive than heart surgery and will shorten hospital stays by more than 50 per cent.

"The procedure probably will not change the mortality rate for open heart surgery of this defect, since that already is quite minimal," King said. "But it hopefully will change the morbidity rate — the amount of complications — the patient will experience."

Miss Creppal's condition is known as an atrial septal defect, in which the center part of the wall separating the heart's upper chambers is defective. When large, it can cause an enlarged heart, and correction is usually necessary for a normal life, the doctors said.

The umbrella device eliminated the need for open heart surgery on Miss Creppal, they said.

They said they are working on various prototypes to correct three different kinds of heart defects. The umbrella device was the first completed for human use.

'Food Day' Organizers Disagree On Problems, Possible Solutions

By LOUISE COOK, Associated Press Writer

Consumer groups, college students and charitable organizations banded together today for a nationwide Food Day drive against hunger and malnutrition.

Activities ranged from fasting to farm sales and some of the programs prompted controversy even before they got under way.

Everyone agreed that there are problems. But they couldn't agree on the nature of the problems and how to solve them. Some Food Day participants concentrated on hunger in developing nations; others were concerned with high prices; still others campaigned against junk foods and lack of nutrition in the American diet.

The idea of Food Day came from the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a Washington-based group.

It was supported by groups like the Consumer Federation of America and Oxfam-America, an organization of last November's one-day fast to focus attention on the world food crisis.

Several nutrition experts and congressmen also joined the list of Food Day sponsors.

At least two of the nutrition specialists and Frederick J. Stare, both of Harvard University, have since withdrawn their support. They criticized a center list of the "Terrible Ten" foods that allegedly represent items lacking in nutrition and, in some cases, are harmful. The two professors also take issue with some Food Day promotions that criticize chemical fertilizers and give the impression that small organic farms are the answer to the food problem.

Oxfam-America urged people to "plant a seed for change" by sowing fruit or vegetable seeds and donating money to agencies working to combat starvation.

Ex-Welfare Chief Accused Of Plagiarism

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A former state health and welfare chief "plagiarized and slanted" a state report on drug product substitution in Medi-Cal, the chairman of the Assembly Health Committee said Wednesday.

Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, made the charge against Dr. Earl Brian, secretary of health and welfare under former Gov. Ronald Reagan, who now directs the University of Southern California Center for Health Services Research. Keene is sponsoring a bill that would allow drug substitution under generic name in California, requiring pharmacists to prescribe cheaper drugs whenever possible instead of brand-name products.

Brian used only the negative aspects of the report "word for word" as they were written by John Keith, a research analyst for the state Department of Health, "long after Brian was

TO CUT STAFF, MONITOR PHONE BILLS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The money needed to run the Assembly hopes to save about $2 million in 1½ years by cutting its staff and monitoring legislative phone bills, among other things, Assembly Speaker

Leo McCarthy said Wednesday. The San Francisco Democrat requested the money requested. He said there are some of the money-saving plans:

—Reduction of the Assembly staff from 629 to 619 since the staff had been growing at a rate of about 1.9 million in the rate of 4 per cent a year, and —Keeping a "close supervision" on out-of-state calls.

Hedy Lamarr Asks Social Security Disability Pay; Eldridge Cleaver Wants To Come Home

HEDY LAMARR, the Hollywood film beauty, says cataracts have deteriorated her vision to a "London fog" and she has applied for Social Security disability payments. "When you can't see, you can't do anything," said Miss Lamarr, 60, who had an operation on her right eye about seven weeks ago in New York. She is awaiting surgery on the left. Because of her near blindness, described as "diffused sight," the Vienna-born actress said she has been unable to work at anything such as acting, commercials, recordings or the like.

Fugitive ELDRIDGE CLEAVER, Black Panther Party leader who faces imprisonment in this country, says again that he wants to return home "one way or other" after years of exile. The author of "Soul on Ice" told a San Francisco Examiner reporter in Paris recently, "I'm coming home after seven years of political exile. I deserve it." Cleaver, 39, has been talking about returning to this country since 1971 and admitted a year after his exile that "I'm homesick." Cleaver talked about revolution but no longer in terms of violence. He believes he can work within the existing power structure. He said, "Some people may think I'm taking the classic cop-out. I'm not. The situation has changed; the revolution has moved off the streets and gone indoors. I don't want to be the only one left on the street."

PRESIDENT FORD will be taken by helicopter to inspect an offshore oil rig during his visit to New Orleans on April 23, according to Rep. F. Edward Hebert's office, which said Wednesday that the presidential visit now includes a morning ground-breaking ceremony, a luncheon speech, a press conference and the flight to the offshore rig.

Greek Premier CONSTANTINE CARMANLI has arrived for an official visit in France, the country that gave him refuge during "10 crucial years of my life," when he was in political exile. It was his first official visit abroad since taking office last July after the overthrow of the military regime.

Princess BOSTUM BOPHA, daughter of Prince NORODOM SIHANOUK of Cambodia, has become a resident of Australia. The Melbourne Sun reported Wednesday that the princess, has been living in Australia for a year. She was smuggled out of Cambodia last year after being held hostage by the Lon Nol government.

The White House has billed PRESIDENT FORD's visit to New Hampshire on Friday as nonpolitical, but it comes at a time when Ford is said to be eager to make his personal presence known in the state which has the nation's first presidential primary. Recently, Ford has been under heavy fire from the conservative wing of the Republican Party for his economic policies, the increasing national debt, foreign affairs and his choice of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president. Among Ford's most vocal critics has been New Hampshire Gov. MELDRIM THOMSON.

Capt. L. KEITH SIMON, commanding officer of the North Island Naval Air Reserve, is dead at the age of 50. Capt. Simon died Wednesday after playing handball, said a spokesman at Balboa Naval Hospital. As Naval Air Reserve commander, he coordinated 35 reserve units at naval air stations at North Island and Miramar in San Diego and at the Naval Auxiliary Landing Field in Imperial Beach.

JERRY ENOMOTO

JERRY ENOMOTO, the state prisons chief in Sacramento, Wednesday defended his department's policy of promoting "blacks and browns" ahead of white employees. The subject came up during questioning of Enomoto by the Senate Rules Committee which unanimously approved his appointment as head of the department, sending it to the full Senate for confirmation. Sen. Clare Berryhill, R-Ceres, said a colleague in the Senate asked him to question Enomoto on a statement Enomoto made at a grievance hearing—that "because of past injustice, non-minority employees will have to wait." Enomoto, a second-generation Japanese-American, confirmed he said something to that effect as part of the department's affirmative action program. "I'm very comfortable with my position," Enomoto said.

The national mood is not one of despair but of confusion, says CLARE BOOTHE LUCE, the American author-diplomat.

"The American spirit has been deeply depressed by the news and the media," she said Wednesday in Washington. "There's this terrible awareness of what a perilous world we live in. We've always lived in a perilous world, but the difference is that now everyone is aware of it." Mrs. Luce said that the mood of the country "is one of awakening to truths and realities that the United States and its people have never faced before."

The I.G. Farben Building in Frankfurt, W. Germany, known to generations of American soldiers who have served in Europe since World War II, has been renamed the CREIGHTON W. ABRAMS Building. The late Gen. Abrams, former Army chief of staff, was commanding general of V Corps during 1963 and 1964. The corps still uses the building as its headquarters. Completed in 1930 for the Farben chemical company, it was once Europe's largest office building. Abrams' widow, Julia, helped unveil a bust of the four-star general during a dedication ceremony in the main rotunda of the limestone building Wednesday.

A three-judge panel ruled Wednesday in St. Louis the government had no right to appeal the dismissal of federal charges against RUSSELL MEANS and DENNIS BANKS, leaders of the 71-day Indian occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D. Whether the dismissal of charges was correct "is not the question before this court," the panel of the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals said in ruling that the appeal was barred by the double jeopardy clause of the U.S. Constitution. Actor MARLON BRANDO has posted a $30,000 cash bond for Means, who awaits trial on a murder charge.

Dr. SARVEPALLI RADHAKRISHNAN, philosopher and statesman who served as president of India from 1962 to 1967, died Thursday of heart failure. He was 86. He had been in poor health since 1969 and was admitted to a nursing home Aug. 20 of last year following a cerebral hemorrhage.

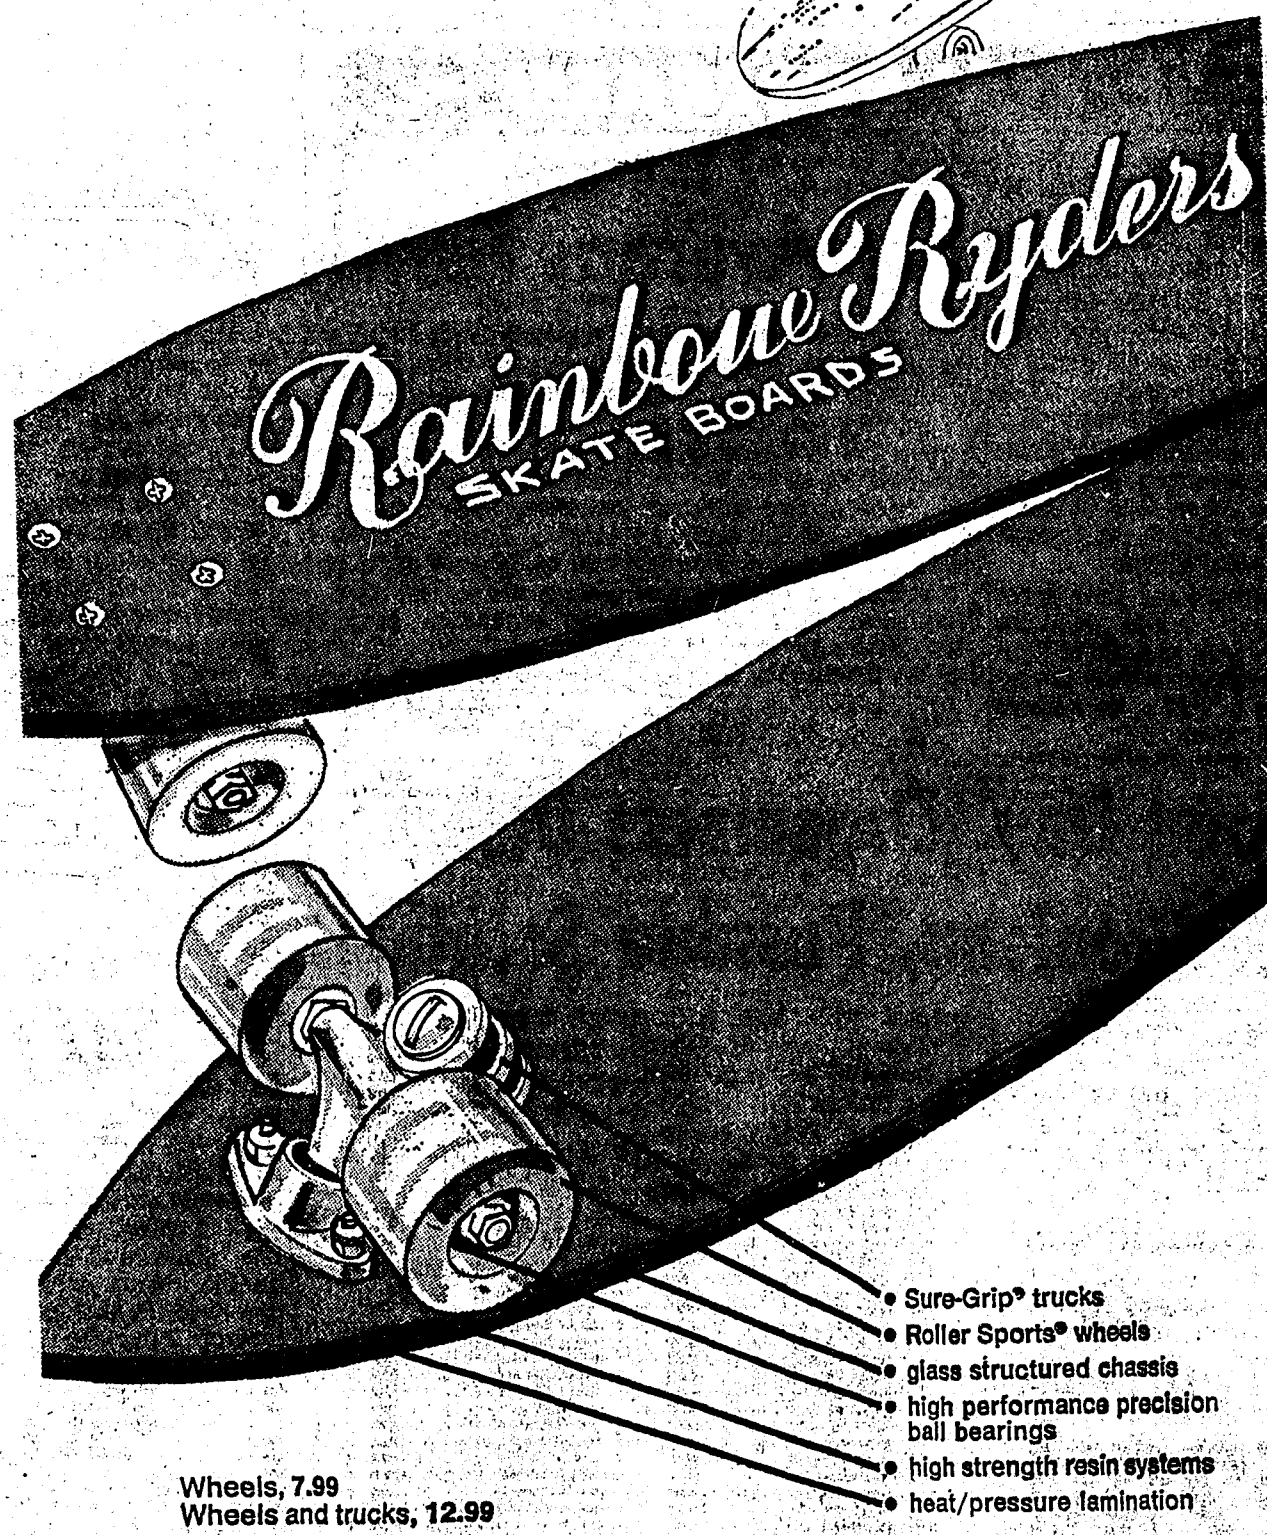

A retired national commander of Volunteers of America, CHARLES B. BOOTH, has died at 87. Booth, grandson of William Booth, founder in 1878 of the Salvation Army in England, started with the volunteer social service and charitable group at age 19. He retired in 1958 in La Mesa.

SEC Accuses Northrop Corp. Of Illegal Campaign Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Northrop Corp., a major defense contractor, maintained a $30 million fund for largely unknown purposes, of which $476,000 went for unlawful political contributions, the Securities and Exchange Commission charged Wednesday.

The SEC filed a complaint in U.S. District Court here accusing the Los Angeles-based aerospace conglomerate of violating SEC regulations by failing to adequately disclose existence of the fund or how the money was disbursed.

The SEC said it had traced $1.1 million to a French firm, identified as Savy, which allegedly paid out $476,000 for political contributions.

The SEC complaint made no mention of who received the contributions.

Northrop and two of its top officers pleaded guilty on May 1 of last year to making $150,000 in illegal contributions in 1972-74 to former President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The SEC complaint does not allege criminal violations, but asks the court to enjoin the corporation from future violations and also to appoint someone to investigate and give a correct accounting of the $30 million fund.

Northrop is the seventh major corporation named by the SEC as having maintained large funds illegally. The others are Gulf Oil, Phillips Petroleum, United Brands, 3M Corp., Sanitas Corp. and American Shipbuilding Corp.

Northrop said in a statement that the corporation and its chairman, Thomas V. Jones, agreed Wednesday to settle the action brought by the SEC "arising out of the previously reported illegal use of corporate funds for political contributions."

Food Stamp Revamp Eyed By Ford Staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's staff is analyzing Agriculture Department recommendations that would streamline the $4.7-billion-a-year food stamp program.

The recommendations include eliminating the automatic eligibility for welfare families and the itemized income deductions that account for about half of the processing errors, it has been learned.

A four-page summary of the legislative recommendations of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz was obtained by The Associated Press on Wednesday. It projected no dollar savings.

But sources involved in the recommendations say they represent an attempt to make the program fairer and more generous to the truly needy families at the same federal spending level, while cutting red tape and ending the program's congressionally built-in discriminations.

As of February, an estimated 18.5 million persons were receiving the coupons under a system in which the recipient household pays so much monthly, based on its size and net income, and the federal government adds a "bonus" to make up the face value of the stamps.

Hedy Lamarr Asks Social Security Disability Pay; Eldridge Cleaver Wants To Come Home

HEDY LAMARR, the Hollywood film beauty, says cataracts have deteriorated her vision to a "London fog" and she has applied for Social Security disability payments. "When you can't see, you can't do anything," said Miss Lamarr, 60, who had an operation on her right eye about seven weeks ago in New York. She is awaiting surgery on the left. Because of her near blindness, described as "diffused sight," the Vienna-born actress said she has been unable to work at anything such as acting, commercials, recordings or the like.

Foster Bullets Tied To Remiro Through Pistol

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Five bullets fired into the body of Oakland schools chief Marcus Foster apparently came from the same brand of pistol found on Joseph Remiro, a police specialist said Wednesday.

John Davis, the Oakland Police Department's senior criminalist, testified he thought the slugs were fired from a .380-caliber Walther automatic — the same type and brand of weapon found on Remiro when he was arrested Jan. 10, 1974.

Remiro, 28, and another so-called Symbionese Liberation Army "soldier," Russell Little, 25, are charged with killing Foster with cyanide filled bullets and wounding his deputy, Robert Blackburn on Nov. 6, 1973.

Saigon Orphanage Director Spurns U.S. Bid For Charges

SAIGON (AP) — The director here will have to find room for 15,000 to 20,000 more orphans as a result of the Communist-led drive which seized two-thirds of South Vietnam and uprooted 500,000 persons.

"We don't do any worry," said Mrs. Kieu as youngsters played outside her office in one of Saigon's largest institutions. "I don't think the Viet Cong can come here."

Legislators' 'Girl Friend' Sentenced For Pandering

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Terri Lynn Martin, who says her trick book contained the names of some state legislators, was sentenced to four months in jail Wednesday for pandering.

"I could use the vacation. It's five months to the day that I was arrested, and I'm glad it's over," she said after she pleaded guilty before Superior Court Judge Michael Virga.

The 28-year-old woman, who once practiced her profession in an apartment near the state here will have to find room for 15,000 to 20,000 more orphans as a result of the Communist-led drive which seized two-thirds of South Vietnam and uprooted 500,000 persons.

"Children die because they have nothing to eat, because they walk a long way, because they are thirsty. But we never see in this country that they are killed."

Mrs. Kieu said fears of such killings sparked in part some of the mass evacuations to the United States, including the departure last Friday of 219 children from another Saigon orphanage, An Lac.

"I don't agree to send out my children at the same time," she said, "because we can't find good families at the same time. I am not afraid, I am not nervous."

Mrs. Kieu said she turned down one telephoned offer from the United States to send an airplane to evacuate her orphans. "We don't worry to evacuate our children," she said.

OC Grand Jury Finds Vote 'Irregularities'

D. Russell Parks, grand jury foreman, said the release was issued "in a spirit of public service."
"I would judge that most violations we know about were people doing it (registering improperly) out of ignorance or convenience, rather than with intent to commit fraud," he said.

Parks said the jury "wanted to put the registrar's office on notice before the next election that the seriousness of misrepresentation should be impressed on deputies and that voters should be warned" that filing false registration affidavits are crimes.

The jury's report says one of the largest areas of abuse "lies with the deputy registrars themselves" and complains that "qualifications for, and education of, deputy registrars are woefully lacking."

Instances have been found, the report says, of deputy registrars receiving "bonuses" from politically oriented groups of up to $1 per person for registering voters of one particular party. Then, registrars are fined $1 per person for registering someone "in the opposing party."

Some deputies, the report continues, have "willfully and knowingly entered false addresses as legal residential addresses for registrants" and have even filed affidavits for non-existent persons.

The jury warned that deputy registrars participating in such activities are subject to criminal liabilities "extending from misdemeanor to felony, and including possible charges of bribery."

The report acknowledges that "in many cases the filing of fraudulent registration affidavits is without knowledge of the deputy registrar at all, but an intentional misstatement of facts by the registrant."

In addition to the Patterson campaign workers, who were indicted last December, the jury is also investigating a number of persons who worked on Assemblyman Richard Robinson's 1974 campaign.

In its own investigation, The Register discovered that a number of Robinson's campaign workers gave the same Santa Ana address on their registration affidavits, although several maintain homes in other cities, and one, the campaign treasurer, owns a home and pays utility bills in Riverside County.

Robinson himself, according to affidavits on file at the county registrar's office, used the same Santa Ana address before purchasing a home within the Assembly district.

In addition, both Robinson and the campaign treasurer at one time filed affidavits showing that both were residing at an address that proved to be the offices of a telephone workers' labor union local.

Most of those under investigation, The Register has learned, are members and officers of that union, the Communications Workers of America.

Robinson was a member of the union at one time and the union, through its national and local organizations, provided a significant portion of Robinson's campaign funds.

Parks said no single incident prompted the grand jury's overall investigation into voter registration practices in the county, however.

Instead, he said, it evolved in part "simply from the findings of the jury panels we have investigating all departments of county government. Part was the result of spontaneous concerns that have come to the grand jury's attention."

Principle reason for the report, he said, "was that now there are no political campaigns going on. No one is running for anything and it's a good time for campaign workers—and for John Q. Public—to take a look and see if they're properly registered."

Mayer, responding to the grand jury's criticism of his office, said state and local laws don't require deputy registrars to be schooled in the codes and ordinances governing registration.

Mayer has been interim registrar since the resignation of Registrar David Hitchcock in February, 1974, Hitchcock, a 15-year county employee, resigned to take a higher-paying administrative position with San Bernardino County.

Registrars have no legal authority to require a person to prove the accuracy of information on their affidavits, Mayer said.

He said his office processed more than 100,000 registration affidavits during the past year, "and even if 1,000 of them are fraudulent, that's only a 1 per cent error rate."

Mayer, who had not seen the report and asked that it be read to him over the telephone, said it "seems to be very comprehensive" and agreed that there has never been an effort to acquaint deputy registrars with all the laws relating to elections and voter registrations.

"It's just not required," he said. Proposals at the state and federal level to allow "post-card" voter registration, Mayer said, would end much of the abuse cited by the jury, since they would do away with the need for deputy registrars.

The deputies, who are paid 35 cents per registration by the county, are given their commissions upon passing a simple test based on a list of instructions they're asked to read.

Other than a passing grade on the test—at least six of 10 questions answered correctly—the only qualifications to become a deputy registrar are that the person must be a U.S. citizen, be at least 18 years old and be eligible to vote, Mayer said.

He said his office has received complaints about improper registration activity and forwarded each one to the county district attorney's office.

"But we've only had about a dozen in the last year," he said, "and if the problems were as widespread as the grand jury says, I'd think we'd have more complaints than that."

Paul Revere's Historic Bells To Peal Again

BOSTON (AP) — After nearly 50 years of hanging lifelessly, the bells that Paul Revere rang at Old North Church are being prepared to ring again.

The 230-year-old bells are locked into position and have been used only to chime out conventional hymns with a pulley system that knocks them with hammers.

In Revere's time, they swung free to produce a tuneless kind of music called change ringing. Increasing interest in change ringing has prompted a restoration.

The eight bells weigh several tons and were exposed to the sky after hurricane Carol blew the steeple into Salem Street in 1954.

A temporary roof rested on the bells since then, but that has been removed. The church has almost finished fixing the masonry of the belfry and reinforcing beams installed in 1723 when the church was built.

Geoffrey Davies, ringing master of a band of Boston change ringers, said the bells may be ready by Saturday, the 200th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord.

Eight Boston ringers will stand in a long-deserted chamber two flights of stairs below the bells. They will tug on the ropes until the bells swing in complete circles and sound out their odd music.

The bells will first ring in scales from the highest note to the lowest. Then the ringers will begin to change the order, ringing the eight notes in a different pattern each time.

The patterns were invented in England in the 17th century and are virtually unchanged since then.

Revere began to ring at the age of 15 in 1750, five years after the Old North bells were installed.

House Panel Hears Attack On Gun Sales

CHICAGO (AP) — More than a quarter of all admissions to one of the nation's largest hospitals are for gunshot wounds, a House subcommittee considering gun control legislation this week.

Dr. Robert J. Lowe, director of the Cook County Hospital trauma unit and adult emergency service, and Dr. Robert L. Repogle, chief of cardiac surgery at the University of Chicago hospitals and clinics, said treatment of gunshot wound victims cost each of the two Chicago hospitals more than $1.8 million in 1974.

Both men urged members of the House Judiciary subcommittee on crime to adopt federal legislation that would prohibit sale and manufacture of handguns.

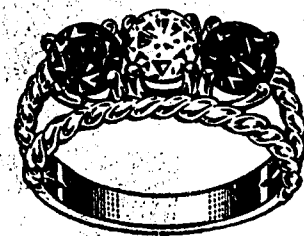

The testimony came during the second and final day of public televised hearings in Chicago.

"The fact that over 25 per cent of the admissions to the trauma unit are for gunshot wounds attests to the fact that guns are a major factor in the general problem of violence on the streets," Lowe said.

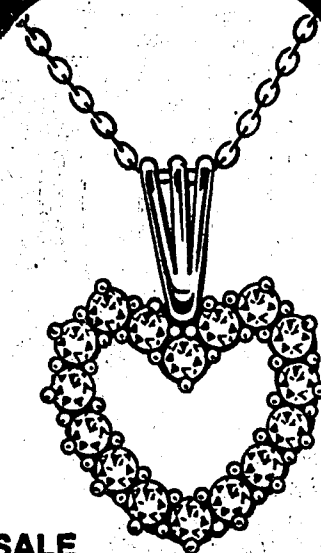

Said another witness, Dr. Peter Rosen, director of the University of Chicago's emergency program: "I can only conclude that the number of deaths and serious life-threatening and debilitating injuries would be considerably lowered could we but achieve the elimination of guns from our society."

Bradley Opens Victory Garden At Reseda Plot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thousands of city folks are digging in to fight rising food prices.

Mayor Tom Bradley turned over the first shovelful in suburban Reseda.

Then, hoe in hand, Bradley declared that the victory garden is back "and our enemy is inflation, municipal ugliness and weeds."

The mayor was at the dedication of a Victory Garden in Reseda, the first of 11 communal gardens where city residents will pay $2.50 a year to grow their own vegetables on 15-by-15 foot plots of city-owned land.

About 120 residents have already rented plots at the two-acre site on Victory Boulevard. The land, beneath long-distance power lines and commercially unsalable, is able to produce crops the year around.

Fledgling gardeners can receive free instructions every Saturday morning.

"A citywide project enabling city dwellers to raise their own produce is one way to bring down the cost of good nutrition," Bradley said.

Mark Casady, director of the Neighborhood Gardens and Farms project, said high unemployment and inflation should make the gardens an attractive alternative for city dwellers.

"People are worried about predictions of worldwide food shortages," Casady said. "Growing your own food gives you self reliance and independence."

He added, "It tastes better, too."

One gardener, Joan Gibson of Van Nuys, said she had planted a dozen tomato plants so her family could "finally get tomatoes that taste the way they should."

Actor Eddie Albert, who has been instrumental in establishing similar minifarm projects in other cities, was also present at the ground-breaking ceremonies. He will be a sponsor of the project here.

Dollar Slump Triggers Hike In Volvo Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The American importer for AB Volvo of Sweden, Volvo of America Corp., has boosted prices on new cars shipped to U.S. dealers by April 1 an average 6.1 per cent.

A company spokesman said the price rise was brought on by the 11 per cent drop in the value of the dollar against the Swedish krona since this year's models were introduced last fall, the company said.

A Volvo 245 station wagon will rise 7.7 per cent in price to $8,350 from the current $5,895. The 164-model sedan will cost $7,950, up 6.1 per cent from $7,495, and the lowest priced 242-S sedan will go to $5,625, 6.2 per cent higher than the present price tag of $5,295.

Rate Hearings Set April 23

SANTA ANA — Orange Countyans who want to testify before the state Public Utilities Commission of the Southern California Gas Co.'s request for a $132 million rate hike will be able to do so at 10 a.m. April 23 in Room G-220 of the county personnel department, 625 N. Ross St.

The gas company filed its request last November, contending it needs the rate hike to allow it to earn a 10.25 per cent return on investments for 1973.

TWIN PACEMAKERS WIRED TO MUSCLE KEEP 8-MONTH-OLD BOY ALIVE

IONA, MICH. (AP) — Two tiny wires which lead to twin pacemakers are the link with life for 8-month-old Adam D. Nevins.

Doctors report Adam is the just as they do a damaged head of the neonatal unit at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. Adam lived at the hospital from his birth last July 27 until Monday.

The pacemakers, implanted on each side of the baby's chest, use radio signals to stimulate the paralyzed muscle.

"Essentially, it's a radio transmitter with a radio receiver that's transplanted under his skin," Radecki explained.

Before the pacemakers were implanted, Adam spent his first six months with a breathing machine.

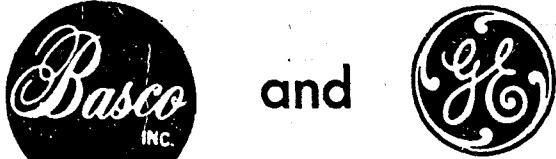

Adam's mother, Wanda, 27, accompanied him home from the hospital Monday along with several nurses and Radecki. The child's father, Lloyd, waited at the family's rural home east of Ionia.

Nevins, 37, a restaurant cook, admitted his son will require "quite a bit of extra care. God's taken care of him this long, that's all I can rely on. After a while, it will all be routine. It'll be different from everybody else's routine, though."

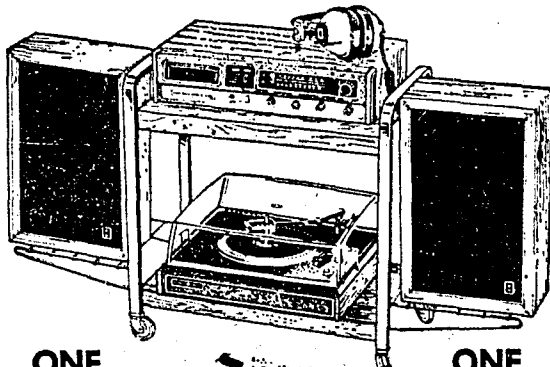

Part of that routine is an alarm that sounds by the crib if Adam stops breathing. It alerts his parents to hook up a bedside resuscitator to try saving his life.

In addition, the paralysis on her new son. Adam's future is uncertain, doesn't breathe. "There is still a chance the baby is growing up and acting like a normal baby except he will return. He's a real trooper but as far as what holds true for the future only time will tell."

Woman's Bones May Be Oldest Human Fossil

BERKELEY (AP) — Lucy may set the human race back a million years — if it is proven she is 3.5 million years old.

Lucy is the name given to the partial skeleton of a 3 1/2-foot woman found during the past several months in a dry lake bed in north central Ethiopia.

University of California anthropologist Dr. D. Carl Johanson, principal discoverer of the bones, said Tuesday the woman apparently was a member of a near-human group that lived long before the group generally considered to be the ancestors of modern humans.

Jaw fragments from the woman have been chemically dated to be as much as 3.5 million years old. Fossils discovered in Tanzania, dated 2.5 million years old, have generally been regarded as the oldest human bones.

Johanson said the shape of Lucy's jaw and the relatively modern teeth structure lends credence to his theory that hers might be the oldest human remains yet found.

He said more exhaustive studies are planned.

Yorba Linda Man Dies In Mishap

ANAHEIM — Michael George Malafronte, 21, of 17521 Pine Circle, Yorba Linda, was killed Wednesday afternoon when his northbound car was struck by another one on the Placentia Avenue bridge spanning River side Freeway, the coroner reported.

Investigators said Malafronte was pinned in his light, foreign car and pronounced dead at the scene. The driver of the southbound car, John M. Strack, 22, of 163 Murray St., Placentia, was injured and taken to Anaheim Memorial Hospital, investigators said.

Rains Roam Plains; Snows Chill Rockies

By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms roamed the northern Plains and the lower Ohio Valley today while snow and rain chilled the northern Rockies.

Light rain that had sprinkled California through Wednesday ended in most of the state during the night, but cool and damp weather remained. Stockmen's advisories were in effect in Montana east of the Divide and over most of North Dakota due to cold rain and near-freezing temperatures, and snow in the mountains. Heavy snow piled into some mountain areas of Utah and Montana overnight.

Fair skies dominated most of the country from the southern Rockies through the Southeast and scattered sections north to the Great Lakes.

Temperatures hit a more seasonal stride Wednesday in the Plains. The 70s reached into Plains. The 70s reached into South Dakota and 80s warmed Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. Overnight lows remained in the 50s and occasional 60s through the region.

State Worker Pay Talks Off

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Talks with the Brown administration over higher pay and benefits for state workers have broken down, the California State Employees Association says. John Matheny, president of the CSEA, said Wednesday the administration wouldn't budge from its offer of $25 million. The CSEA wants $50 million. Matheny asked officials under Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to prepare a memorandum of the differences.

Pilot Injured In F4 Eject

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—A pilot has been hospitalized with a fractured vertebra after ejecting from an F4 Phantom jet which developed engine trouble in flight, officials say. Lt. Col. Edward D. McDowell Jr., 41, of Macon, Ga. was in satisfactory condition at Edwards AFB Hospital Wednesday night. McDowell and a photographer, Sgt. Merle J. Yarnell, 27, of Salem, Ore., ejected when their craft developed trouble over a desert test range 11 miles southeast of Edwards main base Wednesday. Yarnell was treated at the hospital and released.

Trash Haulers Vote Today On County Contract

About 350 rubbish haulers, representing 80 per cent of the county's trash collectors, vote today on a three-year, 33 per cent wage-benefit package offered them.

Balloting is from noon to 8 p.m. at Guadalupe Church in Santa Ana, said a spokesman from Teamsters Union Local 396.

Disposal employees are seeking a 235 per cent pay hike-benefit package over the next three years, which the Orange County Disposal Association said would bring them to more than $10 per hour.

Sam Taormina, a negotiator for the disposal association, said the trash truck drivers and helpers are covered in a master agreement that expires at midnight today.

"You're looking at about $150 (total weekly salary)," said Taormina of the 33 per cent offer made by the Orange County Disposal Association. "It would amount to about a $20-per-week raise."

Local 396 members earlier this month rejected a four-year, 35 per cent wage-benefit package offered them by the disposal association, but a union spokesman said the 350-member delegation has not officially threatened to strike.

And the disposal association, which represents trash hauling contractors throughout Orange County, said the 33 per cent wage-benefit package is the "last and final" offer.

'Bill Of Rights' Legislation Set In Rent Dispute

SANTA ANA—Proposed "bill of rights" legislation for mobile home residents is being prepared by representatives of residents and park owners and may head off a confrontation over rent hikes.

Tentative language to the proposed compromise legislation was agreed upon at a meeting in Garden Grove between Golden State Mobilehome Owners Association, representing tenants, and the park owners' organization, the Western Mobilehome Association.

Final wording will be worked out at a meeting Wednesday in Sacramento and presented to legislators as a substitute for other bills awaiting action.

As a result of these negotiations, fifth-district Supervisor Thomas Riley said he will ask the board of supervisors to defer action in support of another bill which would have guaranteed mobile home park renters a minimum 18-month lease.

Supervisors stepped into the issue after receiving a barrage of letters from mobile home residents complaining their rents been hiked because of property tax reassessments.

Last week, the two groups worked out substitute legislation which would:

—Give renters a minimum one-year lease with a guarantee of no rent increases;

Council Approves Special Fund For Irvine Tax 'Contributions'

IRVINE—City councilmen, in a continuing dispute over private versus tax funds, voted this week to create a special fund for contributions to non-profit organizations.

The 4-1 vote drew opposition from Councilman John Burton, who has objected to such contributions at two recent council meetings on the basis they constitute the use of tax funds for a private purpose.

Burton said the council's action, which will create a special new fund in the city's budget next year, is evidence that his fellow councilmen consider themselves "the four Rockefeller of Irvine."

Burton said the council's philanthropic tendencies will bring disfavor and possibly a lawsuit if they donate money to one group and not to another.

But Councilman Henry Quigley, who made the motion for a special fund, said Burton's position is "just a basic disagreement about what's a public purpose."

Quigley said governments could reduce their costs "if we had a lot more quasi-public groups carrying on programs that are now carried by the public sector."

"I'd like to see us shut down the Social Security system if there was a way for the private side to pick it up," said Quigley.

"Sometimes it's better to let in a little seed money and get these groups going so they can carry the costs of programs that would otherwise have to be picked up by government."

Quigley cited the example of Irvine Is, a cultural group that received $1,000 from the city in 1973.

"They turned around this year and raised $10,000 of their own funds, which they probably wouldn't have been able to raise if we didn't give them seed money," he said.

Councilwoman Gabrielle Pryor, a consistent opponent of Burton in these discussions, said the council has given $9,600 to non-profit groups this year, including $2,000 to the Little League. She pointed out Burton voted for the $12,000 to the Little League and he said he'll never do it again.

Mrs. Pryor supported the establishment of a special fund "so we can get a handle on it." She suggested the amount of the fund for next year be about $10,000. The actual amount will be determined at budget time.

"We should put a limit on it so we know what we're doing," she said. "It's quite usual for councils to give money to non-profit groups who do things for the city."

Burton strode out of a city council meeting March 19th when the council was considering a $700 subsidy for a student cooperative housing venture at UCI. He said he refused to remain during discussion of what he termed "illegal" use of tax funds for a private purpose.

He said the same thing March 25, when he voted against the city's contribution of $500 to Orange County Fair Housing Council. He said he opposed the grant for the added reason that the housing council was suing the city. Such a situation put the city in the position of "paying someone to sue us," he said.

SC Police Teamster's Contract Ruled Illegal

SAN CLEMENTE—The contract between the city's policemen and the Teamsters Union for representation in wage negotiations has been declared illegal by the city council.

The city council Wednesday advised the San Clemente Public Safety Association to abide by resolution No. 87-70, adopted by the city on Oct. 21, 1970, which prohibits the police from joining any organization such as the Teamsters.

City Atty. Mackenzie Brown said Government Code Sect. 3508 grants the cities the right to impose limitations on the type of labor or employee organizations that law enforcement members may join.

The San Clemente Public Safety Association's 32 members (of 38 policemen on the force) voted recently to join the Teamsters.

Russell Rice, president of the association, said after the council's action that it was an "obvious misinterpretation of the law."

Mayor Tony DiGiovanni said in a prepared statement that the city employees may meet with councilmen upon request. He referred to a case last year when the police department's grievances led to the hiring of Tom Reddin, former Los Angeles police chief, as consultant in an investigation that culminated in the resignation of the city's police chief.

"In this present matter," said Mayor DiGiovanni, "not once did any member of the police department come to me to voice any grievances."

Doubting that the policemen gave much thought to their decision to join the Teamsters, the mayor said, "I wonder if some glib-tongued organizer really gave the police of San Clemente a pretty good snow job."

Concerning police demands for wages that would bring them to the county average, DiGiovanni said San Clemente has the lowest median family income in the county but that the better living conditions in this beach community make up for the lower economic opportunities.

Police salaries in San Clemente range from $883 per month to $1,074. The average is from $999 to $1,209 per month.

Councilman Thomas O'Keefe said the policemen's wages may be 6 to 10 per cent below county average but that the median family income is 22 per cent below the average.

Craig Steckler, member of the policemen's association, said, "You can't dispute statistics but you sure can juggle them."

Statistics show that San Clemente per capita income was $3,917, which is slightly above the county average of $3,899.

Russell said in a statement prepared after the council meeting that the "association has gained token amounts" in past negotiations with the city.

Medicare Hike Bill Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., offered a bill today to increase substantially the share of health costs of the elderly which Medicare would pay.

The bill would eliminate or lower major co-insurance payments and deductibles now built into Medicare.

It would extend coverage by bringing in drugs, eyeglasses, dental care and dentures, and hearing aids.

It would wipe out the $6.70 monthly premium now paid by the elderly for Part B Medicare, which chiefly covers physicians' services.

Ribicoff, former secretary of health, education and welfare, estimated the measure would mean at least $3 billion of additional Medicare payments on top of the $9.5 billion now paid in federal funds for the program.

CYPRESS—A New York medical instrument salesman suffered burns and $75,000 worth of equipment in his motor home sales vehicle was destroyed in a fire here at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

William Barnes, 26, was burned on his face, right arm and right hand during his escape from the burning vehicle in a parking lot near Katella and Knott avenues, county firemen said. He was treated at Los Alamitos General Hospital and released.

The vehicle, owned by Brinkmann Instruments, Westbury, N.Y., was gutted. The motor home was valued at $25,000.

The fire apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring, firemen said.

HARMFUL TO AVOID SWEETS — SCIENTIST

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Richmond researcher says parents may be doing their children more harm than good in the long run when they tell them: "No sweets."

Dr. Franklin Lim, associate professor of clinical pathology at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital, says his tests indicate sugar consumption by children may help ward off hardening of the arteries brought on later in life by cholesterol and fats.

Early results of the tests, Dr. Lim reported Wednesday, indicate a youngster's body produces the right proportion of enzymes to metabolize sweets and fats effectively.

But if such foods aren't consumed in childhood, the tests indicate the body's ability to produce that correct proportion may lessen and metabolism become less efficient, leading to hardening of the arteries.

Boostered by the results of experiments on animals and humans, Dr. Lim presented his theory Wednesday at a meeting of the Federation of Experimental Biology in Atlantic City, N.J.

He warned, however, that although his early findings support the sweets-for-kids theory, parents should not start their children on high-sugar, high-fat diets until more results are in.

Dr. Lim said he used 24 children, aged 8 to 13, in his tests at the hospital which were sponsored by the International Sugar Research Foundation.

Cost Of OC Underground Water To Go Up 30% July 1

FOUNTAIN VALLEY — Water pumped from the county's underground basin will cost local water agencies nearly 30 per cent more effective July 1.

Directors of the Orange County Water District (OCWD) Wednesday night voted a $22-per-acre-foot pumping fee for 1975-76.

The present levy, $17 per acre foot, has been in effect since 1973-74.

Neil Cline, OCWD manager, said the increased pumping fee and other price changes were necessary to "pass through" the higher charges for water being levied by the Metropolitan Water District (MWD).

Cline said OCWD expects to purchase 131,000 acre feet from MWD during the next fiscal year at a cost of $4.9 million.

OCWD directors also set stiffer limits on the amounts of water local agencies can pump from the underground basin without being required to pay a surcharge.

The surcharge for 1975-76 will be $18 per acre foot, down from the current $26 per acre foot.

The new limits will range between 55 and 65 per cent. This year the standard limitation is 70 per cent.

Beginning July 1, any local district which pumps more than its assigned allotment from the underground basin during 1975-76 will have to pay the $22-per-acre-foot pumping fee and the $18-per-acre-foot surcharge.

Local districts derive their water supplies from the underground basin and from direct pipeline deliveries from the Municipal Water District of Orange County.

Customers expected to be hit the hardest by the new pricing structure will be the City of Garden Grove water service which pumped 98.8 per cent of its water from the underground basin during 1973-74, and the City of Westminster which derived 80.4 of its water from the underground basin.

Other local water agencies pumping a high percentage of water from the underground basin include City of Anaheim, 78.1 per cent; city of Fountain Valley, 77.7 per cent; Yorba Linda County Water District, 73.3 per cent; City of La Palma, 72.8 per cent; City of Seal Beach, 70.8 per cent; City of Huntington Beach, 70.2 per cent.

BANNER Carpets & Drapes

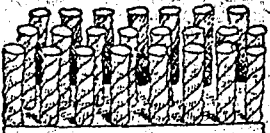

How to select carpet!

How to Spin A Good "Yarn"

That's the first step to longer lasting carpeting... Millions of individual fibers are spun into a thicker, longer thread called "yarn."

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

WHAT NOT TO LOOK FOR

If you twist together two or more "yarns," you have a "plied yarn," which is thicker, bulkier and better able to stand up straight. Then the pile is less likely to crush. The denser the yarn (the closer each tuft is to the next tuft), the better the carpet will wear. The carpet will look newer longer.

Tell your Banner decorator-salesman how many children and pets will be using the room. If your carpet is going to be under a lot of busy feet—as in dens, recreation rooms, TV rooms or hallways—a dense, tightly twisted yarn, low pile carpet will wear best.

You can rely on your Banner Carpet Salesman... he's a trained decorator. Let him help you.

India To Grant Statehood To Sikkim Nation

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi announced today that India would grant statehood to Sikkim and end the Himalayan kingdom's 300-year-old monarchy.

The prime minister told a meeting with opposition leaders that her government will introduce a constitutional amendment in parliament next week to annex the 2,745-square-mile territory.

The amendment would "give assent" to a resolution seeking Indian statehood which was approved 59,637-1,496 by the Sikkimese in a referendum on Monday. The resolution also called for the ouster of Chogyal (King) Palden Thondup Namgyal, who is married to socialite Hope Cooke of New York.

Sikkim's assembly, which is dominated by the Sikkimese branch of Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party, voted last Thursday in favor of statehood and an end to the monarchy.

The amendment is expected to receive easy two-thirds approval in both houses of India's parliament since Mrs. Gandhi's party has big majorities there also. Little opposition has been expressed in India to the absorption of Sikkim.

The pro-Indian chief minister of Sikkim, Kazi Lhendup Dorji, left for home after a one-day visit here to make the formal request for Indian statehood.

Talking to newsmen, Dorji ruled out any further consultations with the 51-year-old chogyal, who is under Indian army guard in his Gangtok palace.

He said no decision had been made whether to allow the chogyal to remain in his palace. But he said any requests from the former absolute ruler, who has reigned since 1963, would be considered sympathetically only if he dropped his "hostile and obstructive attitude."

Disagreement Over Orphans Custody Ends

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A dispute over custody of 174 Vietnamese children has ended and officials say all the orphans will be united with their new parents within a week or so.

"It's hard to believe we can take him home at last," Mrs. David Tietjen of Americus, Ga., said Wednesday as she claimed 6-month-old David Lee.

The boy was among 18 children Betty Tisdale had insisted were not connected with the rest of the group she brought from An Lac Orphanage in Saigon last weekend.

She had contended the children "are 18 private adoption cases who happened to be on this plane."

State Department officials agreed and those not united with their adoptive parents Wednesday are being kept here to await their arrival.

The adoptions of the other 156 children will be handled through Tressler-Lutheran Services Associates of York, Pa., rather than the Pearl S. Buck Foundation of Perkasi, Pa., which had claimed responsibility for the children, said Bill Mulcahey of the Agency for International Development.

William C. Tremittiere, manager of children's programs for Tressler, said his agency would work with the Buck Foundation and other groups in placing the children.

Judge Convicts Male Nurse In Decapitation

VENTURA (AP)—A 38-year-old male nurse at Camarillo State Hospital has been found guilty of the murder and decapitation of a fellow worker in a quarrel over a female nurse.

Ysmal Gonzales Jr. is to be sentenced May 7 by Ventura Superior Court Judge Donald A. Pollock, who heard the case Wednesday without a jury.

Gonzales was convicted in the slaying of Edward M. Raley Sr., 52, whose headless body was found last Dec. 7 in a remote canyon near Moorpark. Raley's head was found in a plastic bag about 13 miles away.

Reporter Faces Jail Term

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — A Lewiston Morning Tribune reporter who refused to reveal a news source has received a stayed, 30-day jail sentence.

Judge Roy Mosman said Jay Shelly, the reporter, would not serve the term unless the Idaho Supreme Court upholds a contempt of court citation.

Shelly read a statement to the court that the First Amendment and his personal code of ethics prevented his revealing the identity of a police source he quoted in a story about a shooting that occurred in Coeur d'Alene on Nov. 18, 1973.

Because of that story, Michael Caldero, then a state undercover narcotics agent, has filed a $60,000 libel suit against the Tribune's owner company.

Shelly said that he maintained the highest respect for the judicial system as a whole and the court in particular, but must decline to abide by the court's order.

"My word must be preserved at all personal principles and professional principles and professional reputation are to mean anything," the reporter said. Mosman, presiding judge of the Second District, said that if he will sentence him to serve his time in the Latah County jail.

NC House Votes Down Equal Rights Amendment

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The proposed Equal Rights Amendment has been rejected by the North Carolina House, apparently ending any chance that it will become a part of the U.S. Constitution this year.

The House has given the proposed amendment tentative approval on a vote of 60 to 58 Tuesday, but when it came up for final passage on Wednesday, it was voted down on a 62 to 57 vote.

One of the legislators who switched, Rep. Myrtle Wiseman, a former country and western singer, buried her head in her arms and wept after casting her "no" vote in a quivering voice.

She said the pressure from the constituents of her rural, mountainous district had forced her to change her mind. She was the only one of the House's 13 women to oppose the amendment, which would ban discrimination on the basis of sex.

With North Carolina lost, there appears to be no chance the amendment will be ratified by the necessary three-fourths, or 38, of the states this year.

Oil Price Hike Probe Criminal Violations Nil

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The probe into possible illegal oil price hikes during last year's Arab embargo has so far failed to turn up much illegal activity in California, investigators say.

Officials of the Federal Energy Administration and the U.S. Customs Service—while emphasizing investigations are far from complete said Wednesday they have found no criminal violations and only minor civil violations.

At the time reports of the nationwide probe surfaced, estimates ranged up to $800 million of possible overcharges through illegal price manipulations during the embargo.

Jack Wood, FEA regional director in charge of compliance and enforcement, said California may not have been as severely affected as other areas because most of the state's major utilities routinely buy oil on long-term contracts from big oil companies, rather than buying through brokers.

Medical Malpractice Insurer's Future To Be Decided By State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California officials will decide soon whether one of the nation's largest medical malpractice insurers must get out of the business because of massive losses in providing such coverage.

The state Department of Insurance will decide within the next 10 days if Argonaut Insurance Co. is "statutorily insolvent," says Insurance Commissioner Welsey J. Kinder.

"Our preliminary checks have found no reason to fault the company's contention that they are losing $5 million a month (in the malpractice insurance business)," he told the state Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee on Wednesday.

"As of Dec. 31, the company had a surplus of $28 million," he added.

If that surplus is exhausted, the appointee of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said in an interview, the Menlo Park company will be "statutorily insolvent."

At the $5 million-a-month rate, that would come in June, he said.

Kinder could then order an end to the company's writing insurance or limit what insurance it could write to defuse what he called "the hazardous situation" if the surplus is wiped out.

Argonaut spokesman Terry Allen said there would be no comment on Kinder's statements.

The subsidiary of Teledyne Inc. caused a furor in Northern California when it announced it would withdraw from the medical malpractice field May 1, leaving some 4,000 doctors without insurance coverage.

The company now says it will offer individual doctors policies through August at premium rates up to 384 per cent above current costs.

The company has said it has lost $84 million in the past year, much of it because of soaring court judgments in medical malpractice insurance cases in California, New York, Florida and other states.

Kinder appeared before the committee to discuss a bill by state Sen. Milton Marks to prohibit insurance companies from dropping malpractice coverage for doctors for the rest of this year.

The San Francisco Republican's bill, which failed by a 3-3 vote, could cause further problems for Argonaut and at least one of the other three companies now writing malpractice insurance in California. Kinder and other witnesses said.

"What good does it do for a doctor to have a malpractice policy if the company is unable to bear the burden?" said W.V. Slaven, western vice president of the American Insurance Association.

"If the company goes out of business because of this bill, the policy is worthless," he added.

Paul Revere's 'Midnight Ride' 200 Years Ago Just A Chore

EDITOR'S NOTE — As a messenger for the Boston rebels, Paul Revere rode thousands of miles. His midnight ride 200 years ago tomorrow was part of the courier service he performed.

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

The artisans of Boston called themselves mechanics, and their leader was the silversmith, Paul Revere. Among early patriot leaders he was the mechanic, a man who did things.

When Paul Revere rode through the Massachusetts countryside 200 years ago with the call to arms, he was performing a chore, not developing revolutionary theory.

By intellect, education and social standing, Revere was oddly out of place among the Harvard men with whom he conspired. At times he was little more than an errand boy. But when the plotting turned to war and theory gave way to action, his prominence grew.

Revere came by his politics honestly. His father was a Huguenot refugee from persecution in France; his mother from an old line of Bostonians who had left England for the same reason.

He learned silversmithing from his father. He enjoyed the work and brought variety to it. Besides being a silversmith whose designs are popular in American homes today, he tried engraving and dentistry, and operated a foundry.

Revere outlived two wives and sired 16 children. The family was never poor, although pressed at times. Revere was content with his life and his station. He died in 1818 at the age of 83.

He had an artisan's respect for himself, born of the knowledge that he did something well and that it would provide as much as he needed or wanted.

Paul Revere was not awed by the fine gentlemen who took him into their club. He lacked their indecision and self-doubt when action was called for.

Revere was recruited into the Whig party's North Caucus, then the Long Room Club, which met above the Boston Gazette and plotted sedition.

He was one of the "Indians" at the Boston Tea Party. He engraved political cartoons that aroused Boston, including an inflammatory and inaccurate rendition of the Boston Massacre. He was a ringleader in a spy operation which kept track of the occupying British.

As a messenger for the Boston rebels, Revere rode thousands of miles. The first ride was to New York and Philadelphia with word of the Tea Party. Later he reported that the British had closed the port of Boston in retaliation.

As a prelude to his famous midnight ride, Revere rode to Lexington, Mass., to warn Sam Adams and John Hancock that the British might be coming for them, and he sent word to Concord that the troops might try to seize their arms.

Afraid he might not get out of Boston when the British actually marched, Revere set up his famous lantern signals. Rowing beneath the guns of a British warship, he got through to Lexington the evening of April 18, 1775.

Revere was captured on the way to Concord, but Samuel Prescott, a young physician he had met on the road, escaped and alarmed Concord.

Released by the British, Revere returned to Lexington and agreed to rescue a trunk of papers Hancock had left behind. He strolled through the ranks of Minutemen lining up on Lexington Green. From a window of Buckman's Tavern, he saw the British approach while he was retrieving the trunk. He hurriedly walked back through the American lines as the British drew up. When the first shots of the revolution were fired, Paul Revere was trudging away with John Hancock's trunk.

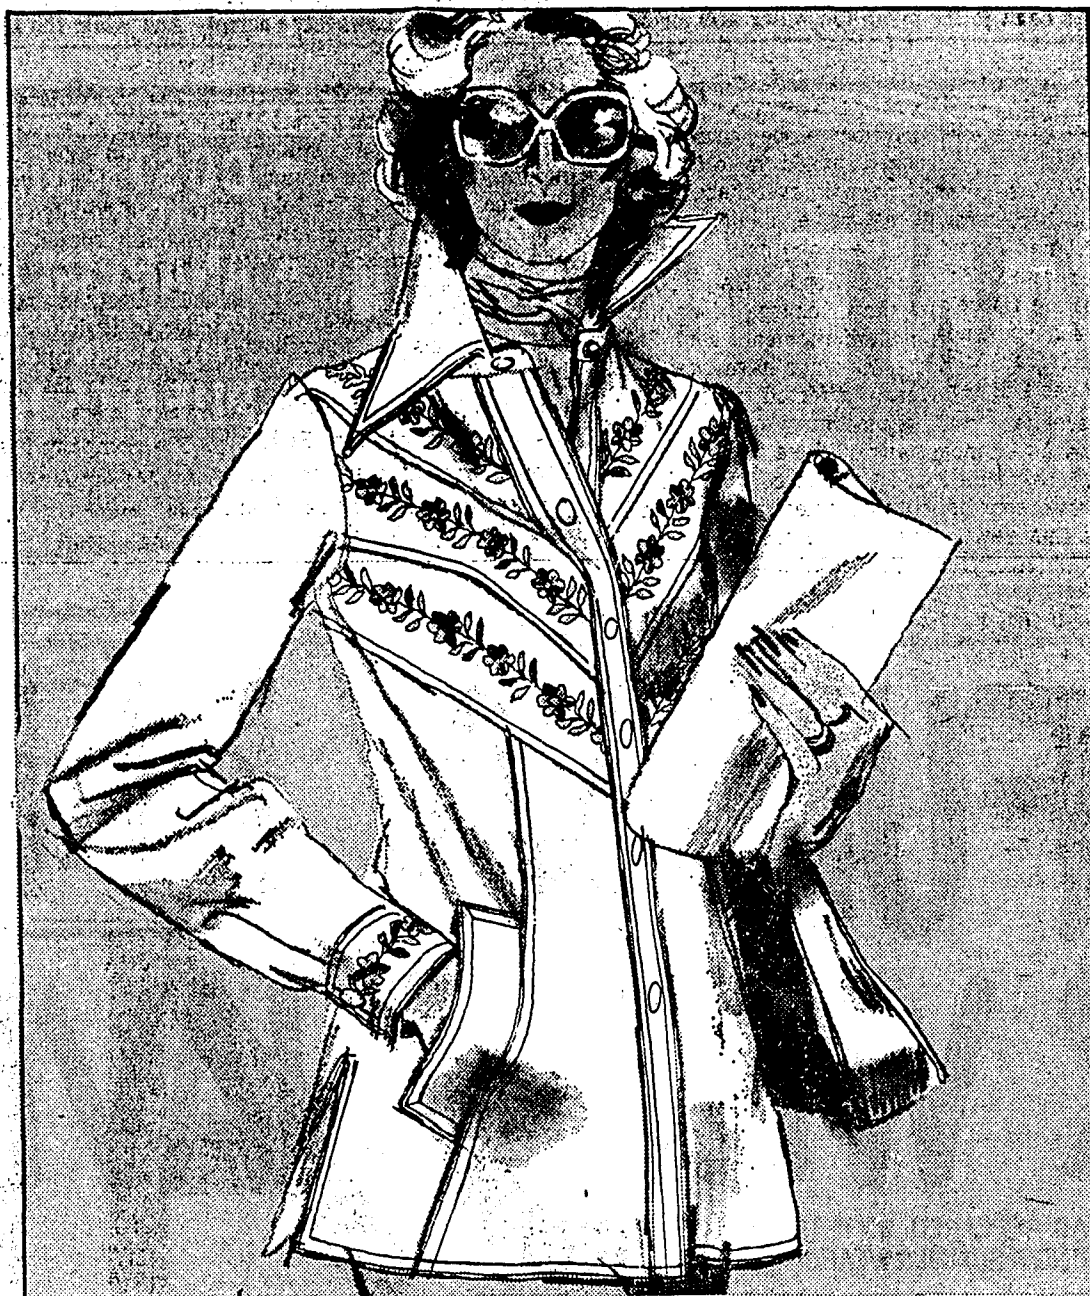

Unable to reopen his shop, Revere, then 40, became an express rider for the colony at five shillings a day. Then he was engaged to engrave plates to print money for Massachusetts and the Continental Congress, and he created the first official seal of the new nation. Revere built a powder mill and cast cannons for the Continental Army. He was commander of the American garrison at Castle Island and earned the everlasting enmity of the navy by firing on American ships which refused to give up deserters from his fort.

After the war Revere did some of his best silver work. He also set up a foundry which produced the copper fittings for "Old Ironsides," and he became a renowned caster of bells.

Revere invented a process for rolling copper into sheets and produced the plate for Old Ironsides' hull, the dome of the Boston Statehouse, and boilers for Robert Fulton's steamboats. He became a leader of stature, a man to be reckoned with and not just a celebrity. Now it was his opinions and not just his services which counted.

When the U.S. Constitution came before the Massachusetts convention, the mechanics of Boston feared that Sam Adams would oppose it. A mass meeting was held at the Green Dragon Tavern and ratification unanimously endorsed. Revere headed the delegation which called on Adams. "How many," demanded Adams, "were gathered together when this resolution was passed?" "More sir," replied Revere, "than the Green Dragon could hold."

"In the streets, sir." "And how many in the streets?" "More, sir, than there are stars in the sky." Adams voted for ratification.

Fighting Dog Rings Broken Up In Southland

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fighting dog rings in four Southern California counties were broken in raids early Wednesday, authorities said.

About 120 illegal pit bulls raids culminated a four-month cooperative investigation by the Los Angeles, Kern, Riverside and San Bernardino sheriff departments.

Warrants were issued for 29 persons for investigation of possession and training of fighting animals, deputies said.

Tired Of Talk, Arizona Man Builds His Own Solar Energy System

By DON O'NEIL
YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Ed Hansberger has decided it's time to do something about solar energy — something besides talking.

Installed on the roof of his 10-unit apartment complex is a solar energy collection system for heating in the winter and cooling in the summer.

"While all the experts and others have been talking about solar energy and how it could be harnessed, I figured I'd just go ahead and see what could be done," he said.

"A lot of solar energy systems have been devised throughout the country, but most of them have been to provide heat. My system will not only heat, it will cool my apartments," he said.

Hansberger is more than the typical landlord, however. He's also owner of Hansberger Refrigeration and Electric Co. And he lives in a city which probably has more sunshine than any other area of the country — 4,000 hours a year.

Put another way, the sun shines here nearly 95 per cent of all daylight hours.

Hansberger said he began collecting information on solar systems more than two years ago, studied reports and read everything he could on the subject.

"I worked on small experimental models of collecting systems for a year," he said. "I used various kinds of collecting agents — water, oil, gases, etc."

But current studies about solar electric cells and other ways to store electricity held no interest to him.

With the sunny climate here, Hansberger decided the best way to heat his apartments was to store and then transfer the heat. The best way to cool the apartments, he said, was to use the heat for power.

Here is the system he devised:

Water in a 1,800-gallon storage tank on the ground is pumped through insulated aluminum tubing to the collectors on the roof. The water flows through the collectors, absorbing heat. It is then piped back to the storage tank, where it transfers the heat to the water around one of several copper coils. The coil contains water which absorbs the heat and is then pumped to fan coils for each apartment in the two buildings.

The apartment fan coils then receive heat for the apartments and the water in the tubing is then pumped back to the storage tank for more heat.

While temperatures up to boiling in the storage tank could be obtained during the summer, Hansberger said, the system is modified to keep it cooler than that — about 115 degrees.

"Otherwise," he said, "someone could be scalded in the bath or shower."

The system becomes a little more complicated for cooling. Here's how that works:

Within the storage tank are four seats of coils — one for heating.

Another one obtains heat from the storage tank for domestic hot water and a third transfers the heat obtained from the roof collectors to the water in the storage tank. The fourth coil is for refrigeration.

The cooling systems use a special agent—freon 12—to be pumped through the storage tank and converted into steam. The freon 12 boils at 165 degrees.

As steam, it operates a pump which will push the refrigerant gas through pipes running into the apartments and back to the cooling tower, where the heat collected from the rooms is discharged.

The heating portion of the system has been in operation this winter and Hansberger said the refrigeration system will be ready for summer.

The only outside power needed for the system is electricity to operate motors to pump the water and for heating and refrigeration auxiliary systems, he said.

The auxiliary systems, he said, would be needed about three days in January for heating and during the summer on exceptionally hot days.

Hansberger said there is almost no loss of heat overnight, although the water in the tank tends to layer from warmest on top to coldest on the bottom.

There are, however, some minor disadvantages.

The solar panels are made of glass—which he noted could break. While plastics could be used, he said, they do not block infrared rays as glass does. The sun's rays pass through the glass and bounce back, but are then trapped within the enclosure. Plastic does not block the rays from bouncing back out, he said.

And while the system will reduce utility bills, Hansberger said it initially costs at least three times that of the conventional system now in use.

"The only way this system at this particular stage of development can be profitable," he said, "is over a period of about 20 years. The investment can be recovered through savings on utility bills and through almost complete lack of maintenance costs."

Small Volunteer Army Planned By Barbados

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Barbados plans to establish a small army, but not everyone is happy about the idea.

Prime Minister Errol Barrow told the House of Assembly that the Barbados regiment, mainly a volunteer force, would be upgraded and a permanent defense force set up. Plans were for a complement of up to 80 soldiers in the initial stages to be trained for what he called "local duties" and who would take over some duties now carried out by the police force.

The defense force was expected to be supplemented by the current regiment, which is over 200 strong.

Reservations about the need for an army on this Caribbean island came from Frank Walcott, general secretary of the powerful Barbados Workers' Union.

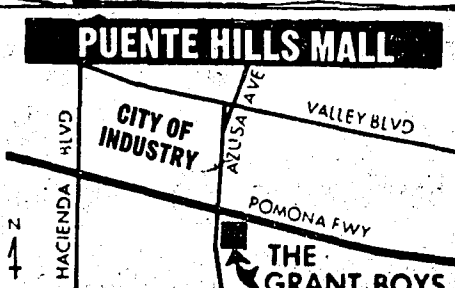

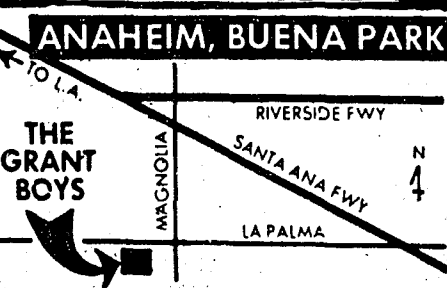

He warned of danger in arming people who did not have enough work to do and said some politicians would use any means and subvert any agency to capture political power. An army could tempt them, he said.

Leonel Craig, of the opposition Barbados Labor party, expressed concern that the government could use soldiers against its political opponents.

SANTA ANA — The Santa Ana Winds will appear in parades in Carlsbad and Lakewood this month.

On Sunday the Winds will participate in the 29th annual Saludos Amigos parade in Lakewood, part of that city's Pan-American Festival.

Their next appearance will be in the parade in Carlsbad-by-the-Sea on April 26.

RIVERSIDE — Mark King, a sophomore at California Baptist College, has been named to the President's List for the fall semester. King obtained a 4.0 GPA on a 4.0 scale.

King, a religion major, is a 1973 graduate of Heritage High in Anaheim.

LONG BEACH — Two comedies, "The Real Inspector Hound," by Tom Stoppard and "The Collected Works of Billy the Kid," based on the works by Michale Onatje, will be presented by New Directions Ensemble of Cal State Long Beach on April 24, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the University Studio Theatre, 6101 E. 7th St.

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Golden West College's student newspaper, the "Branding Iron," placed fourth best in the state at the recent convention of the California Journalism Association of Community Colleges.

Entered in the large school, tabloid category, the "Branding Iron" won its high ranking on the basis of five consecutive issues, four edited by John Lamb, and one by Bill Hodge, both of Huntington Beach.

ANAHEIM — The Magnolia High School Music Department and Drill Team Booster Club will hold its annual swap meet-carnival from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 26 in the school parking lot, 2450 W. Ball Road. All proceeds will be used to buy instruments and uniforms for the band and drill team, a spokesman said.

ANAHEIM — The next fund-raising paper drive for the Anaheim High School band will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday in the school parking lot. Magazines and telephone directories no longer are being accepted, a band booster spokesman said. All proceeds are used to support the band.

FULLERTON — The days of yore will live again at Cal State Fullerton April 28-May 2, when the university presents its third annual Medieval Festival.

The festival will focus on the Middle Ages through literature, music, arts and sciences. Among the activities scheduled are marionettes, plays in several languages, displays of the art and handicraft of the period, music, sword-play, lectures and films.

CORONA DEL MAR — M. Raymond Neuville, cultural attache to the French Embassy, and M. George Duca, Director of the Federation of the Alliances Francaises in the United States, will preside over the awarding of prizes won by high school and college students of Orange County in a competition of spoken French.

The meeting, open to the pub-

Journalism Student Gets First Place

SANTA ANA — Travis Williams, Santa Ana College journalism major, has captured first place honors in the on-the-spot news writing contest sponsored by the Journalism Association of Community Colleges.

Williams, a special assignment writer and former editor with SAC's student publication "El Don," took the top prize with a news account of a speech by juvenile judge Joseph Sorrentino.

Williams already holds four writing awards in competition sponsored by the journalism fraternity Beta Phi Gamma and by the Orange County Press Club.

Other SAC students who won honors in the competition were Mark Vogue of Orange and Mike Brossart of Santa Ana.

Vogue, the current editor of "El Don," won sixth place in editorial writing. Brossart, a sports writer on the El Don staff, won fifth place in the news category.

Cypress Show Highlights Work Of 16 Weavers

CYPRESS — A three-week Invitational Dimensional Fiber Show, featuring 16 Southern California weavers, will be held in the fine arts gallery at Cypress College beginning Monday.

Show emphasis will be on work that can project from a wall, hang from a ceiling or be viewed in the round. Techniques will include weaving, knotting, wrapping, crochet, braiding, coiling and pool knitting.

Show hours will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Computer Data Given To CSF

FULLERTON — Computer equipment and software worth $15,000 has been given to Cal State Fullerton by Microdata Corp. of Irvine.

The equipment will be used to supply laboratory experience to about 300 graduate and undergraduate computer science students, said Dr. Ben C. Edmondson, professor of quantitative methods.

The gift includes a Microdata Model 821 computer along with a cross-assembler, cross-micro assembler and simulator.

Success 'Shadows' Welles; Baldwin At OCC; Disc Club To Meet

By GARY LYCAN

Has success spoiled the Shadow? Not at all, says Orson Welles, one of four men to portray crime-fighter L. A. Mont Cranston. In fact, he says success has made him more of a renegade today than when he was making more money as an anonymous radio actor.

"A real renegade has to be someone who is more interested in what he is doing than in what he is. And in your early 20s there's a kind of arrogance, and that ego drains away when you get older. And you no longer love what you are doing," says Welles.

But he is the living exception to his statement. He's still the renegade; his creative juices flow like fine wine. He takes acting-narration roles and pours the income into his own efforts as a producer and director.

Consider for a moment "Citizen Kane," considered to be one of the cinema's greatest films. On July 30, 1940, Welles, just turned 25, stepped on the set at RKO and said: "It's the most beautiful toy train anybody ever gave an adult." Twelve weeks later, at a cost of $850,000, "Kane" was completed. For the same price today, you could turn out four TV episodes of Six Million Dollar Man.

Viewers rarely see Welles, the man. But last week he was casual and candid in a conversation with Tom Snyder on the NBC-TV Tomorrow program. Did you know he couldn't do

Sunday... The 1974 Monterey Festival rides in on Jazz Waves at 8 p.m. Saturday starting April 26. Playing sets will be Eubie Blake, George Shearing, Dill Jones and Martial Solal. Mel Blanc drew a large crowd at last week's Cal State Fullerton appearance. Coincidentally, The Old Movie Theater on Harbor Boulevard in Anaheim is presenting The Golden Age of Movie Cartoons, 1935-45, from April 23-29. Blanc's recollections of Jack Benny are described in the current National Enquirer... KTTV Channel 11 will start airing soon a package of Jack Benny half-hour film episodes.

Veteran announcer Bill Baldwin visits Jerry Lenington's Orange Coast College class at 7 p.m. next Monday in science room 10. He guested on Inside Radio last Sunday on KLAC and recalled Dick Whittinghill hired him when he came to Los Angeles in 1949. "At that time," he said, "the late Bob Kelley and Sam Balter were the dominant voices in sportscasting." I wonder whatever happened to Sam Balter?

Mr. Blackwell fans will be happy to know he's returning to radio in May with a Monday through Friday show on KIEV 870 AM in Glendale. More details to come... KMET 94.7 FM will review the week's most popular albums on The Great American Rock Countdown, to air 2-5 p.m. Sundays beginning KMPC's all-night show was wed last weekend...

The Orange County Record Collectors will hold its first meeting at 1 p.m. Sunday at The Bookman, 9628 Garden Grove Blvd., Garden Grove. George Moore, Orange, says there is plenty of parking at rear of the store. Moore can be reached after 6:30 p.m. at 537-0162... Reader C.R. Silvey, Santa Ana, listens to Hub Warner's excellent big bands program Sunday nights on KBOI 670 AM. He's interested in acquiring Jan Garber recordings, with vocalist Lee Bennett... H.G. Orange, asks for the name of the tenor in the original Link Spots. Mailed answers to this column would be appreciated.

Nostalgia film buffs may want to see "Hollywood/Canteen." It will be on in two parts, 4 p.m. Monday and Tuesday next week on KBSC, Channel 52. On April 30 KBSC screens "Go Into Your Dance" with Al Jolson, Ruby Keeler, Helen Morgan... Moviegoers will long remember Frederic March in "The Best Years of Our Lives." Now ABC-TV will screen a series pilot based on the film. It's called "Returning Home." Lorimar (Waltons) produced it. It airs 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 29. If you think you hear Westbrook Van Voorhees narrating the black and white footage at the opening, you're wrong. It's Charlie Dugdale, KNXT's cheery-sounding morning announcer... Channel 50 screens at 6:30 p.m. Saturday "Memories of Prince Albert Hunt," the story of a man from Terrell, Tex., who spent his life singing and fiddling and stubbornly clinging to his own sense of style 50 years before the "Texas country music scene" became a topic of conversation.

If you're from the Midwest, "Died Young" may strike a few memories. The story of the birth, decline and death of the most massive railroad terminal ever built in America will be told in a telecast at 9 p.m. next Tuesday (repeated 6:30 p.m. April 26) on Channel 50. The Cincinnati Union Terminal, dedicated in 1933 had incomparable art deco architecture and Italian mosaic wall murals which turned the building into a national tourist attraction. Trivia testing is the name of the game in a new Signet paperback, The Official TV Trivia Quiz Book, with 1,001 questions and answers and eight pages of photos... And if you're still game, ABC-TV airs a 90-minute salute to What's My Line May 28 to mark that show's 25th anniversary... $64,000 Question is being re-

Mystery Theater

CBS Mystery Theater, 9:06 p.m. Sunday through Saturday, KNX, 1070.

Today, "Through the Looking Glass," starring Jack Grimes, with E.G. Marshall, host. An automobile engineer is stunned when his neighbor offers to give him—for free—the patent to a motor powered by solar energy.

Friday, April 18, "A Challenge for the Dead," starring Howard Da Silva. A dedicated, almost fanatic, policeman determines to pin a killing on the city's biggest racketeer, even though they were boyhood chums.

Saturday, April 19, "Death on Skis," starring Rosemary Murphy (rebroadcast). Despite the warning of her mystery-novelist husband, a young blonde woman blithely goes skiing with a man she hardly knows to a remote mountain hut where two other blondes have been slain.

Sunday, April 20, "Death in the Stars," starring Kim Hunter (rebroadcast). A woman who inherited a newspaper empire reads a prediction of her death in the astrology column of one of her papers.

Monday, April 21, "Sing of Death," starring William Prince. A bizarre clock tells victims of a killer the exact time they will die.

Tuesday, April 22, "The Sire de Maletroit's Door," starring Michael Wager (rebroadcast). Based on Robert Louis Stevenson's classic story about a case of mistaken identity and a door designed to trap a young lothario.

Wednesday, April 23, "Afraid to Live—Afraid to Die," starring Jada Rowland. A 99-year-old woman who, some say, is possessed by the devil, terrorizes the new young maid in her house.

College Enrollment Slowdown Predicted

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has projected a slowing in college enrollment to the mid-1980s, a declining growth rate late in that decade to about 1990, and then gradually increasing enrollment rates. Total enrollments were projected at 9.7 million in 1973; 11.5 million in 1980; 12.1 million in 1985; 11.8 million in 1990; 12.2 million in 1995 and 12.8 million in 2000.

In the first of what is expected to be an annual series of commentaries on schooling, the board of trustees of the foundation said colleges and universities, though facing reduced growth and expenditure rates, can survive nonetheless and help serve "great public purposes."

Despite hardships, colleges and universities can extend access to all who want it while maintaining their capacity for research, the board said.

The board released its commentary at the University of Utah during a news conference by Pauline Tompkins, chairman of the board; Alan Pifer, foundation president; and Clark Kerr, chairman of the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education.

Leaders of the institutions were urged to develop flexibility in use of funds, faculty and space and to determine, as accurately as possible, factors shaping their future course.

WILLIAM B. WILLIAMS IS VETERAN DISC JOCKEY
Show Now Aired Friday, Sunday On KION 88.1

The Shadow's voice each week until someone else did it first so he could imitate it?

Or that radio's War of the Worlds was the Mercury Theater's lowest-rated production of that 1939 season? It was. If you missed the show, it's understandable — last week's Oscar "yawn 'til dawn" show nearly pushed Welles into Sunrise Semester.

Fortunately, the program is to air again—at 1 a.m. Thursday, May 1 on Channel 4—because the computers clipped off four minutes and inserted commercials in the middle of the Welles' comments. If you're an admirer of Welles, it's worth your attention.

P.S. RCA has released Citizen Kane — the Classic Film Scores of Bernard Herrmann (ARL-0707), newly recorded by Charles Gerhardt and the National Philharmonic Orchestra. The LP's music is presented as an authentic reminiscence of the picture and includes complete notes and movie stills for film fans.

WORDS AND MUSIC: The top winners of the 1975 Metropolitan Opera Auditions will perform in a concert to be aired at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday on KION 88.1 FM... Danny Kaye looks in at the Metropolitan Opera at 5 p.m. Sunday, April 27, on Channel 2. He will go backstage in a learning-can-be-fun session. Radio broadcasts began Dec. 25, 1931 and have been sponsored by Texaco for 35 years...

The Met's home station here, KFAC 1330 AM, and 92.5 FM on Saturday mornings, is offering listeners a "Where to Sit" guide complete with seating diagrams of Los Angeles area entertainment facilities and a listing of more than 500 movie theaters and phone numbers. Price, including mailing, is $5.45. Interested persons can write KFAC Radio, Los Angeles, CA 90036.

One of radio's best known disc jockeys, William B. Williams, is now on KION 88.1 FM. "William B. & Company" airs at 4:30 p.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday and features the music and talents of performers like Peggy Lee, Sammy Davis and Mel Tormé.

Williams, a top-rated New York DJ since 1944, says he "plays music for the way it sounds, not sells." He's a close friend of Sinatra and coined the nickname "Chairman of the Board." On TV, he's sidekick to Sammy on Davis' new Sunday night NBC-TV program.

KION's schedule bridges the musical spectrum. This is Ragtime documents classical ragtime composer Joseph Lamb at 6 p.m. today and 1:30 p.m.

'Janis' Paints Fine Portrait Of Moods, Music Of Rock's 'Blues' Lady

By VERN PERRY
Register Staff Writer

Janis Joplin has been dead nearly five years.

Today, the deep-throated, free-living blues singer remains as much an enigma as when she died of an accidental overdose of heroin in October, 1970.

At least two recent biographies have attempted to give the public "the true story" of Janis, but as most critics observed they told little that was not already known and what new aspects were included added little to understanding Ms. Joplin as a person.

It is to the credit of Canadian film maker F.R. Crawley that he did not attempt to reveal any new insights to the life of Ms. Joplin in his new movie, "Janis."

Instead, what emerges from the Universal Studios production is something that could never be accomplished in the printed media—a reverent, exciting and totally entertaining musical biography of the greatest modern female blues singer.

By using film clips of such locales as the famed Woodstock festival, the Monterey Pop festival, a Canadian tour, a European tour and a studio recording session, "Janis" supplies ample evidence why Ms. Joplin was considered such a dynamic performer.

The film, currently playing at the United Artists Theater in Westwood, also gives people who became fans after Ms. Joplin's death a chance to see what they missed when she was alive.

Whether she is singing with Big Brother and the Holding Company, the San Francisco-based group in which Janis launched her musical career, or with her own later bands, the Kosmic Blues Band and the Full Tilt Boogie Band, Ms. Joplin loved and lived her music.

One interesting scene comes in the recording studio where an engineer is arguing with band members and Ms. Joplin about a note change in a song. Ms. Joplin and the band members win the argument by simply saying that in the end it is going to be the vocal that is listened too and remembered.

The music in "Janis" gives a good representation of the various blues styles Ms. Joplin managed to go through in her three brief years as a top female vocalist. Songs featured include: "Mercedes Benz," "Ball and Chain," "Tell Mama," "Kosmic Blues," "Cry Baby," "Try," "Move Over," "Comin' Home," "Summertime," "The Good Days," "I Can't Turn You Loose," "Me," "Maybe," "Piece of My Heart" and "Me and Bobby McGee."

Although "Janis" deals mainly with Ms. Joplin's music, it does not exclude her personal side.

Interspersed throughout the film are bits of interviews with her fellow classmates, wearing very conservative clothes and haircuts, mingle around sipping drinks.

She begins the interview in a good, joking mood, but as she progresses telling how her fellow students considered her an outcast—so much so that she was not even invited to her high school prom "because no one would be seen with me"—she is nearly moved to tears.

From that brief glimpse into the emotional side of Ms. Joplin it is very easy to understand that Janis did more than sing the blues—she lived them.

And died them.

Ms. Joplin was found dead in Los Angeles Oct. 4, 1970, from what the coroner's office termed an accidental overdose of heroin.

After viewing the film clip of Janis at her high school reunion it is not too hard to believe that perhaps she died of loneliness.

LH School Board Elects

LA HABRA—Mrs. Martha Sykess has been elected president of La Habra City School District board.

Seymour Re-Elected

ANAHEIM — Councilman John Seymour has been re-elected mayor pro-tem.

Seymour, a local real estate broker, was elected to the council in April, 1974, and served as mayor pro-tem this past year.

Mayor Bill Thom, a member of the council since 1970, was elected mayor in a general election in April, 1974. His two-year term in that office will expire next spring.

Elected to other board posts were Avert Bullington, vice-president, and Richard Finley, clerk. Supt. Warren Kraft will serve as secretary.

In other action trustees said they will respond to district teachers' initial salary proposal during their meeting on April 24.

Teachers are asking a 10 percent pay hike plus an employees' benefits package that the district staff has not yet estimated. Last year teachers received an increase of about 7 per cent.

8 From OC In Scholarship 'Semis'

Eight Orange County community college students have advanced to the semi-finals of the California Community College Awards contests, and each is assured of at least a $250 check.

Nine schools in the county sent four representatives each to the regional competition in Anaheim recently, in fields of business, science-engineering, social science-humanities and technical-vocational.

To win the contest, sponsored by the Bank of America, students must discuss with a panel of authorities, an unannounced topic within their field of study.

The four finalists will receive $2,000, four others $1,000 each and four others $500 each.

Curtis Clark, Santa Ana; John Mayberry, Fullerton; Marilyn Foldenauer, Fullerton; Janet Kudlac, Riverside Community; Rebecca Brown, Riverside Community; Robin Stillwell, Cypress; Chris Street, Orange Coast and Paul Whittington, Cypress.

Finals will be held in Los Angeles April 25.

Career In Law Only Months Away For Blind Vietnam Vet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Doug Sloten has a bookcase filled with legal texts in his apartment to testify that he is a law student. But the tape recording and dictating equipment on his desk reveal more.

Sloten, 28, is blind. Instead of reading the texts, other persons read them to him. At other times he listens to them on his tape recorder.

Sloten will graduate from Arizona State University's College of Law this spring. In August, he will become an attorney for the Federal Communications Commission in Washington.

Sloten lost his sight only five years ago, when he was stationed with an Army reconnaissance platoon in Vietnam. He had been in Vietnam only five weeks when he stepped on a land mine. His right leg was amputated above the knee and he lost his sight.

Sloten spent 17 days on the hospital ship Sanctuary. And he credits the ship's staff, particularly one nurse, with motivating him to overcome his handicaps.

"I talked with her quite a bit about a lot of things. She'd come down two or three times a week and we'd chat about everything," he said.

Later, at the Hines, Ill., Veterans Administration Hospital, Sloten was fitted with an artificial leg. He also learned braille.

Characterizing himself as a pragmatist, Sloten says he never lost faith in the importance of his rehabilitation.

ize it's (blindness) a whole new world in some ways. In another way, it's the same world. It's a sight-oriented world and you're not going to leave it. First you must learn to function in the inner world of the blind. Then you must learn to function in the outer world."

A graduate of the University of Iowa before he was drafted, Sloten decided in January 1972 to enter law school.

He said he had to learn a new way of studying, using tape recorders, readers and dictating machines.

Sloten lives alone in a student-filled apartment complex near the Arizona State campus. A maid helps clean his apartment. He eats most of his meals at a nearby restaurant, partly for convenience, and partly because he enjoys socializing with other regular customers.

In spite of his war experience, he says he is not bitter — "I'm luckier than a lot of people who didn't come back and luckier than a lot who did."

WINE MAKING CLASS

Thirst For Knowledge Leads To Chemistry

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dozens of college students who signed up for what they believed was a wine making course got a shock. They found themselves studying basic chemistry.

Instead of being merry with the fruitful grape, the students taking Dr. Frank E. Juge's classes on "The Science of Wine and Wine Making" are learning about chemical reactions and formulas.

Juge, 34, decided to use the wine making process to teach science after only seven students enrolled last fall in his basic chemistry course at Florida Technological University.

"We had to cancel the course because we needed a minimum of 10 students," Juge said. "So then I decided to devise a way of still offering a valid course in science but at the same time capturing students' imagination."

The name change worked and Juge at the first class showed students. Eleven later dropped out apparently because they discovered they would not be "drinking wine and having a lot of fun and games," Juge added.

A questionnaire circulated by Juge at the first class showed that most of the students enrolled to learn about wine appreciation.

"We are not trying to deceive people," Juge said. "But merely to whet a thirst for knowledge and overcome many people's fear of chemistry."

Juge, who admits his own first attempts at wine making were unsuccessful, said he will never leave the general topic of wine in his classroom lectures and will use it to demonstrate various chemical processes.

"But there will be only one short demonstration on how to make wine," he added. "You can always get biology or chemistry majors to take science courses but the big challenge is trying to teach it to nonmajors and make it interesting."

Dr. C. B. Gambrell, vice president of academic affairs, said he was impressed by Juge's approach of making "science both meaningful and useful."

Award Finalists

Two local high school seniors have been named as finalists for two four-year college scholarships sponsored by Southern California Edison Co., P.L. Martin, division manager for the electric utility, announced.

The students are Donald J. Brotemarkle, 2391 Comstock St., Orange, Costa Mesa High School; and Kenneth V. Rousseau, 2213 E. Revere Drive, Fullerton, Troy High School.

Paper Wins State Prize

CYPRESS — The Hoofbeat, Cypress College's weekly newspaper, has been named the best campus newspaper within its class in the state by the Journalism Association of Community Colleges.

The award came at a convention of community college journalists in Anaheim. The Cypress honor was in the division of small colleges with full sized newspapers.

In addition to the top award for general excellence, Cypress students also won five individual awards—the highest number of honors for any community college in Orange County.

Joseph S. Swallow, past editor of the Cypress campus magazine, took a third place award in graphic illustration and a fourth place honors for editorial cartooning.

Sean Hawthorne won third place in freestyle writing; Pamela Smegal won fourth place in front page layout; and Jan Nocian was fourth in news photography.

The newspaper is produced through an editing class at the college and is distributed free to students.

Paddling Not OK With School Chief

PITTSBURG (AP) — A 19-year-old politician who wants to curb spanking in schools and give students a bill of rights has been elected school board president — one of the youngest in the nation.

Joseph Canciamilla was elected president last week by his fellow board members — a doctor, an attorney, a probation officer and a housewife — all in their 30s, 40s and 50s.

On becoming board president, Canciamilla immediately proposed a program for improving the district. He called for public hearings on program priorities, workshops for trustees at various schools and requiring parental permission for corporal punishment.

Canciamilla, who turns 20 on Saturday, was believed to be the nation's youngest school trustee when he was elected at the age of 17 to the 7,000-student Pittsburg Unified School District.

He is a student at Los Medanos College in this community of 26,000.

Cypress Team In U.S. Finals

After scoring a number of successes in state competition, the Cypress College forensics team participated this week in the national forensics tournament in Sacramento.

Pat Ganer, director of forensics at Cypress, was elated over the team's performance during the California Community College Forensics Association state tournament at Fresno City College. Moorpark College, edging Modesto College, 61-60, Cypress finished in 11th place.

State Tour On Tap

HUNTINGTON BEACH — A tour of California May 8 through 14 is planned for the Huntington Beach High School choir to "let students get the feel of traveling like professional musicians," according to director Michael-Jo Scheibe. The group will perform in seven cities.

Here come the pie throwers. Stalking their targets in classrooms and cafes, on campus and maybe even on Capitol Hill, they are pushing pies in the faces of unsuspecting citizens.

The fad started almost a year ago with the establishment of Pie Kill Unlimited in New York. Rex Welner, the organizer, was a former political prankster who decided that "politicians shouldn't have a monopoly on dirty tricksters."

For a fee of $40 and up, Welner and his crew throw pies in offices and at conventions and parties.

The practice appears to have spread, with some of the pie throwers operating on an amateur basis and others organizing into money-making groups.

Most of the victims apparently take their faceful of pie filling or shaving cream in good humor, but a few have filed charges.

Bruce Vallone, 20, of Cranston, R.I., was charged with assaulting a teacher at his former high school after he and three other young men entered Cranston High School and tossed a pie at Albert J. Gambardella. Vallone has pleaded innocent.

A teacher at Wilson Junior High in Glendale, Calif., made a citizen's arrest after her glasses were knocked off when a 14-year-old girl, who was moving to Florida the next day, took aim with a cream pie. The girl was released in her father's custody and left town as scheduled.

Two Groton, Conn., high school students were charged with breach of the peace and reckless endangerment when they threw a shaving cream pie at a science teacher. Officials decided not to prosecute one of the students and the other case was expected to be dropped. The principal said the incident "started out as a joke and backfired" when the teacher struggled, cutting his knee and tearing his clothing.

The pie throwers pick their targets carefully. A group called Pie in the Eye, Inc., at the University of South Carolina, said it would throw pies at anyone if the price was right. The group turned down an offer of $75 to hit Gov. James B. Edwards, saying the fee wasn't high enough "considering all the possible consequences." Chip Wilsol, 21, a University of Maryland student, is a professional thrower for "Pie Face International" of Washington D.C.

Wilson and his associate, Lou Frank, a student in College Park, Md., demonstrated their technique in a recent $35 "hit" on Jim Reid, an IBM employee who was celebrating his birthday at a bar in Bethesda, Md. "Business seems to be picking up," said Frank. "We now have a 24-hour answering service. We have one contract on a congressman, already paid for by another congressman." Wilson said the two deliver only "friendly pies. We have been getting lots of requests from ex-wives, for example, but we turn them down."

O.C. HIGH SCHOOLS TAKE TOP HONORS IN FARM JUDGING

B9 The REGISTER
Thursday, April 17, 1975

LOS ANGELES — Orange County high schools walked off with top honors at the 29th annual Future Farmers of America agricultural judging field day at Mt. San Antonio College, including the Allan Sherman Memorial Sweepstakes Trophy.

The event is sponsored by Security Pacific Bank and the MSAC Young Farmers. The sweepstakes award, named in memory of the late MSAC agricultural sciences department chairman, went to Sonora High School (La Habra) for accumulating the most team and individual points.

The more than 900 students from some 50 high schools throughout Southern California attending the all day event evaluated and identified a variety of agri-business projects and implements in 10 agricultural classes.

The contests are designed to build proficiency and knowledge in agriculture by placing students in the role of judges and testing their expertise both within and without their chosen specialty.

Two contests are held for both individual and the five-member school team categories. The "A" team and "A" individual awards were given to students with at least one year of vocational agriculture, while the "B" team and "B" individual honors were for first year students.

The top 10 "A" team schools in descending order were: Sonora, Sunny Hills (Fullerton), Placentia (Valencia), La Habra, Brea, Fullerton, Cleveland (Reseda), Buena Park, Carpinteria and Gardena.

The first 10 schools placing in the "B" team category were: Sonora, Fullerton, Sunny Hills, Cleveland, La Habra, Carson, Buena Park, Carpinteria, Brea-Olinda and Narbonne (Harbor City).

High individuals in the "A" category were: Gerald Scott, Fullerton; Kim Topp, Placentia; Sandy Trotter, La Habra; Ken Renck, Fullerton; Kim Walling, Sunny Hills; Sherry Altepeter, Fullerton; Nicky Rutledge, La Habra; Dana Hutchinson, Sonora; Carol Horine, Sonora and Annette Ackerman, Narbonne.

High individuals in the "B" category through tenth place were: Greg Malley, Sonora; Crystie Guthrie, Cleveland; Stacey Murphy, Cleveland; Ken Kuttner, Sunny Hills; Cary Teexler, Fullerton; Erin Moore, Fullerton; Matt Reiter, Sonora; Robin Cary, Buena Park; Jennifer Shell, Sunny Hills and Clay Hanna, Carson.

On the collegiate level, awards were given to Young College and Danny Arauz, Canis Farmer participants who competed on an individual basis only. The Young Farmer winner was Jan McKelvey of Pierce College (Woodland Hills) followed by Beth Lowe, Ventura College and Dave Person, all three of Pierce College.

This marks the 21st year Security Pacific Bank has sponsored FFA field days, competition and awards banquet throughout California.

Hotline Marks Anniversary

ANAHEIM — Melodyland Hotline Center will celebrate six years of community service April 21-26. This time of commemoration will be highlighted by three special events.

A hotline hour at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday will feature Hotline's Grammy Award nominees "Psalm 150" and speakers Dick Mills and Debbie Mills.

Next will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Gordon Sloan will host and Chico Holiday will be special guest. Winding up the festivities will be a pancake breakfast-crafts sale on Saturday morning.

Legislators Saluted

State Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-Anaheim, and Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, have been named outstanding legislators by the California Republican Assembly.

The group, the state's largest volunteer Republican organization, annually honors legislators dedicated to fiscal conservatism, constitutional and representative government, individual liberty, and a free-market economy.

Drill Teams Win

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Small precision teams from Marina High School's Valkyrie Drill Team placed first and fifth in state competition at Arroyo High School recently.

The first place team scored 98.5 points out of a possible 100, the highest ever given in state competition.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER

Dear Trouble Shooter

After viewing the success of your own Trouble Shooter Swap Meet, we decided that our school could certainly use a financial boost. So, the outside court yard of the Temple Beth Shalom of Orange County will be the setting for a huge flea market Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Included at the flea market will be handcrafted items, art, plants, jewelry, etc. There also will be antiques and collectible items. A small admission charge will be made.

Food and drinks will be available. We have a special guest celebrity available to answer questions and give appraisals of family heirlooms. Exhibitors can call (714) 835-8484 for information.

knocked themselves out preparing Easter eggs (40 dozen!) for an egg hunt. They provided Easter pails with shovels and a spaghetti dinner for the kids. The children, and everyone else who attended the party, really enjoyed themselves.

All that, and guess what we did? We gave The Register reporter who covered the story the wrong name for the group!

We're really sorry for the inconvenience our error may have caused and we'd like to make sure that everyone knows the All American 4-Wheelers is the group that sponsored this beautiful party for our handicapped children. They did a wonderful job and certainly deserve recognition for their efforts.

COLLECT COOKBOOKS?

Dear Trouble Shooter

Last February, I personally carried to your office from our board members a letter describing the Vanguero Cook Book published by the Rancho Alamitos High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association, along with an autographed copy for you. Since that time, board members and myself have faithfully watched your column for an acknowledgement of same.

I gave the letter and book to a lady in your office who assured me they would be passed on to you.

The recipes are cherished ones from our members, friends and teacher, as well as a special section compiled by students of the school cooking class.

The cost of a copy is a very modest $2.50. No sales tax. All profits will go to further PTSA efforts on behalf of student at Rancho Los Alamitos High School. Books can be ordered (please add 35 cents for packing and postage) from: Rancho PTSA, Rancho Los Alamitos High School, 11351 Dale Ave., Garden Grove 92641.

S.P.

Garden Grove

The little ladies who help the Ol' Trouble Shooter dig up answers to folks' questions have just told me straight out that since lots of people collect cookbooks, he ought to mention special cookbooks like yours in his column as a favor to those who like to cook. He's sorry you had such a long wait.

The Trouble Shooter reckons he also owes an apology to the Southern California Women's Club for the Deaf. They came out more than a year ago with a special cookbook (SCWCD Favorite Recipes) to raise funds for deaf programs throughout the state, including the program for the deaf at Santa Ana's Madison School, and a program for the mentally retarded deaf at Fairview State Hospital in Santa Ana.

The 345-page cookbook sells for $5 and can be ordered from Mrs. Melvin O'Neal, 2007 W. Adrin Way, Santa Ana 92704. It's filled with recipes that sound worth a try, such as "Chinese Noodle-Nut Candy," a dessert called "Creme de Menthe Cloud," "Ham-It-Up Skillet," and pages of "Kitchen-Snooping" hints, a few of which follow:

"For a new taste in beef stroganoff, try boiling the rice in apple cider."

"Always slice tomatoes vertically for salads, never horizontally. More juice stays in this prune."

RED FACES

Dear Trouble Shooter

Can you help us reach all the members of the All American 4-Wheelers by printing this letter?

Our faces are really red! On March 29, this fabulous group of people put on a beautiful Easter party at the Rehabilitation Institute of Orange County's facility. They went "all out" for our pre-school and Saturday recreation programs. The group brought Mickey Mouse, Pluto and Goofy from Disneyland and really

MV Strip Zoned 'Floodplain'

SANTA ANA — Nine miles of Trabuco Creek running along the southern edge of Mission Viejo were declared a floodplain Wednesday, limiting future development in the area.

Included in the new floodplain zoning is Hickey Creek, which runs into the Arroyo Trabuco near the boundary of Cleveland National Forest.

County supervisors approved the new zoning—which allows construction only if structures are "floodproofed"—routinely Wednesday with no opposition from property owners. Planners said most of the land is undeveloped, except for isolated dwelling along Hickey Creek and a fire station and elementary school near its junction with the Trabuco. All of the structures could be subject to flooding.

Worried property owners had been assured by planning commissioners in February that the floodplain zoning was not an attempt to keep land in permanent open space. New development would be allowed if structures were built on or behind levees or otherwise above the potential flood level.

Planners did warn, however, that the resource management program under review could set such areas aside in the future as permanent open space.

Trabuco Creek, running from the San Juan Capistrano city limits north to Cleveland National Forest, is the ninth floodplain to be designated by the county as part of the federally subsidized flood insurance program.

Knott's Fire Blamed On Arson

BUENA PARK—Firemen Wednesday said an arsonist set the fire that caused $3 million damage to the upper level of a two-story ride attraction in the "Roaring 20s" section under construction at Knott's Berry Farm.

A fire department spokesman said officials have no suspect in the spectacular March 26 blaze. Firemen ruled out their original theory that the building was set ablaze by a "sleeping" flame left by a welder's torch. Inspectors firmly established the fire as incendiary by studying the time it took a security guard making his rounds to walk through the structure.

The guard was inside the gutted section of the building about 35 minutes before the 5:23 p.m. blaze. If the fire had been accidental, they said, the guard would have spotted it.

An arcade located directly below the destroyed ride attraction had about 200 people inside when the flames raced through the upper story.

All were evacuated without injury and the lower level suffered mostly water damage, firemen said.

Old Villa Park School Bell To Be Installed

VILLA PARK — The 50-year-old school bell at Villa Park Elementary School has been presented to the Villa Park Bicentennial Committee for permanent installation in a bell and clock tower in front of city hall, 17855 Santiago Blvd.

Funds for the tower will be sought from private sources.

New Airport Terminal Proposed For County

By SANDI MOSLEY

Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA—The possibility of building a new terminal near Orange County Airport, to serve it and also make it a relay station to intercontinental airports, was posed Wednesday by county administrators.

The future off-site terminal, which would be served by a rapid mass transit system, could carry Orange County's overflow air traffic to airports that may be built at Chino Hills, Rancho California, or Camp Pendleton or to Ontario and Los Angeles International airports.

County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas said the proposal needs more study and asked county supervisors to authorize him to work with the Orange County Transit District on the feasibility of an off-airport "multi-modal" terminal.

For the time being, he added, the Costa Mesa proposal to build a new terminal on the west side of the airport should be junked.

Robert Bresnahan, county aviation director, said the cost of building the west side terminal and relocating taxiways and landing instruments for it would be of "questionable" benefit.

He suggested instead expanding the existing eastside terminal, which has "capacity for development equal to that of the proposed westside site without the need for additional land and certain improvements which would be necessary to make it operationally viable."

"Conservatively," he said, the present airport is about one-fifth the size it should be to handle its 2.5 million passengers a year, and the parking lots provide about 70 per cent of the space needed.

County supervisors asked Bresnahan and Thomas last February to consider including the Costa Mesa proposal in the environmental impact report being drafted on proposed airport improvements.

The city proposal called for a larger terminal to be built on the west side of the airport, with increased parking for passenger use, while the old east terminal would be used for airport administrative offices and private aircraft traffic.

Bresnahan's and Thomas' reports, both recommending against the Costa Mesa proposal, will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

Bresnahan told supervisors the 1970 Ralph M. Parsons Co. report on airport needs proposed a westside terminal to handle 3.7 million passengers a year as an alternative to an identical expanded east side facility.

Combined, the two terminals could serve three times its present capacity, he said.

Although supervisors only asked for a report on the Costa Mesa proposal, the two administrators opened the door to the multi-modal off-site terminal with shuttle capabilities "since land available for this purpose is rapidly disappearing."

Expanding the existing terminal is already a part of the environmental impact report study.

Unless the airport is to be allowed to expand its service beyond 2.5 million passengers a year, the Costa Mesa facility should be rejected, he said.

Jury Says Preservation Of Farming Vital To OC

SANTA ANA — County supervisors should preserve the farming industry here, even if they have to allow higher density residential and industrial development on other land as a zoning trade-off.

That was the conclusion of the Orange County Grand Jury, in a report sent to supervisors April 3 but only made public Wednesday.

In urging supervisors to "recognize farming as a vital contributor to the economy of Orange County," the jury also suggested the state Williamson Act of 1969—designed to offer lowered taxes for land left undeveloped—should be corrected to better preserve farms.

Supervisors should "give the preservation of agricultural lands top priority and utilize every legislative tool available to preclude urban development of prime agricultural land," the jury said in its warning to supervisors.

The report suggested creating an "open space planned development" zone allowing more dwellings per acre on unfarmed land "as a tradeoff for assigning part of the land development to open space use."

Lynn W. Klees, jury foreman pro tem, who issued the report, suggested supervisors support pending state legislation to correct loopholes in the Williamson Act but live with it until it is changed.

Supervisors, who have complained for two years that the Williamson Act "hasn't worked," have appointed a task force to look for other ways to protect farm land. Its report is due by mid-summer.

Board of Supervisors chairman Ralph Dieckhoff, angry at what he called the Irvine Co.'s periodic pulling of a little bit of prime land from its agricultural preserve, threatened a year ago to force the company to take all of its acreage from the preserve.

He argued the "preserve doesn't protect anything because they keep taking land out of it."

Three other supervisors, who outvoted him and his supporter, Robert Batlin, argued it was "better than nothing at all."

Of those three, David Baker and Ronald Caspers are no longer supervisors, Baker defeated for re-election and Caspers declared dead after a boating accident last summer.

The Irvine Co. still has 82 per cent of its original preserve, set aside in 1969, intact.

The Williamson Act has been "at best, an interim agricultural land use" protector, the jury said. It has allowed ranchers to hold open only that land they are ready to develop after the 10-year open space requirement in the Williamson Act expires or after payment of an early cancellation penalty.

Orange County's Mediterranean climate is ideal for farming, the jury said, and last year, warm-weather crops such as strawberries, nursery stock, celery, oranges, asparagus and tomatoes, contributed $142 million to the county's economy.

"It is apparent that the main crops grown along the south coast take comparatively little land, yet feed millions," the jury report concluded. Yet, it said, taxes on agricultural land are "much higher" here than the national average — $200 to $1,000 an acre here compared to $3 per acre nationally.

Supervisors should also "vigorously support" the UC agricultural extension office here because "good sound farming practices carried on throughout the county are due, in large measure to the services offered by agricultural extension."

Moving Day Slated For SA Hospital

SANTA ANA—Saturday will be moving day for more than 100 patients at Santa Ana Community Hospital, the county's oldest, as they are transferred to the new $23 million Santa Ana-Tustin Community Hospital.

Physicians, nurses, paramedics, technicians and a fleet of 16 ambulances will assist in the move, which is scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m.

Police escorts will be provided to the recently completed facility on an 18-acre site at 1001 N. Tustin Ave., near the Newport Freeway.

The new hospital has 300 beds, 340,000 square feet of space, a seven-story nursing tower and more than 1,000 employees. It is more than planned for 615 beds plus 100 psychiatric beds, said Wayne Schroeder, hospital administrator.

Full services in surgery, radiology, laboratory, hemodialysis, intensive care, cardiac care, respiratory therapy, pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology are included in the modern facility, which also has a 24-hour emergency room.

The patient transfer marks the end of an era for Santa Ana Community Hospital, 600 E. Washington Ave., which opened its doors in 1902 as Santa Ana Valley Hospital. The name was changed in 1925, and later the 200-bed acute care hospital became widely known for its open heart surgery, coronary care and stroke services.

It now will become a specialized care facility, said Schroeder.

Gift Stallion Offered To Ease Loss In Wake Of Fairgrounds Blaze

COSTA MESA—Ben Willis of Huntington Beach is giving his 3-year-old horse, Cherokee, to someone who lost an animal in the disastrous fire which swept through the Orange County Fairgrounds stables last week.

Willis, 22, of 5162 Sparrow Drive, says Cherokee, a stallion with a mixture of Arabian and quarterhorse, should go to an older teenager—"not a young kid, although he's real gentle-natured"—who'll promise to love and care for him the way Willis would like, but hasn't been able.

"Really I can't afford him; it's costing me $50 a month for stabling and feed and so on, and I'm going back to school full-time," Willis explained.

"I just want to give him to someone who'll take care of him and give him all the love and affection he deserves."

Out at the fairgrounds, Willis' gift has brought delight but some problems. Who will get Cherokee and how will the new owner be selected?

Trainer Lesley Nelson and her husband, John, say they'll worry about it later. Right now they have graver things to concern them: What to do about the remains of the carcasses the renderers failed to remove.

"We can't bury them and the dump won't take them. There's going to be a really unhealthy situation, quite apart from the gruesomeness of seeing and knowing those parts are there," Mrs. Nelson said.

Fire marshal Bob Beauchamp said nothing can be done at the site until it dries out, and this includes investigating the cause of the fire. He doubts that the real cause can ever be pinpointed, although he said he is pretty sure it wasn't electrical.

The barn lessees disagree, however, claiming that Beauchamp is mistaken when he says some of the stables had no electricity.

"One girl used the electrical outlet there three weeks ago to clip her horse—but the fire marshal says he's not concerned with what happened three weeks ago, only with what was there the day before," Mrs. Nelson said.

Bob Mattox of Huntington Beach whose horse was so badly burned it was shot to death at the fire scene by animal control officers, said electrical wires are plainly visible running through conduits in that area.

John Nelson insists he and others lived in the old tackroom before it was turned into a stable and there was electricity. The Nelsons say the trainers pay $400 a month for a 20-stall barn and wonder what happened to the money they've paid over the years because "it certainly hasn't gone into improving that area." A horse show area that was built nearby has been taken over by motorcyclists, they say, and horses and riders forbidden to use that area.

Much of the trainers' and horse owners' displeasure is expected to be aired at the fair board meeting at 7:30 p.m. today, Mrs. Rhea Down, of Corona del Mar, mother of a girl who lost a mare in foal, will be the spokeswoman.

Repeat Asked On Horse Offer

COSTA MESA — Will the person who called John Waller, owner of Fair Feed and Tack, at the Orange County Fair Grounds last weekend offering a horse to replace one lost by youngsters in the big fire, please call again:

Waller said that in all the excitement the paper was lost on which the Good Samaritan's name and phone number were jotted down.

"We'd sure appreciate another call," he said.

Anaheim Agencies Mull Fate Of 'Project Beta'

By SUSAN PACK
Register Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — On Monday, the planning commission approved the idea of a new redevelopment project area.

On Tuesday, the redevelopment agency which actually is the city council—quickly called for more study on the idea and told the staff to come up with some more answers.

On Wednesday, the redevelopment commission ordered the staff to set up a work session with agency members to make sure they all know what they're voting for.

And so Anaheim's daily redevelopment trauma continues.

Agency members expressed the same doubts about the 2,885-acre project as planning commissioners originally did—they believed it should be limited to transportation corridors and they questioned the advisability of diverting any more taxes.

Assistant redevelopment director Christian Hogenbirk again said the second project, known as Beta, is required to provide access to and stimulate development in the downtown project, called Alpha.

He said Beta has to extend beyond the transportation corridors because the state requires a redevelopment project to contain structural "blight." He also said the new project would enlarge the relocation area.

But Councilman John Seymour said those who are displaced by redevelopment can be relocated anywhere in the city, and until there are definite plans for Alpha, "there is no reason to create a Beta and a Charlie and a Dog."

"I don't think what we need is a project area named Beta," he said. "I think we need some corridors."

When property is placed in a redevelopment project area, the assessed valuation is "frozen," and any taxes based on an increase in valuation go to the redevelopment agency rather than to school districts and county agencies.

Councilman Jerry Sneegas said he is worried that this loss of taxes could affect tax rates throughout the city, because "any increase is not going to go to the schools and other agencies and they're going to need additional money."

He also admitted he was "grasping for straws" when he went along with the first redevelopment project and he didn't believe the public was ready to accept another one.

At Wednesday's redevelopment commission meeting, commissioner Ken Cotler said there appears to be "a real communications problem" if the agency believes the commission hasn't accomplished anything on Alpha.

"If John Seymour says that one more time, I'm just going to throw a fit," he said.

Cotler also said that Beta will provide a broader job base for the central city core and "if we don't have control of the surrounding area, we'll have a hodge-podge" around Alpha.

The new project extends to the Orange Freeway on the east, the Riverside Freeway on the north, Santa Ana Freeway on the west and to just beyond Orangewood Avenue on the south.

Newport Man On Trial In Fraud Case

SAN DIEGO—A 34-year-old Newport Beach resident is one of four men on trial here for allegedly securing $450,000 in loans from banks under false pretenses.

David Horace Drinkwater, two San Diego men and a Cleveland businessman have been denied a mistrial by Superior Court Judge Franklin B. Orfield. The mistrial had been sought because a principal prosecution witness is dying of cancer and unable to testify.

Drinkwater was corporate banking officer and manager of the Escondido branch of United California Bank.

Also on trial are Richard Bradford Anderson Sr., 42, the San Diego president and treasurer of Patterson Corp., a holding company; John Charles Burden Jr., 53, La Jolla president of American Northland Oil Corp., and Loyd William Sahley, 48, Cleveland president of Leisure Inns Resorts Inc. and Midwestern Securities Inc.

The men are charged with securing loans under false pretenses for a dummy corporation which did no business.

Judge Orfield ruled this week that Dalton Carl Smith's inability to appear as a prosecution witness did not constitute suppression of evidence. Smith, 49, of La Jolla, was scheduled to be tried with the others but his appearance was postponed until September because of his illness.

They were all indicted in June last year.

Airman Re-Enlists

LAGUNA HILLS—Staff Sgt. Thomas B. Ritter, son of Mrs. Sarah L. Ritter, 3147-A Via Vista, has re-enlisted in the U.S. Air Force at Mount Laguna Air Force Station, Calif.

Ritter, who began his Air Force career in 1967, is a security police supervisor at Mount Laguna.

GG USAF TRAINEE — Airman Robert W. Stone, son of retired Air Force T. Sgt. and Mrs. Lowell W. Stone of 11721 Dale St., has been selected for technical training in the medical services field at Sheppard AFB, Tex. The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., attended Fullerton College.

RIGHT-OF-WAY IN DOUBT

BP May Shelve Garden Plans

BUENA PARK—Plans for a community garden will be dropped—at least this year—unless Southern California Edison Co. permits the city to use its right-of-way by this weekend, it was announced Wednesday.

Ralph Laudenslayer, director of recreation, advised Edison of the city's position by phone Tuesday. He said the utility firm's reply was that officials still were discussing the city's request to use 4 acres west of Knott Avenue.

An official said on April 4 he expected a decision within a few days. Edison has had the city's request two months.

Laudenslayer said cool weather lengthens the planting time at the site formerly leased from Edison for the city's nursery.

But planting actually should have begun a month ago. He said it would take "only two or three days" to prepare the land for use by the public.

He said the site will have room for about 80 gardens ranging in size from 15 by 20 to 30 by 20 feet. Residents will be charged $2 for larger plots, and $1 for smaller ones.

Earlier, an Edison official said the "community garden is a new concept, and the company is studying the impact this type of secondary land use would have" on the firm's operation.

Laudenslayer said the city's liability clause makes the city responsible for any accident on Edison right-of-way for public use throughout the city.

Judging from phone calls coming into the office of the parks and recreation department, supervising agency, public interest in the garden has cooled somewhat.

School Post Aide Named

FULLERTON — James H. Graves, deputy superintendent of the Fullerton Elementary School District, has been elected president-elect of the California Association of School Business Officials.

Graves was elevated at the April 8-11 annual conference of the association in San Francisco and will automatically assume leadership of the 1,400-member statewide association in 1976-77.

Parents Win; County Drops Speed Limit

SANTA ANA—Persistent parents persuaded county supervisors Wednesday to lower the speed limit on Muirland Boulevard, in El Toro, to protect school-bound children.

The maximum speed allowed will be dropped from 45 to 35 m.p.h. on Muirlands between La Paz and El Toro roads.

Fifth District Supervisor Thomas Riley told parents at the hearing Wednesday he hoped they would be as successful in educating neighborhood motorists to slow down as they had been in convincing officials the speed should be lowered.

Residents have complained that the wide, curving street encouraged speeding. They also said block walls on either side of the street have kept drivers going too fast from seeing children crossing to Los Alisos Intermediate School.

DEAR ABBY

Don't Gamble With Lives

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My younger brother and his wife are both 23. I guess you could call them "hippies." They live in a large house in the country with a lot of other hippies.

My brother's wife is expecting her first baby in a few months, and she plans to have it at home with the others in the home "helping." Another woman who lives in the home is having a baby next month, and they expect to learn everything they need to know then.

Although both these kids are bright and not ruined by drugs, they won't listen to any "old wives' tales" or to their lab-technician brother-in-law about the dangers of this. My brother's wife is Rh negative.

They say they live only 10 minutes from a hospital, and that's enough.

Can you give me some good arguments for convincing them not to go through with their plan? What do your medical advisers say?

J.

DEAR J.: I agree that this young couple are foolish not to have a prenatal examination to be sure that the mother can anticipate a reasonably normal birth process.

Failure to do this could endanger the lives of both the mother and the new infant during birth. The couple are seriously underestimating the possible problems and complications that could arise if they think that watching one delivery will teach them "everything they need to know."

There is nothing wrong with wanting to have the delivery at home, but they would be well-advised to at least have an experienced midwife present to assist them.

DEAR ABBY: Can a girl get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open?

WORRIED IN CHICAGO

DEAR WORRIED: No. But it's a good beginning.

DEAR ABBY: You once remarked that a woman of 65 was not exactly an ancient relic yet—or words to that effect.

Well, that is my age, and that is also my feeling. I am presently keeping company with a very fine gentleman. He is refined, cultured, lonely—and 80-years-old.

I could be interested in him if I were sure we could have a "real" marriage. My problem is how to find out.

What do you think, Dear Abby? I have heard men in their 70's and 80's boast that they are as "young" as they were 30 years ago, but of course I never knew whether they were telling the truth. Is it possible?

I wouldn't want to marry a man who could do nothing but talk. Don't use my name please. Everybody here knows me.

NO GAMBLER IN NEVADA

DEAR NO: It is possible for a man to be sexually active as long as he lives—no matter how old he is. But the only way you can find out if you can have a "real" marriage with this cultured gentleman is to ask him. And pray that he's not just another "talker."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE GRADUATE": Do not send out an "announcement" each time you earn a degree. Your family and close friends will know, and the others might get the idea that you are bragging by degrees.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Heed Marvin, for a debtor who can't quickly pay an overdue bill, soon "bad mouths" his former friendly grocer, doctor or other creditor. For we feel elated, not humiliated, if we get the best of a foe!

CASE D-634: Marvin D., aged 41, works for a collection agency.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I wish you'd inform doctors that it is wiser to insist that patients pay as they go."

"Ever in obstetrical cases, where the doctor's bill may run into several hundreds of dollars, see that the expectant mother pays $25 at each prenatal visit so her final bill for the delivery will be wiped out, even before she goes to the hospital."

"Yet many young doctors refuse our advice."

"And the same principle applies to super marts and other business firms, for cash-and-carry is the best way to operate any business if you expect to function for the long pull."

CREDIT PSYCHOLOGY

Credit cards have helped zoom buying but add an extra boost to the cost of merchandise.

For example, Darnell Corporation specializes in business efficiency.

And has shown that the usual one-page typed business letter costs about $3.50 for the firm!

That includes dictator's time, plus the stenographer's salary, as well as paper, postage and overhead.

For example, whenever your credit card is shown to a gas station attendant or other merchant, it takes his valuable time to get it recorded and your signature on the purchase slip.

Then the home office likewise must undergo the costs of tallying said charges, just like the overhead on the typed letter mentioned above.

All of you readers who pay cash for goods and services, thus are stuck for this boost in cost entailed by the millions who use credit cards!

And here are some terse summaries of why borrowers (including credit buyers) often "bad mouth" the sellers:

(1) The usual wage earner has no sufficient cash reserve or bank account that will permit him to pay a total bill this month that runs at least 20% of his monthly pay check.

For he is living up his full pay check before next payday, so he cannot spare even $50 to $100 as a lump payment on a debt.

(2) And average folks are untrained to budget their income in order to remit maybe $10 to $15 monthly.

Besides, it requires reasonable I.Q. to maintain a budget, yet we have 20 million outright feeble-minded or "borderline" cases in this country who react like children and buy whatever appeals to them, with little thought about payment.

"Charge it!" is their belief in a magical Santa Claus, which politicians "cash in" upon at the ballot boxes via offers of free food stamps and health insurance, debited to you solvent citizens.

(3) Once a person is in debt and begins to receive repeated monthly statements, he has 2 options.

Either he can pay up and thus restore his self-respect, which most people can't do because of their over-extended credit buying.

Or, he can deviously begin to fabricate reasons why his supposed kindly grocer or doctor was not really a friend but actually an enemy!

For we human beings then feel elated, instead of obligated, to a foe!

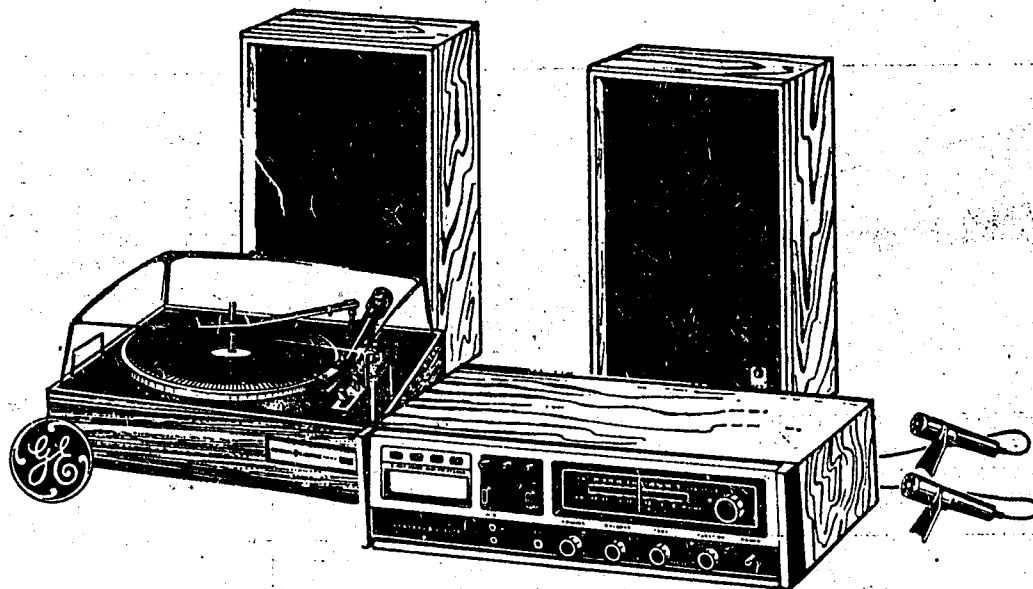

But our conscience bothers us if we remain under long indebtedness to a friend.

So debtors soon "bad mouth" their former creditors but then will pay cash to their new grocer or doctor when they get a fresh pay check!

BRIDGE

Ex-Con Turned Professor Hits Crime Victims

MIAMI (AP) — An ex-convict who is now a university instructor in criminology says crime victims are often partially to blame for their being robbed, mugged or raped.

Some of them, says Martin Miller, are "total provocateurs" to criminals. Miller, 46, says he was consistently amazed at the ease with which he found suitable victims. He says he spent four years "doing bad checks, fraud and embezzlement with some enthusiasm and fervor." He was arrested in 1966 and sent to prison for three years.

Miller says he does not mean to limit his own guilt when he suggests that a degree of responsibility should be placed on the people who willingly took his checks or the business firms that hired him for positions of financial responsibility without an adequate check of his background.

Now an instructor at Florida International University (FIU), Ph.D. candidate Miller says he will stress in his criminology course this spring "the varying degrees of victims' complicity in the crimes committed against them."

"We have developed this myth of the victim as pristine, totally without fault," says Miller, a mild-mannered, bespectacled man. "The criminal is irrational and perverted, selecting his victims at random. Neither stereotype is accurate, and both cloud the issue of crime and its prevention."

Miller also cites as examples the man who gets up in the middle of the night, goes out to have a beer and gets stabbed in a barroom fight; or the woman who's out walking the dog in her nightgown at 2 a.m. and gets raped.

"To what extent have these people caused the crime by failing to exercise prudent judgment?" he asks.

Miller says he got into crime because he believed himself terminally ill and "wanted to go out in style even if it had to be on other people's money." He will not discuss his illness.

"I chose my victims carefully," he says. "I was far more thorough in my investigation of a prospective employer than most of them were in investigating me."

He served his time in a model, pastel-walled California prison with a good library, Miller says. He completed his master's degree work as a teaching assistant at the University of California at Berkeley and joined the FIU faculty two years ago from an administrative position at a small Pennsylvania college.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The unlucky expert had cornered us again. He started out with, "Team of four has to be my most unlucky game. I have three partners to toss me around there. Look at this hand that cost us a match."

"I sat West. I considered a seven-heart bid for some time, but finally gave up the idea. I was afraid that if my partner did not hold the ace of diamonds the opponents would bid and make seven spades. Obviously North was void of hearts."

"Good reasoning," we replied. "What diamond did you lead?"

"The queen. My partner took his ace, thought for a while as I sweated it out and finally led a club for me to ruff."

We have to omit the rest of our friend's talk. It was all expletives deleted. The substance was that at the other table his North-South partners bid up to five spades with their cards and when West bid six hearts, North proceeded to double. Then to complete the rout, South opened his singleton diamond. East made his heart slam with an overtrick.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	5 ♥	Pass	6 ♦
Pass	6 ♠	Pass	7

You, South, hold:
▲ K Q 9 8 5 ♥ A 2 ♦ K 4 ♠ Q 9 8 7
What do you do now?
A — Pass. You have done enough bidding.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three spades your partner has jumped to four spades over your three hearts. What do you do now?

LEAVING NO DOUBT — A sign placed in front of his San Juan Capistrano offices by Dr. Paul Esslinger leaves no doubt that he is opposed to the city's plans of bulldozing the building. The city wants to build a $6 million civic center in the downtown area and the offices of Dr. Esslinger were marked for "removal." The physician, in bottom left of photo, who has been maintaining his practice at this location for 32 years, said he was never contacted by the city regarding the plans. Other areas that would be affected by the plans include Los Rios Street where residents also have protested. The plans are currently being "reviewed" before being presented to the city council, said a planning department spokesman.

Marina High To Take Part In State Meet

SANTA ANA — Six seniors from Marina High School in Huntington Beach will represent Orange County in the U.S. Marine Corps' 10th annual Invitational Youth Physical Fitness competition at Anaheim High School Stadium Saturday.

The six-man Marina High School team will compete against 11 other teams from San Francisco, Sacramento, Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz. The two top teams will be able to travel to Washington, D.C., in June to compete for scholarships and other prizes.

Saturday's competition, which is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., will include a series of five push-ups, standing broad jump and 300-yard shuttle run. The exercises are used by Marines undergoing basic training.

The Youth Physical Fitness program, co-sponsored by Post Cereals of General Foods, is designed to encourage high school students to get into top physical condition by performing these exercises.

Teams from more than 1,500 high schools throughout the nation will compete for the opportunity to journey to Washington. At stake in Washington will be a $2,000 scholarship for the highest scoring senior; a $1,500 scholarship second highest scorer, and a $1,000 scholarship for the third-place winner. One high school from each of six districts in the nation will receive $500 for the purchase of physical fitness equipment.

The 108 finalists will spend three days in Washington as guests of the Marine Corps. They will attend a formal banquet in their honor and will spend a full day sightseeing.

Garden Club Plans Living Flag

SAN CLEMENTE — A 24 by 36 feet "living flag," proposed by the local Bicentennial Commission, will be planted soon with 408 red, white, and blue petunias, to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday, next year.

Mrs. Alice Wagonhale, of the San Clemente Garden Club which is designing the flag, explained details of the project to the Bicentennial Commission at a luncheon Tuesday.

The petunias, to be planted on a slope at Broadmoor Homes, where the developers made the land available, will be bordered by low green stone crop seedling. The plants will be about six inches high but the whole "living flag" will be easily visible from the San Diego Freeway near the San Clemente High School.

The planting will be done by the Garden Club and the high school horticulture class,

PATTI CLARKSON EXHIBITS FORM IN LONG DISTANCE BOTTLE TOSsing
Recent Attempt Traveled More Than 5,000 Miles In Four Months

OC Girl's Note In A Bottle Found By Sailor In Japan

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM
Register Staff Writer
WESTMINSTER — On the morning of Dec. 3, during one of the most torrential rains to hit Orange County in years, 12-year-old Patti Clarkson decided to send a message.

She hurriedly jotted down a note with an orange crayon, stuffed it into a pop bottle and sealed the block wall behind her home at 6212 Navajo Road. The flood control ditch behind the Clarkson's home was running faster and higher than Patti had ever seen.

She took her bottle and threw it right into the middle of the rushing stream, then jumped to the bank of the ditch and followed the bottle as it bobbed and swirled downstream.

When her note disappeared into the culvert beneath the San Diego Freeway several blocks away, Patti Clarkson went to school.

Last Thursday she got a letter in the mail. Her bottle had been found. The letter was from Japan.

"I almost died when I got the letter," Patti said. "I couldn't believe it—all the way from Japan."

Patti had sent a bottled note via her backyard drainage ditch once before, but that one was found by a woman who lived on a houseboat in Redondo Beach. This one was much more impressive.

"Dear Patti," read the letter from American sailor Jim Brandt. "Yesterday while I was diving off Oshima Island, I found your 'note in a bottle.' Oshima Island is off the coast of the Izu Peninsula, which is on the main island of Honshu, Japan."

"I'm in the Navy and have been in Japan for the last 20 months. This note of yours has now traveled to Japan and back. That's quite a way."

Patti figures from her backyard to Oshima Island is 5,453 miles.

She has already written a letter to Brandt, thanking him for returning her note and asking to be pen pals.

This message, however, she plans to send through the mail. There's not enough water in her

El Toro High Open House Set April 24

EL TORO — El Toro High School will celebrate completion of construction of its multi-million dollar campus with a communitywide open house from 7 to 9 p.m. April 24.

The school, which houses 1,539 ninth through twelfth grade students, was occupied last September. However, construction on the campus located at 25255 Toledo Way was not finished until March.

The open house will feature displays and demonstrations by the school's athletes, technical education and business students, homemakers, musicians and artists.

At 7:45 there will be a general assembly in the gymnasium featuring election of 1975-76 officers for the parents organization and the commissioning of the school's Marine Corps Junior ROTC Program.

The Saddleback Valley Exchange Club also will highlight its proposal for placing a Freedom Shrine on the campus.

Teachers and administrators will be on hand to answer questions from the community.

PUC 'Open' Meets Urged In New Bill

A bill requiring the state Public Utilities Commission to make all of its rate increase deliberations public has been given unanimous approval by the Assembly Committee on Finance, Insurance and Commerce.

The measure, authored by Assemblyman Richard Robinson, D-Santa Ana, now moves to the Assembly floor for a full vote. Robinson predicted the bill will pass by a wide margin.

He said the measure is designed to prohibit commissioners from acting behind closed doors to approve or reject rate increases requested by the various utility firms—such as Southern California Edison—it regulates.

"Every vote I make as a legislator is public record," he said. "The same accountability and openness is essential in every regulatory agency of this state."

At the start of a new year, the young shoots were taken to a river and cast into the water resulting in the phrase, "casting bread on water," to return as answers to prayers. —CNS

Questionnaire To Be Sent To Teens In GG

GARDEN GROVE—The "problems and needs" of young people in Garden Grove will be probed in a two-page questionnaire to be distributed by the city's youth commission.

The 41 questions on the survey form, which the commission plans to distribute through selected high school classes, range from queries on gang violence and drugs to nutrition and transportation.

A sampling of the questions include:

—Have you ever run away from home for more than one day?

—Do you smoke cigarettes?

—It is easy to get drugs at my school. (yes, no)

—Do you feel you eat well balanced meals?

—Is any other language than English spoken in your home?

The questionnaire would be aimed at the eighth through 12th graders.

The city council voted unanimously this week to authorize the youth commission to proceed with the survey and work with the Garden Grove Unified School District in distributing the questionnaire.

No Quacks At Ducky Plan Board Session

SANTA ANA—Everything was just ducky at a planning commission hearing this week on a housing project next to the Lake Forest duck pond.

Homeowners praised the developer. The developer praised the homeowners.

At one point, chairman Shirley Grindle said she felt compelled to cut off "this mutual admiration society" which threatened to develop into "a love affair between the developer and the homeowners."

Other commissioners said they wished all projects were as easy to arbitrate.

They approved the 7.1-acre project with 28 homes. Developer David Young, in cooperation with Occidental Land Co. will give a 2.7-acre park and duck pond to either the county or the homeowners association.

Floyd Patterson of the homeowners association, which owns a small park within the developer's added park acreage, said the "very gracious gift" concludes a six-year effort to preserve the duck pond.

Council Nixes Beer, Wine Permit Appeal

PLACENTIA—Rene and Jerion Sandoval, owners of El Farolito Restaurant, 201 S. Bradford Ave., this week were denied a use permit by the city council to serve beer and wine, despite previous planning commission approval.

An appeal filed by Councilman Robert Langer and protests during the public hearing from two area businessmen and the majority of members of the Senior Citizen Club across the street from the restaurant, prompted the council to unanimously overturn the commission decision.

Planners' approval was subject to property improvements and the required state alcoholic beverage commission consent and licensing.

Complaints included alleged noisy conversation and laughter from the predominantly youthful clientele, increased traffic, and the restaurant's proximity to two churches and an apparel store catering to young girls.

No protests were registered with the city by members of either church, or by the approximately 50 residents living near the restaurant who were notified of the public hearing.

Jerion Sandoval, who speaks only Mexican, spoke to the council through interpreters. He said he planned to upgrade his business to a family restaurant operation and comply with all city regulations.

SC Beekeeper Faces Judge Over Hobby

SAN CLEMENTE—Dexter Warner, 2111 Calle de los Alamos, will have to face a judge on April 25 because his hobby has caused the ire of several of his neighbors. Warner keeps bees and has seven hives registered with the county department of agriculture.

The neighbors, who claim that swarming bees from Warner's hives have been terrorizing the neighborhood, complained to the district attorney at the municipal court in Laguna Niguel, who, in turn, filed a complaint under the San Clemente public nuisance ordinance.

Warner is charged with three counts of violating the ordinance and will be arraigned when he appears in court April 25.

Wayne Appel, deputy commissioner with the county agriculture department, said Warner is one of some 200 beekeepers in the county. The majority are hobbyists.

The department's function is to inspect the beehives periodically for diseases, none of which are transmitted to humans, said Appel.

He said that in the spring, bees will swarm to collect nectar or to form a new hive as a natural way of division.

Some people, a small percentage, are allergic to bees, and their sting can cause death in very rare cases, said Appel.

State Okays Marsh Restoration Funding

HUNTINGTON BEACH—Funds for the first phase of the Bolsa Chica marsh restoration project have been approved but work won't start there for about a year.

The state's Wildlife Conservation Board has approved the expenditure of $712,000 to build an earth dike around 150 acres of the marsh so tideswaters can flow into the salt marsh for the first time in years.

Other improvements to the marsh will be included in the first phase of work, but will not change the appearance of the marsh, according to the state Fish and Game Department's Ronald Hein.

Construction on the site will begin in about a year and take four to five months to complete, Hein said.

Once the marsh has been reconstructed, the state will have to decide whether to build a new ocean channel and public marina which has been proposed for the Bolsa Chica area.

Such a plan could mean extensive rerouting of the Pacific Coast Highway and would allow Signal Properties to develop adjacent inland property into a Huntington Harbor-like residential area.

The state owns about 300 acres of the 1,500-acre Bolsa Chica lowlands and leases another 230 acres from Signal Properties.

In a land swap two years ago, Signal Properties gave the state 500 acres and signed a 14-year lease for the other 230 acres. The company also promised to give the state that 230 acres if a channel and marina was constructed.

Hein said such a marina project would take seven years to complete from the time the state decided to do it. There are 12 years remaining on the lease.

Health Fair Opens Today In Buena Park

BUENA PARK—A "Health Fair" featuring a score of health agencies offering free examinations and information sessions opens today at the Boys' Club here.

Activities continue on Friday and Saturday.

Rick Miller, president of the county's Boys' Club Association, and executive director of the local club, said the three-day event will be in two phases.

For the first phase local school children will be bused to the club for examinations for vision, podiatry, hearing, dental, pulmonary and blood pressure. Hours will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. today and Friday.

The second phase will feature free examinations for the public. These are scheduled from 6 to 9 p.m. today and Friday, and again from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Agencies taking part in the fair include the Elks Club's major vision testing team, Orange County Podiatry Association, the county Dental Society, Buena Park police and fire departments, Orange County Heart Association, Children's Television Workshop, and the Boys' Club.

Cake, Berries Featured On Festival Float

GARDEN GROVE — A huge rotating cake and dancing strawberries will be the highlight of this year's Garden Grove Strawberry Festival Association's parade float, officials announced.

The smaller first section of the float will be adorned with a clock indicating, "It's Strawberry Festival Time."

The huge rotating cake will be mounted on the multi-level rear section atop big scallops designed with a swirling effect. A massive twirling strawberry will be elevated at the rear of the float with four smaller "personified strawberries" with little arms and legs below.

The float will be 45 feet long, 18 feet wide and 14 feet high. It will carry the new Miss Garden Grove and her court of four princesses, all to be chosen at a pageant April 26.

In addition to the Strawberry Festival parade on May 24, the float is scheduled to appear in eight other Orange County parades during the coming year.

Even before the oil shortage, Hampton Roads, Va., was the world's largest coal exporter, sending an average of 35 million tons a year to ports all over the globe.

'Wedge' Election Set By Cypress Council

CYPRESS—City councilmen this week decided to let voters determine whether the controversial wedge property should be designated for industrial or residential use.

The council's decision to hold a special election July 1, which will cost about $10,000, climaxed a two-month debate on a recent change in the city's general plan which designated the area for future residential development.

A referendum petition circulated in the city and signed by more than 15 per cent of the registered voters protested the general plan change. The petition, which had to have the signatures of at least 10 per cent of the voters in the city, demanded the city council either rescind the general plan amendment or submit the issue to a vote of the people.

Councilman Otto Lacayo said because 15 per cent of the city's voters signed the referendum petition, they (the voters) were asking that the $10,000 election be held.

One community resident, Howard Rowan, said after the meeting, however, the council must assume the responsibility for calling the election and spending the money. "The council, not the people, had the option of rescinding the general plan amendment or calling the election."

"Had the council decided to reverse its previous decision the matter would have been dead and done with," Rowan said.

The city council approved the general plan amendment in February changing the land use designation for the 20-acre "wedge," located northwest of Knott and Katella avenues, from industrial to residential.

The property earlier in the year had been included in a city ordinance that gave such land use decisions to the people.

In February, however, the council removed the wedge from the second reading of the ordinance because "the cost of holding a special election seems to be prohibitive," and that the property is still in county territory.

Earlier this month city planning commissioners approved a pre-annexation zone change for the wedge property from general agricultural to a residential urban zone.

The request for the zone change was submitted to the city by David Recupero, representing Continental Multi-Homes, for a proposed 95-unit residential development on the property.

Brian Hawley, city planning director, said proceeding with hearings on the zone change and the proposed development now will save the applicant time should the referendum election fail.

If the measure wins and the general plan amendment is reversed, all planning actions will be invalidated, he said.

City Atty. John Murphy said if the general plan amendment is reversed by a vote of the people in July, the property will again have an industrial use designation.

'Liberty' Model To Mark Start Of Bicentennial

COSTA MESA—One of only two known 2½-foot tall bronze cast models of the Statue of Liberty, originally presented to the U.S. Patent Office in 1876 by sculptor Auguste Bartholdi, will be unveiled Friday as part of the local Bicentennial Awareness Day activities.

The noon unveiling at the flagpole at Bristol Street entrance to South Coast Plaza will be held on the 200th anniversary of Paul Revere's ride that warned "the Redcoats are coming."

Among those scheduled to assist in the ceremony will be War veteran Al Molton of Santa Ana and the El Toro Marine Corps color guard and band.

The model of the Statue of Liberty was first "found" in 1950. Up to that time, it was believed the model that stands in the lobby of the main office of the Chemical Bank-New York Trust was the only survivor of a purge of Patent Office models between 1908 and 1926.

A Dr. A. Dutari announced in 1940 from his residence in Panama that he had gained possession of a second Liberty model.

6.2 Per Cent Orange Police Pay Hike OK'd

ORANGE—About 120 officers, sergeants, lieutenants and captains in the Orange Police Department have been granted an across-the-board 6.2 per cent pay hike effective July 1 by the city council.

The council approved a 1975-76 cost-of-living hike negotiated by City Manager Gifford Miller and a committee headed by Dennis Flanagan, president of the Orange Police Association.

The current minimum-maximum salary range is $12,362-$25,112 per year. The increase will boost the range to $13,132-$26,676, city officials said.

The department's 35 secretaries and clerical employees also received cost-of-living pay raise.

Negotiations with the Orange Firemen's Association are continuing. The group has asked for a 30 per cent hike, city hall sources report. Other city employees are conducting negotiations also, but there has been no announcement of their requests.

The earliest recorded traffic accident in the United States in which a pedestrian was hit by an automobile occurred in 1899 in New York City.

Housing Plans Returned For Rehearing

FULLERTON—Plans for a 247-unit housing project within the city's redevelopment area will be reconsidered by the city planning commission Wednesday.

A redevelopment agency hearing on the proposal of developer William Brashears last week was cut off without a vote because of a lack of technical requirements from the planning commission.

At that hearing, however, Robert Root, Duane Winters and Charles Phillips said they would vote for the proposed area rezoning which would allow the project. Robert Ward and Frances Wood said they would oppose.

The hearing was an appeal by Brashears of the planning commission's earlier 5-2 denial of his request for rezoning 16 acres southeast of Brea Boulevard and Lemon Street to planned residential development (PRD). The commission's denial said the project "did not meet the intent and policy of the single-family concept for a PRD."

Ancient Greeks drained their cheeses in wicker baskets called "formas," the Latin term being "forma." From that Latin root came the modern French "fromage" for cheese.

Ten persons representing neighborhood homeowners spoke against the proposed rezoning during the more than two-hour public hearing. They presented a petition signed by 106 persons protesting the rezoning, claiming the project would create traffic, noise and surrounding developments and met all requirements of the city's PRD ordinance.

Finding Treatment For Arthritis Hinges On Pinpointing Cause

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — On the horizon are 80 new drugs to relieve the pain, stiffness and inflammation of joints in rheumatoid arthritis.

Each has yet to run a stern gantlet of testing for safety and effectiveness. No one knows how many, if any, will succeed to the finish line.

Progress against arthritis "has been terribly slow, despite all sorts of approaches," says Dr. Paul Plotz, senior investigator of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Branch of the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Digestive Disease — NIAMDD.

So arthritis is counted among the "stalled diseases" requiring more effort and more insights to bring it under control.

Fifty million Americans, one in four, have some form of arthritis, and 20 million, one in 10, have it so severely they need medical care, says the Arthritis Foundation in New York City. Specialists now count 100 different arthritic conditions causing aches and pains in joints and connective tissue.

Some 3.5 million Americans are disabled by arthritis, and the economic cost, including $3.5 billion in wages of people who could otherwise be productive, is put at $9 billion a year.

Most serious, most painful and most crippling is rheumatoid arthritis, causing inflammation of joints, with women hit three times more often than men. About five million Americans are victims.

Bacteria or viruses have long been suspect as possible causes of rheumatoid arthritis. Cultures taken from joints have shown unusual organisms, but none has yet been proven to be either an important or specific cause of this woeful disease.

The search for infectious agents goes on. For if one (or more) is found, vaccines might be developed to prevent rheumatoid arthritis and the numerous other arthritic conditions.

Other researchers are studying whether the fire of rheumatoid arthritis is lighted by something going haywire in the body's normally protective immune system, with some unusual reaction turning antibodies against joints or other tissues.

Just what happens in this complexity is beginning to be pieced together, says Dr. Charles W. Sisk, former medical director of the Arthritis Foundation. "Researchers are very close to being able to translate basic new knowledge into treatment."

Citing an example, Sisk says that certain white blood cells, the lymphocytes that normally fight infection, are suspected as one trigger of arthritis inflammation.

In one experiment by Drs. Harold Paulus and James Peter of the University of California at Los Angeles, billions of these white cells were withdrawn each day from rheumatoid arthritis patients, through tubes placed in their necks.

With white cells diminished, most patients felt less pain, less swelling and tenderness of joints, perhaps because the lymphocyte system was temporarily exhausted. Relief lasted for months.

Research is pointing toward definite genetic factors in at least some forms of arthritis, Sisk says, and these may shed some insight into how the immune system goes wrong. Certain genes may produce antigens or substances that stimulate antibodies that enter into the inflammation process.

In treatment, aspirin has long been the white knight of drugs combating arthritic pain, and remains so.

Cortisone made a dramatic appearance more than 20 years ago, enabling some severely disabled people to walk again. But now, two decades later, many patients treated with cortisone or allied hormone or steroid drugs, appear no better off, and in some cases they are worse off, Plotz says.

Six years ago, a totally different drug, indomethacin, appeared. It is not in the hormone family, but is in a class of chemicals that counteracts inflammation. It has to be monitored carefully for possible adverse effects on blood components.

Now, a number of drugs have been fashioned, starting with the indomethacin family, that promise fewer side effects.

Today, if drugs fail surgery often helps by providing artificial joints for crippled originals.

Surgical replacement of various joints has increased tenfold in the last 10 years says Sisk. Perhaps 40,000 Americans each year are enabled now to walk again with artificial hip joints. Fingers grotesquely twisted by arthritis are being restored in surgery pioneered by Dr. A. B. Swanson of Grand Rapids, Mich., and others. Silicone rubber is implanted to replace diseased tissue, with the implants soon becoming surrounded by healthy tissue. Patients go back to using their hands for sewing, typing, the piano, all manner of tasks, and play. Toe joints also are replaced.

Silicone rubber additionally is being molded into new elbow and wrist joints, and new shoulder and knee replacements. This research is in various stages of development.

"The knee is more complicated than the hip," Sisk says, "but the biomechanisms of motions and muscle functions are being worked out. Joe Namath (the New York Jets quarterback with injured knees) could have new knees now if only the state of the art for replacement of knees were like it is now for hips."

For all the misery arthritis causes, the federal budget for research into it is only $14 million a year now, up from $11.5 million in 1970. The Arthritis Foundation raises $10 million annually for research fellowships, referral centers, and educational efforts.

Recent cutbacks in research money have hurt with "good people having to close their laboratories," Plotz says. "Answers will come from basic research, not from research administratively directed to find answers. If, for example, we understood the immune response itself, it would be a big step toward control not only of arthritis but other diseases as well."

Sisk calls for more training of specialists in rheumatology. Only 76 medical schools have any rheumatologists on their staffs, he adds, and new doctors in their training "have not been exposed to expert care of arthritis patients."

MAN WITH TERMINAL CANCER SPENDS TIME 'MAKING TODAY COUNT'

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) — The man speaking on the telephone to Orville Kelly was distraught. He and his wife had just been told their son would die of cancer within five years.

"There are many children who will die tonight," Kelly counseled the father. "They will die from accidents or illness. Their parents would give anything to have just one of the years your son has left."

"The question is: are you going to waste those five years with your son, or are you going to make them count?"

Kelly, 44, has received many such tearful calls. A former newspaper editor now living in Burlington with his wife and four children, Kelly is no stranger to cancer, the dying and their families.

He's known since June 15, 1973 that he has lymphoma, a cancer of the lymph glands. He said doctors told him he had, at the outside, three years to live.

"I don't know how long my honeymoon with cancer will last," Kelly said, "but as long as it does, I make the most of it."

His wife, Wanda, 33, added: "Lots of time when he has pains, especially in his stomach area, he tells me he's got so much to do he hasn't got time to die."

Kelly received the call from the dying son's father because of a growing awareness of a non-profit corporation, founded by Kelly, named Make Today Count (MTC).

MTC's purpose is to persuade the terminally ill and their families "to talk out their grief with others who know and understand what they are going through. It's a sharing," Kelly said.

For most, there is a therapeutic value in dying persons and their families speaking openly of death, he said. "I would say 95 per cent should know if they are told in the right way that they are dying. They probably know anyway. After they're dead, it's too late to talk."

"Medical people are beginning to recognize they must treat more than just patients," Kelly says, "I'm noticing that going to die. But you don't have to go home to die if you have terminal cancer. It has various stages. If you've got three years to live, then 2 1/2 could be spent doing things. It's the waiting game that's terrible." enough to think I'll go on for ever, but unexplainable things happen."

Kelly, who is treated by chemotherapy, is hoping his cancer is in remission. "At the beginning, I didn't think I'd live six months. I'm not naive. I've said he has since made some 300 public appearances across the nation, trying to bring the philosophy of making each day count into the lives of the terminally ill and their families.

He receives no salary from MTC, and trip expenses are paid by those who want to hear his views on the acceptance of death.

"I don't know how many thousands of miles I've traveled," he said. "I imagine we have about 40 MTC chapters under way or getting ready in some 20 states and one Canadian province."

State Legislators Shunning Use Of VIP License Plates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dis-cover use of legislators' state tinctive legislative license plates have apparently lost their attraction for more and more California assemblymen and senators.

Legislative officials say security, privacy and maybe a desire to avoid controversy about their state-leased cars are some of the reasons 39 of the current 119 lawmakers no longer have the special plates.

"I wouldn't use them either," said Fred Taugher, administrative officer of the Assembly Rules committee, referring to recent controversies over legislative cars.

Of the 79 assemblymen, 21 no longer use the distinctive legislative license plates, such as "A 1", meaning the assemblyman from the first district.

Fourteen of the 21 have turned in their special plates since the first of the year.

Of the 40 members of the state Senate, 18 use regular plates on their state-leased cars.

"I'd rather not say who they are," Taugher said of the 21 assemblymen now using regular plates.

"One of the reasons some of them prefer the regular plates is they want to be private about their car. To say who they are would be a breach of that," he said.

"Some have the feeling for security reasons, and others just want privacy."

He said recent controversy over use of legislators' state cars may have contributed to the trend.

For example:

—Assemblyman Terry Goggin's car was seen in Oregon during the Easter week recess, and the San Bernardino Democrat was called upon to explain he had permission from the Assembly Rules Committee.

—Assemblyman Charles Warren's daughter drove Warren's state car to college at Davis, where it was followed and photographed by a student newspaper photographer. Warren, D-Los Angeles, said it was a family emergency and permissible since he pays part of the lease payments.

—Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Highland, was followed to his apartment by thugs who smashed in the windows of his state car. There was no evidence the youths picked on him because of his license plate.

—Three legislators were arrested for drunken driving in Sacramento, and some politicians claimed police were out to get them—which could be done because of the distinctive license plates.

—A citizen wrote a newspaper reporting that a car bearing legislative plates passed him at a high rate of speed. The legislator was called on to explain the actions in stories published statewide.

Senate President pro tem.

James Mills, who said he quit using special plates a couple of years ago, explained, "I don't know they serve any good purpose."

"They always cause some negative feedbacks. You just ask for trouble."

Mills, D-San Diego, said it is "bad public relations" for the public to think that legislators use the plates as shields against traffic tickets.

Jack Johnson, press aide to Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, said some lawmakers connected the plates to vandalism.

"They'd be parked outside a meeting, and they'd come out, and paint would be scratched with can-openers," Johnson said.

Hospital Post Filled In GG

GARDEN GROVE — Dr. Guy P. Randazzo has been appointed director of respiratory services at Palm Harbor General Hospital, said Robert Heywood, hospital administrator.

Dr. Randazzo was employed at the hospital as a laboratory technician 10 years ago while attending medical school. He now is a clinical instructor at the UCI College of Medicine from which he graduated and has been in private practice in Tustin.

7 1/2 Billion Beans Sorted To Find Poisoned Few

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP). — One by one, bean after bean, six women are sorting through an estimated 7.5 billion soybeans to pick the bad ones from the good ones.

"I've got some reservations that this is the feasible way to do it," says Charles Wayne.

"We've got a problem."

The Burlington women are plucking their way through 50,000 bushels of beans in search of 50 bushels that had been sprayed with fungicide.

Wayne is an official of the Garbanc Grain Co., which owns the beans stored here at the Wayne Elevator.

He said this week about 50 bushels of contaminated beans had been treated with two fungicides, captan and molybdenum, which are harmful to human health. The treated beans were to be used as seed for this year's planting.

But the seed beans were inadvertently mixed into a barge-load of good soybeans in this Mississippi River town. The beans were then sealed in the elevator last July.

Fifty bushels of contaminated beans in a bin of 50,000 bushels means the women are looking for one bad bean in every 1,000.

How does Wayne know the women are shuffling 7.5 billion beans around? "It's not too difficult to weigh a few ounces, count the number of beans, and expand that into how many would be in 50,000 bushels," he explained.

The beans are moved over a slanted board where the women poke through them, looking for the telltale green coat on the bad beans.

"I tried picking for a half hour," said Wayne. "It isn't very stimulating work in an intellectual way."

"The women are being paid $2.60 an hour. They take some rest breaks, or chatter away."

"But I don't know when they'll get done this way. There's an awful lot of beans there, and I don't think this is the final solution, especially in an era of mechanization."

Wayne said that it takes three to seven days to pick out 400 bushels of clean beans, depending on how many bad beans are discovered.

Soybeans are currently worth

$5.80 a bushel, making those being checked worth about $280,000.

The company also had to pay $500 a day to hold the barge for 30 days before it was unloaded.

"Then there is the interest to be paid on the beans, plus storage costs," Wayne said. "I would say it will cost up $50,000 to $100,000 to clean the beans, and that may be on the low side."

He said male elevator employees originally started picking the beans last winter, but the women took over a few days ago.

Suddenly, it costs $5 less to live in California.

Now when Californians throw a party, they can afford to throw caution to the wind.

"Cause the Usher's Green Stripe Scotch Half-Gallon is now being introduced to California at $5 less than other premium Scotches.

So Californians can host parties where they serve the Scotch. Where nobody has to bring his own.

They can afford this generosity with the Usher's Half-Gallon. A beautifully built home entertainer. With a special built-in pourer that avoids spilling and splashing. And a special design that makes it easy to store and handle.

Usher's: At $5 less it's your best Scotch value! Isn't it great to live in California!

Who's Ripped Off?

That's what happens when a businessman puts his eggs in the political basket, expecting a lucrative hatchery to result thereby. Somebody, in this case the state legislature, drops the basket.

Consider poor Caleb (Bud) Swanson, president of Air Quality Products, Inc., of Santa Ana. Swanson manufactured three of the controversial NOx smog devices the state, only months ago, was in such a lather to require for all 1966-70 automobiles. Something, however, happened. Swanson may stand to lose more than $15 million.

In another instance pertaining to yet a different smog-control device, the federal environmental Protection Agency decided that a so-called catalytic converter was counter-productive in that it would put sulphuric pollutants into the air. At about the same time the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District (APCD) revealed that the NOx widget could have no perceptible effect on smog in the Los Angeles basin.

Apparently the EPA row-back plus the APCD notice induced the legislature to take a look at the automotive De-Nov Swanson, defending his vices. When legislators saw the evidence and the load of mail from home, they repealed the NOx law. Governor Brown, as of this writing, has neither signed nor vetoed the repeal.

products, grouches that the repeal is nothing more than a "political rip-off." Presumably what he means is that (A) politicians played a role in the episode and that (B) his enterprise stands to lose because of it; i.e. he'll be ripped off.

But the NOx device was a political rip-off—at least his description is accurate—to begin with. The people who are being ripped off the most, however, are the tax payers and those, because of political stupidity originating at the EPA, who would have to fork over the 15 or 20 dollars for mandated gadgets of dubious efficacy.

Mr. Swanson would do better to take his new problem as an object lesson. Business people simply should not bank on the surefootedness of politicians; what they'll get is either a dizzying ride in the pocket of a drunken swaggerer or corruption. They would do better to assess legitimate market demand.

It's What You Do

That Huntington Beach suit against the high school district, filed by a parent who charged teachers failed in his son's learning to read, has been tossed out of court by a Westminster judge, as probably it should have been. Nevertheless, we felt some private glee that somebody, James Sweeney, had the chutzpah to make the effort.

The tax-supported schools operate wholly on the premise that education is something they do to people, whereas education is actually something people, acting volitionally, do for themselves. That is why, as graduates' skills decline, more people are asserting that they learned more outside of school than they did inside. The late social critic Paul Goodman called this process "incidental education."

Indeed, to listen to all the teacher union demands and administration requests for money, you'd think the schools did in fact guarantee education; surely that is the overly ambitious claim.

While we were delighted that Mr. Sweeney, on behalf of his 18-year-old son, challenged the assumption—he said if teachers were going to call themselves professionals, then they'd better act like it, f'goshakes—he sought resolution of the matter in a place that could not resolve it: the court.

The sympathetic judge, Ragnar R. Engebretson, was substantially correct: if a student fails to read, that is not the school's fault. Education, it is the more obvious because of the Sweeney case, is something people do for themselves. That is the crucial point, especially in the existential situation of the inadequate classroom.

Coercive Obscenity

The problem that a newspaper has in telling parents about schoolbooks is that some of the material is so repulsive that a newspaper can't print it.

A Register reader recently sent us a letter that quoted from a book that was used in a junior high school. We do not know how the parent ever got up the nerve to copy the passages. Of course, we were not surprised.

Segments of the tax-supported schools have been foisting less-than-edifying literature off on their captive audiences for some time.

Dirty schoolbooks are not without their quota of defenders. Argument is made that a child might see things almost as bad at the corner drug-store, or, for that matter, in some of the publications sold on newsrack-type stands outside the stores.

This defense, however, misses the point. The drug-stores, the porno publications, the X-rated movies etc. can be pleaded for patronage, but they cannot force patronage. The tax-supported schools, on the other hand, have the power of the mental whip over students. That power is the mandatory attendance laws, not to mention the grading incentives.

It will perhaps come as a shock to many parents, especially those who have been less exposed to the seamy side of existence, when they learn that there is a degenerate type of mentality that gains a pleasure from exposing children to prurient information.

man and depictions. When a system is not dependent on the free choice of individuals for its survival, it tends to become a culture where elements can thrive that otherwise would be rejected or greatly diminished in size.

So the problem has grown in the tax-supported school system. It has grown to the extent that schoolbooks provoked a violent reaction among parents in West Virginia. It has grown to the extent that groups of parents in the eastern states are setting up special displays of schoolbooks in order that parents may see how bad the publications are.

In the long term, the tragedy is that many of the same parents who object to the books fail to see the seed from which the corruption sprang. The tax-supported school system originated from the Protestant Christian ethic.

In the remote past, church leaders were willing to resort to state coercion in order to accomplish what they supposed was a good thing. In the latter day, followers of the same ethic—as well as others—are protesting what that coercion has produced. The probable upshot is that a few vile books will be temporarily withdrawn and perhaps a few school administrators transferred to other jobs, possibly at higher pay. Unless, however, the coercive schooling system is brought to an end, children will continue to be its victims and parents will be able to do little except complain.

In History Today

Well, on the smoking or no-smoking question, another letter from Oklahoma states that the sender would "appreciate having my side published." We agree, and whenever possible are glad to allow both sides to be considered, especially when asked for.

"I don't agree with your thoughts regarding no-smoking in public places," this woman writes, "but resigned myself to thinking it would do no good to express my views."

"Tonight, after having spent four hours sitting in a smoke-filled hospital waiting room I can no longer hold my tongue! I am tired of being subjected both as a visitor and hospital employee, to coming home with a headache, burning nostrils, and eyes and having my hair and clothes reek of smoke."

"My health and comfort should receive as much consideration as the one who needs 'their nerves calmed' by puffing on a cigarette! Now, who's being unfair to who? It's about time something was done for MY minority group."

"I'm tired of having other people's smoking habits imposed on me and there is no way to avoid smoke-laden air if you are in any public place."

Well — there is the other side. There is always two sides and as we have said, it is all in the way you look at it. Everything can, in some measure or other, be harmful — guns, autos, electricity, water-wells, beanie-flippers, banana peels, etc.

Why don't we just throw in the towel and say, "Down with everything!"

Helping Hands

It happened just after I had thrown the last ball in the tenth frame at nearby bowling lanes in Fullerton. Our team was two marks ahead and looked like a close winner when suddenly I felt what wasn't a really sharp pain in the chest, more like a motor dropping into low gear just prior to cutting out. At that instant, all faculties fought to remain conscious and maintain equilibrium. I barely managed to tell my team captain about the chest pains before lurching to a bench between lockers to lie down.

It seemed only moments before a team of paramedics from the fire department were gathered around administering oxygen and checking vital areas while they consulted with a doctor at St. Jude's Hospital.

It was weird, lying there with the background sounds of bowling across 40 alleys. The doctor at St. Jude's decided I should be thoroughly checked at the hospital. A four-minute ambulance ride, X-rays and an EKG, and an hour's rest. Still dazed after being horizontal for two hours, they allowed my wife, who made a good show of being calm, to drive me home.

Funny how now I am more aware and appreciative of the simple things and beauty around me — the humming birds drinking from the feeder above the kitchen window, the amazing ability of the Meyer lemon tree to flower and bear fruit all months of the year, etc.

A profound thank-you to the fine paramedic team and to the capable doctors at St. Jude's for acting promptly to restore a 1905 model to running order.

New Column

"Today, in History," your new column, is a fine dragnet to bring random events to mind: The April 1st column mentions the birth in 1578 of William Harvey, English physician who explained the circulation of the blood. Another William, Shakespeare, was born in 1564, hence he "crawled to maturity" during Dr. Harvey's lifetime. In Julius Caesar, as of 44BC, Brutus says to Portia: "You are my true and honorable wife, dearer to me than: are the ruddy drops that visit my sad heart." Bill was evidently right-up on current happenings, although there is never mention of what was cooking in Europe or the New World. (Your column mentions the ages of living persons, a practice that may not meet with enthusiasm on the part of some of the meteteones.)

Foreign Policy

At a luncheon meeting in Washington, April 7, veteran journalist Phillip C. Clarke touched on the bankruptcy of our foreign policy, and told us

"we have been taken." He predicted that the leftist propaganda policy would now be: "Peace Through No-War Aid."

Clarke read a UPI report from Tokyo, released April 6, as follows:

A Green Beret veteran said Sunday he is returning 42 military decorations and awards he won in Vietnam to President Ford because of his dissatisfaction with the attitude of Congress and the American public to the war in Vietnam.

Skif Ettinger, of Pittsfield, Me., now living on Okinawa, said he was a staff sergeant in the U.S. Special Forces, fought for five years in Vietnam and was wounded twice. Ettinger told Ford in a letter his gesture "perhaps won't mean much to you or have any bearing on the situation, but I would not have peace of mind if I did not try to express my feelings."

"Personally," he wrote, "I can't see how the American people can sleep at night knowing they have thrown the freedom of Vietnam to the Communists."

"I now am beginning to wonder if our own people understand the meaning of freedom. When another country wants this same heritage, go to their aid. Is our heritage alive only in history?"

"I cannot look at them (medals) with the pride I once had. Let me assure you that all 55,000 Americans who gave their lives to fight against communism would turn over in their graves."

Journalist Clarke also quoted what the London Daily Express was saying:

"If America fails to honor her obligations to Cambodia and South Vietnam, the Russians and Chinese could draw the conclusion that America will not honor her commitment anywhere. That would be very bad news indeed for Asia, the Middle East—and especially for Western Europe."

Clean Source

Today's article (April 8) by Ralph Nader really stirred up my thus far restrained resentment toward the stupid drive of Nader, the Environmental Agency and the blind drive to stop all progress in these days of extreme unemployment and oil and power shortage and increasing costs of fuel and electrical power.

The cleanest possible source of electrical power is in the nuclear production of electricity. No one has yet been harmed or killed by the failure of those plants, and they are many, to this time. And the availability of offshore oil is proven. You don't hear of Britain and Norway stopping because of some possibility of some future trouble.

Surely our dire needs are worth rising some remote and unproven risks. All life has gone on in spite of possible dangers. Why just sit back and give up to unproven possibilities?

Isolated Events

I am writing this letter because I agree with an editorial that was published Thursday, March 20. The editorial was "The Coo and the Squawk," and it was regarding the United States' involvement with foreign countries that have oil. I really agree with what this person had to say.

The editorial stated our tendency to view the happenings all over the world as isolated events. We really do.

Inside Labor

Task Force Launched To Assist Nation's Newly Unemployed

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON—This story certainly isn't upbeat all the way. Nor is it a Pollyanna prose fortissimo. But it sure does beat down the perpetual purveyors of doom and gloom.

Though not observed by many, it happened on March 19 when some 58 men and women gathered in the AFL-CIO national headquarters for a full day tough work session at "The National Agency Conference On How to Meet the Immediate Needs of the Unemployed."

It was a case of the lions lying down with the lions. Men who have fought each other politically, philosophically, economically and professionally fashioned an anti-tragedy strategy to avoid heartbreak as well as hunger and broken homes and the new poverty.

To the parley called by Leo Perlis, director of the AFL-CIO Community Services, came representatives of the American Medical Assn., the American Bar Assn., bankers and government executives of the Republican administration, long under labor's fire. Also the Travelers Aid Society (now reorganized to include social services), the Red Cross and the Family Service Association.

And the National Foundation for Consumer Credit. All came to help the unemployed stave off the loss of a home, a car, even household appliances—and to carry the jobless workers, be they the suddenly stunned young people, the suddenly frightened executive, or laid-off factory worker through the everlasting congressional theorizing, recesses and strangulation by red tape.

"We agreed to disagree," says Perlis, "on those issues which divide us. But we decided to work together throughout the nation, in the desperate cities and counties, to provide help, health and legal aid to all who are in need during this emergency."

What's Left
It's easy to understand why the Mortgage Bankers Assn. representatives were asked as well as the Veterans Administration and HUD loan people. Jobless workers can't easily meet their mortgage payments while on unemployment insurance or what's left when the auto industry's Supplemental Unemployment Benefits run out. What the conference sought was extension and forbearance. Thus it was that the National Foundation for Consumer Credit and the Better Business Bureau were invited.

But why the Travelers Aid Society? Well, the history of the big depression rests on library shelves left there by those whose psyches block out ordeals. So the Okies, the Arkies, the workers who took to the road are parts of ancient unhappy lore. However, once again unemployed workers are hitting the highways, seeking work, arriving in strange cities, finding no jobs, or that they have been bilked by crooked agencies. So Leo Perlis invited the social service Travelers Aid people to come to the conference. They came, they'll help. And why the Red Cross? This recession doesn't seem to be quite its cup of coffee. But it is. There now are scores of thousands of men and women in the armed services who are sending money back home to hard-hit families. An enlisted man (or woman) starts at $345.10 a month. And much more as he goes up the line to sergeant major who rates $1,249.20 monthly. And keep. And health services, entertainment, the whole bit.

So the Red Cross, as in grimmer war times, is the intermediary between the far-away soldiers, many of whom are out of the ghettos and are young, unknowledgeable and somewhat confused by what's happening. But the money is going home and is helping. So the Red Cross was invited, and came and will help.

And the stress and friction of families whose breadwinners are bringing home nothing, or crumbs of part-time work may rip those families apart. So Perlis invited the Family Service Assn. people. They came. They will help, by counseling distraught wives, children and job-seeking husbands.

Sometimes money for health services is more desperately needed than dollars for food. So the American Medical Assn. was asked in. It did send a representative. It did say it would help. So, too, with the American Bar Assn.

Working As One

So this conference was not just the usual gathering of religious, charitable and social service workers or men from the Salvation Army. The conference put the whole thing together. It proved that the community can work as one instead of tearing itself apart.

I've talked with Perlis this past month. He reports that the ad-hoc task forces in hard-hit cities and counties now are operative. County medical associations will attempt to do what their doctors can't, to help the sick who need care but can't afford to become ill. So will the jobless be aided in other fields by the county bar groups, the bankers, etc.

There may soon be 300 hundred or so of these coordinated ad-hoc task forces. Proving that under all that grime, even crime, of our big cities, there is a heart.

Wake up, senator. We're about to discuss the shortage of energy.

To Stay In College, Or Not To Stay?

By JOHN WYKERT

NEW YORK (NANA)—Mid-term college vacations are over and now begins some hard decisions: To return to school next term or to do something else.

Dropping out of college has been "in" for quite some time and so the projection of college enrollment grows ever downward. In their excellent book, "Alternatives to College," authors Miriam Hecht and Lillian Traub take note that "there can be no quick characterization of the person for whom college would be right or wrong."

"Yet, we can hint at a single, broad purpose," they write. "If you find yourself asking questions—whether intellectual, practical, or personal—which can be answered within the formal academic structure of college, then think seriously of attending. If you have no questions, if you are considering college only for lack of anything better to do, then see whether there isn't some more productive way to fill the time."

Hecht and Traub point out that "it does not take extraordinary academic ability to benefit from college. What it takes is purpose. College faculties have suspected this for years and with the advent of large-scale open enrollment policies—under which every high school graduate can claim a place in college—their hunches have been confirmed."

"Admittedly, thousands of open enrollment students are seriously underprepared. That many drop out is not surprising; even in the most prestigious private colleges half the students drop out!"

In their book, the authors explore the whole range of alternatives to college, including nontraditional studies within colleges; they even discuss the complex notion of going to work.

Whatever the decision made by the college student, it should be one based on extended self-knowledge—on one's inclinations as demonstrated by individual interests, abilities, temperament and values. And it should be a decision made in the light of knowing that the social benefits of a college education are much overrated.

This is the contention of distinguished economists who pool their opinions in a recent collection of their essays, put out by the University of Michigan.

According to Prof. Theodore W. Schultz, "our talk stressing such social benefits represent a self-serving view that we in higher education find ever so comfortable."

"We like to have people believe that our college education benefits those who pay a part of the bill, among whom there are many who have or will have received less education than we have. According to this view, there are important social benefits, in addition to the benefits that accrue to you and to your classmates. We have invented a long list of such social benefits which are supported, not by evidence, but by rhetoric."

"For example, it is said over and over again that a person with a bachelor's degree is, because of his education, a better citizen than the less-educated person. But, where is the evidence that this is true?"

If all of this is disappointing, there is still another insight to be gained from the consoling opinion voiced by authors Hecht and Traub in their chapter on "College Reconsidered."

They point out that staying power is what makes those who return to college significant. Interestingly enough, they may not make dean's list, but they persist to graduate, and perhaps even to achieve their professional and personal goals.

What Mom and Dad and Junior, too, need to remember is there are honor students who would be better off anywhere else but in college and C students for whom college is exactly right.

It seems to me that sometimes the United States (especially the government) is more interested in other countries and what they can get out of them than with our own domestic problems. This really is not right. The United States really has enough problems and situations that need looking into, that they should spend more of their time "at home" and concentrate on their own country.

If the United States spent more time taking care of domestic problems and situations, I think our country would be in a lot better shape than it is right now.

South Vietnam

Dean Rusk said in 1964 to South Vietnam, "We shall remain at your side until the aggression from the North has been defeated, until it has been completely rooted out and this land enjoys the peace which it deserves."

"I urge President Ford to forget political considerations in this matter and uphold the United States SEATO promises. As Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces, he should call for military volunteers to defend South Vietnam and back them with his presidential authority."

NOx Dilemma

The NOx Dilemma is really a dilemma within a dilemma. It should not be considered only on its bad or good points.

Many of the "older cars" just sit on car lots and in driveways and are used mostly for short trips of a few blocks to a few miles. With or without the device, they hardly warm to operating temperature and efficiency during the short trips and stop-and-go driving.

Most of these cars are operated by people who work in smog-producing industries. These millions of dollars must be re-earned by these people back in these same smog-producing industries. It's not like we have a money tree in the back yard.

Panama 'Gift'

A few days ago I read that the presidents of Colombia, Costa Rica and Venezuela sent a letter to President Ford urging swift transfer of the Panama Canal from United States to Panamanian control. Through agreements intiated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, it appears that this administration favors passing major control over the canal to Panama.

No doubt there has never been a threat as imminent and as real to the continued authority and jurisdiction of the United States over the Canal and Canal Zone as the current United States-Panamanian negotiations on a new treaty relating to all aspects of that waterway. There is positively no moral or legal question involved in the Panama Canal. Panama has never owned the canal nor the Canal Zone and the title and ownership of the Canal Zone "in perpetuity" were vested absolutely in the United States and recognized in treaties ratified by the United States with Great Britain, Panama and Colombia.

The history of Panama, both as a province of Colombia and as an independent republic, reveals that it is notorious as an area of revolution and governmental instability. The country is now ruled by a pro-Arab and pro-Communist military dictator. What is really involved in the Panama issue is not United States control versus Panamanian but United States sovereignty versus Soviet control. The pro-Communist allies of the Soviet Union and Red China and the entire Marxist world are at work in this scheme to give away our Panama Canal. In recent years the Soviet Union has been engaged in a Global policy of attempting to gain domination over key water routes. To surrender the Panama Canal Zone to a pro-Communist government would be one of the most stupid and suicidal acts the American Congress could commit.

The time is far past due for the reversal of Mr. Kissinger's "give away" detente program. His foreign policy has already been proven a failure. The philosophical basis seems to be to go along with anything that the Communist suggest. Through this policy we have suffered grievous loss and the destruction of our allies.

Senator Cranston, I understand, favors a new Panama treaty. He should review all aspects of this matter most conscientiously. We cannot afford to give the Panama Canal to the communists.

Engine-Busters

If the Northern legislators want to penalize the Southerners, by making them pay for costly smog devices on their vehicles, then the Southerners should retaliate by making these same Northerners pay a penalty for crossing the southern county boundary lines without these so-called smog engine-busters on their vehicles, which they, themselves, advocate.

No matter how you sift it, what is left is pure outright discrimination against the southern part of the state, which incidentally pays for most of the states' tax bills. All should have it or none.

If a smog polluter from the North, crosses our southern boundary lines, he should be heavily fined, for not having this engine buster on his vehicle. What's poison to the South is also poison to the North.

Comparison

I congratulate those voters who placed Elizabeth Robertson and Mary Pryor on Santa Ana's school board. Just because they questioned federal aid has given a few dissidents incentive to rise against them.

Personally, I am against all federal aid, and I base my opinion on my teaching experience in three major-city high schools, Wichita, Detroit, (High School of Commerce) and Cincinnati. We did a better job without interference and a list of conditions from Washington.

There were no teachers' strikes then, and those who were dissatisfied with either the salaries or the profession, resigned. (I was one of them.) It took four years in high school to do what a first-class business school could do in two years. And in the latter, there were no disciplinary problems.

'Line Of Fire'

I expected the editor's note, which followed my letter of Feb. 17 concerning a previous editorial, "Law for Non-Smokers." I can't see where any great financial burden would be placed on restaurateurs if separate areas were designated for smokers. Smoke does not bother me, but many people do have physical ailments such as asthma and emphysema and deserve to dine out occasionally in comfort (just as you and I).

Also, if his car were being deliberately spraypainted, I find it hard to believe that the person who answered my letter with the following quotation would simply "move his car out of the line of fire. What else? Leave it there, hoping for the board of supervisors to outlaw spraypaint?" Come on, now! Well, maybe he would at that. But I would do something else. I would (or my Irish ancestors would surely turn over in their graves) no doubt feel compelled to very swiftly move the offender (the spraypainter), not my car, out of the line of (my) fire!

Viet Involvement

The overwhelming take over of South Vietnam in recent weeks has brought up the question that maybe our involvement in Indochina was all for nothing.

It is my belief that the North Vietnamese are in direct conflict with the so-called 1972 Paris Peace Agreement. Now that the Peace Accord has fallen, where is the United Nations?

After hearing reports of Saigon soldiers murdering refugees trying to board evacuation planes, giving up major cities without a fight, and leaving over a billion dollars worth of equipment and arms behind without attempting to destroy them, I find myself just as angry with the supposed defenders as with the invaders from the north.

That anger intensified after President Nguyen Van Thieu's April 4th speech when he blamed South Vietnam's setbacks on the United States. He said that America let the Communists bring all the arms and men into South Vietnam they needed for the current offensive, while not replacing Saigon's losses.

We can always say what we should or shouldn't have done and everyone can always blame somebody else for their problems, but I personally believe that the United States has done more than its share and Americans are still waiting to do more. I think we have proven that point in the recent "Operation Babylift," where we have once again helped a country in need.

Did we not do enough? Or were we wrong from the start? I don't know for sure. But, I do know that it certainly is a shame that we must spend money to destroy these countries and not to build them up.

Park Owners

Re: Your article on page B2 of the April 1 issue of The Register titled "Mobile Home Park Space Hike Probed."

Typically, Supervisors Batlin and Schmidt seem to take the attitude that if residents of mobile homes are flooding their offices with mail objecting to purported reassessments of the Parks, which they quite correctly fear will result in increase in space rents, then the fault must lie with the "greedy owners."

As a lessor of a park, the writer is in the same position as both the owner and the tenant. Therefore, I feel that I must write in answer to their implication that the owners are apparently using the tax increase to aid in a "rip-off" by increasing the rents. Does it occur to our elected representatives that the complaints are due to the probability that rents will be increased if the taxes are? The answer is not to freeze rents, nor to cast the blame elsewhere. The answer lies with the supervisors! Stop increasing spending, thereby reducing the need for more and more money to operate the county.

Neither owners nor residents want tax increases! The representative of the Mobile Home Owners Organization that became aware of the reassessment, and warned the mobilehome owners is a personal friend of mine. I know his intent is not to place the blame for any increased rents onto the owners, because he has repeatedly attempted to notify the owners are sympathetic towards the burden placed on their residents. We all want tax increases stopped! I hereby personally request that all park owners contact me so that we may begin our own letter writing campaign; we will also enlist our park residents to rewrite Mr. Batlin and Schmidt, "You ain't seen nothin' yet!"

STOL-port

Over five years ago many Anaheim citizens fought effectively to prevent the establishment of a prototype Metroport that their city administration had planned at the Anaheim Stadium. Anaheim is now involved in a study on regional transportation which proposes what is now called a STOL-port (Short Take-Off and Landing Airport) across from Anaheim Stadium.

The original Metroport plans were well advertised in an expensive 56-page brochure, which was distributed widely throughout the country. There was little or no publicity given locally until a few citizens became alarmed at the adverse environmental impact it would have on this established community. A copy of this book, "Anaheim Metroport" (January 1968) was in the library and any citizen aware of its existence could read on page 47: "The public should be educated to adjust to a certain amount of annoyance and other operational characteristics of aircraft; and to recognize that land areas within the flight pattern are unsuitable for certain types of land uses."

The "Anaheim City Newsletter," on glossy paper with excellent photos of city personalities, is delivered to 68,000 doors six times a year to provide a "summary of news of the municipality." Yet, no effort has been made to cate to inform Anaheim voters of the tentative proposal for a STOL runway NW and SE at State College Blvd. and Orangewood Ave.

STORRIS, Conn. (AP) A Connecticut pharmacy professor is conducting the first detailed experiments on Connecticut's state flower, the mountain laurel, in search of an anticancer agent.

While it's premature to determine whether the flower's substances may some day aid in the cure in human cancer, Associate Prof. John M. Edwards says they have been successful in reducing the size of cancerous tumors implanted in mice.

Edwards, 43, is working under a $12,571 annual grant from the National Cancer Institute to study the mountain laurel and the bluebell, another Connecticut wildflower. His experiments are in their second year of the three-year study.

Edwards said he picked the Connecticut wildflowers because of their availability and because some preliminary experiments had already been conducted on them at U Conn.

"The plant kingdom has hardly been looked at. There's only about 30 people in the country working on plant extracts. We must look to nature to help solve cures for things like cancer," Edwards said in an interview this week.

What's involved in Edwards' research is taking the sap from the plants, separating their compound ingredients, and then "fractionating" those compounds which are "active."

So far Edwards has been able to find an "active" compound comprised of a water extract which was able to reduce tumors in mice.

"We're still chasing that active fraction. We've zeroed in on a group of possible compounds but we must find out if they have active mixtures."

"We still have to fractionate those compounds to see if they are active enough. It may take another three years before we find a purified active compound. It's our hope to turn up a new structure that is active," Edwards said.

He said that because active chemicals in plants are often too toxic to be used alone, he hopes that his research can reveal a chemical which could be used in a future synthetic drug to reduce cancerous tumors.

"We're a long way from saying this could help human beings. The odds are very much against you in finding that active compound. Ultimately, I think a cure for cancer will be found in the field of immunology, not in a wonder drug," Edwards said.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, APRIL 18

Your birthday today: It's time to apply all your strength and intelligence to practical ends. Find a mode of operation that brings adequate reward for reasonable labor. Settlement of property questions is urgent. Get busy to define terms and limits. Today's natives have a special sense of natural phenomena, enjoy philosophy and travel.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Take nothing for granted as you move to close out your work week. Wherever possible, collect what people owe you; sell off surplus items for ready cash and to clear space.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You've got plenty to do with what is already in progress without taking on more. Speculation is too risky to even consider. Maintain your usual pace and pattern.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Settle down, get yourself self-improvement program underway. Keeping a straight face helps out, no matter what you think of the issues in question or of the people you meet.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You can't have everything your way, particularly since you didn't spell out what you want far enough in advance. Be patient. It all falls into place in due course.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You're not understood by others today and can't explain what's bothering you. Don't complain. Attend to essentials and don't leave loose ends to complicate the future.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Invite your friends in on your projects. Give them definite lines to follow. For the moment don't pay attention to their arguments that favor drastic or sudden changes.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Wind up the work week as though it's your last. Next week will have a different quality, since basic conditions are changing.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: The tide finally turns and you're in control. Be as good a winner as you were a sporting, temporary loser. Let bygones be bygones. Organize associates and suitable ventures.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Use caution in regular money matters. Chances of success are slim in schemes that are open to quick, informal entry. You try to compare answers of friends, but they disagree.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Set priorities. Let all concerned know what to expect and when, but don't depend on anyone but yourself to help make it happen. Promises are casually spoken and broken.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Bring matters to logical conclusions this morning. After midday, don't open new negotiation or raise any questions. Close out existing obligations; collect your rewards.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Put off the final stage in any transaction; you don't have pertinent data for decision. Postpone rather than regret. Your personal touch makes or breaks the day.

'Dan Meyer Night' Set For June 4

It is approximately seven weeks until June 4, but already they are selling special section tickets for an American League game at Anaheim Stadium between the Angels and the Detroit Tigers. That's because of "Dan Meyer Night." Former schoolmates, other friends and acquaintances are going to welcome back the young Tiger outfielder for what will be his first major league start in home country.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Meyer of El Toro, a graduate of Mater Dei High School and Santa Ana College, Danny Meyer is a ranking member of the remarkable group of young Registerland athletes who have made good in the Bigs. Only 23, Meyer quickly forged his way into Detroit's lineup after a couple of "seasoning" seasons on the farms, last year at Evansville where he batted .302. Detroit manager Ralph Houk already has been quoted as saying he's highly pleased with Meyer. Dan's first '75 start was against Catfish Hunter. Meyer hit the ball hard twice although both shots were caught.

Discounts Available

There will be a limited number of terrace box seats (at discount prices) available for "Dan Meyer Night" at the Big A, selling for $2.50, a saving of a dollar. They may be reserved by calling Mrs. Meyer at 586-5118.

By coincidence, June 4 also is to be Gary Sutherland Night at Anaheim Stadium. The former USC infielder from Glendale will be recognized too. His relatives and friends will be there in force reserving another terrace section.

Introducing DiBiasi

Nobody has to tell Dick DiBiasi that he's "in tough" as Stanford's new basketball coach. "Yes," agrees the personable 34-year-old who left Notre Dame to succeed Howie Dallmar at Stanford, "I am quite aware that the Pacific Eight Conference is the most formidable, all the way down, in the nation. Yes, I have heard about UCLA and USC. You better believe."

DiBiasi is in Southern California on a recruiting mission and this was one of his ports of call. High school hotshots are beginning to sign letters of intent now, and this will go on for several weeks, even more. His appointment came too late for the new coach to do much spade work. "I had no chance to develop relations with the high school-community college players but we are doing the best we can," he says.

He will have two assistants at Stanford and Dee-Bow (as he was called by pals at Notre Dame) says this announcement will come from Palo Alto soon—probably in a day or two.

California has had the most miserable April (weather-wise) in memory but DiBiasi laughs it off. "I fell in love with California years ago—the first time I ever set foot on the state," he says. "The sun will be shining before long."

Chosen Over 60

According to Stanford athletic director Joe Ruetz, himself a former Notre Dame All-America football player, DiBiasi was chosen from a field of 60 candidates. The athletic director and a 15-member screening committee conducted a national search for three weeks after Dallmar resigned.

Says DiBiasi: "I feel this job is a fantastic opportunity. It is a chance to compete in probably the strongest basketball league in the country. It's an opportunity to coach at one of the truly outstanding academic institutions. I've been interested in Stanford for many years. The caliber of the student-athlete is the type I'd like to be associated with as a head coach."

A 1962 graduate of Mansfield, Pa. State College, DiBiasi has been coaching 13 years. In his four years with Digger Phelps at Notre Dame, the Irish twice competed in the NCAA Championships and once reached the finals of the NIT in New York. They snapped UCLA's 88-game winning streak last year, beat the champion Bruins again this season.

Coached In Italy

Last year DiBiasi organized and directed his own three-week basketball camp in Italy. He's the author of several articles on coaching in basketball publications. He and wife Shawna have two children—Brian 11, and Shawna 8.

Although Stanford upset both UCLA and USC back-to-back on its own court early this year, DiBiasi knows there are immediate problems. He loses star center Rich Kelley and regulars Mel Arterberry, Mark Gilbert, Scott Trobbe.

The schedule will be better, at least until league play begins. Last season the Cardinals had only three home games before Jan. 17. DiBiasi's first Stanford squad will open in Maples Pavilion against Nevada-Reno, Minnesota, Wisconsin and USC before leaving home for the Marquette Tournament during the holidays.

Dodgers Rolling, Reds Lolling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Whatever momentum the Cincinnati Reds generated for themselves with their three-game sweep of Los Angeles last week in Ohio has been halted abruptly.

"We've lost everything we gained in Cincinnati," complained Pete Rose Wednesday night after the Dodgers came off the mat for a 7-6 victory, highlighted by Jimmy Wynn's dramatic seventh-inning grand slam homer that tied the game and Steve Garvey's two-out bases-loaded single in the ninth to win it.

The Dodgers now have won four straight including three in a row over the Reds. The two National League powers were to close their four-game series today at 1:15 p.m., Gary Nolan, 0-1, opposing Los Angeles' Andy Messersmith, 1-0.

"It's a brand new season for both clubs," Wynn gleefully said.

The Reds had shot out to a 5-0 lead, scoring four times in the third inning off Juan Marichal who made his second straight disappointing start for Los Angeles. Tony Perez hit a two-run homer to highlight the Reds' rally.

Ron Cey slugged a two-run home run for Los Angeles in the fourth off Fred Norman. But Cincinnati still led, 6-2, entering the bottom of the seventh.

Los Angeles loaded the bases after two were out. Rick Ayer bled singled to center. Then Fred Norman hit a sudden wild streak. He walked Dave Lopes and then went 2-0 to Bill Buckner when manager Sparky Anderson replaced Norman with young Pat Darcy. He completed the walk to Buckner, leading the bases. Then, on a 2-1 pitch, Wynn shot his grand slam into the leftfield seats.

"There was no doubt about it," Wynn said of the home run which leftfielder Pete Rose never even turned to watch.

The scored now tied, Rose led off the ninth with a single and when Buckner let the ball roll to the wall for an error, Rose went all the way to third.

Mike Marshall, who followed Marichal and rookie Rick Rhoden, then pitched masterfully the very heart of the Cincinnati offense. He got Joe Morgan on a soft roller to first. He got Johnny Bench on a tapper back to the mound. And he got Perez on a sharp grounder to first.

In the bottom of the ninth Auerbach beat out an infield single. Marshall struck out, failing to sacrifice. But Dave Lopes kept the rally alive with a single to right. When rightfielder Ken Griffey booted the ball for an error, it put runners at second and third and forced the Reds to intentionally walk Buckner to fill the bases with Wynn the hitter. But he fouled to third baseman Doug Flynn who fell into the dugout making the catch.

Next was Garvey who got his

NEW LOOK OF WFL — There will be a lot of new faces next summer and fall in the World Football League. From left: president Chris Hemminger will have such stars of the NFL as Paul Warfield, Calvin Hill, Jim Kiick, John Gilliam and Larry Csonka as drawing cards.

The league announced that 10 teams have met financial demands to try a second season, hoping to recoup some of the $20 million lost during the first troubled year.

WFL Promises New Stability For '75

NEW YORK (AP) — Pledging honesty and credibility, a new World Football League emerged Wednesday to announce it would field at least 10 teams in 1975 and to promise that its past problems would be rectified and never repeated.

League president Chris Hemminger, admitting the WFL has been the "biggest sports disaster in history," said a new corporation by the same name as last year's collection of broken promises had been formed to play a 20-game schedule this summer and fall.

Hemminger, who drew up the complicated financing formula under which league teams must place in escrowed bank accounts all anticipated operating expenses, pledged that past and future debts would be paid.

And he said franchises in Honolulu, Anaheim, Calif., Shreveport, La., Charlotte, N.C., San Antonio, Tex., Memphis, Tenn., Chicago, Philadelphia, Birmingham, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla., had met all his requirements and would field teams this year.

That gives the league 10 teams, and Hemminger has given potential franchise holders in Portland, Ore., two weeks to produce enough money to make their 11th WFL team.

When that issue is decided, the league will announce a 20 game schedule—two of which will be exhibitions. Games will be played on weekends beginning in late July, with the possibility of some television games being played in the middle of the week.

To be sure, this league faces major problems and a number of unknowns in its quest for survival. Additionally, there is the strong possibility that even if it survives, it will lose money.

One problem is the $7.5 million that is still owed to players and other creditors from 1974.

Hemminger said the new WFL—which legally is different than last year's WFL—had purchased its name from the old league in return for a pledge to pay off its debts.

A major unknown is Joe Williams, who a decade ago salvaged one league and who, the WFL hopes, still has another miracle left in his right arm, battered knees and huge public appeal. In that belief, the league is offering Namath $4 million to play for three years in Chicago, and is willing to give him—for nothing—half of a future New York franchise.

Brown Rallies Sonics, 100-99

OAKLAND (AP) — Fred Brown came off the bench to score 26 points, including 12 in the final quarter when Seattle came from behind, and led the SuperSonics to a 100-99 victory over Golden State Wednesday night to even their National Basketball Association Western Conference playoff series at one game apiece.

Spencer Haywood, despite sitting out 6 1/2 minutes of the second half, scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds for Seattle. His two free throws with 1:08 remaining gave the Sonics a 100-97 lead.

Rick Barry, Golden State's top scorer with 29 points, scored on a jump shot with 27 seconds left, but the Warriors were unable to get another shot in the second game of the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series.

Twins Slug Halos, 10-4

By JOHN STELLMAN
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Minnesota batters collected a dozen hits at the expense of three Angel pitchers Wednesday afternoon.

The only Twin who didn't get a hit was Tony Oliva. Instead, Tony O. got hit.

The Angels did a little hitting themselves, getting 10. But they also committed

So is Oliva.

"If it doesn't stop," he warned, "there might have to be some trouble for some people."

"We hit him with a curve ball," Dick Williams pointed out. "And we might hit him again tomorrow."

Oliva has been hit four times in the four games he's played. "I know they're pitching him in more," admitted Quilici, "but I haven't talked to him so I don't know if he's not getting out of the way, or they're direct shots."

out situation in the second, and left 11 runners stranded.

"It might be tough to pitch with a big lead," Williams said of Blyleven, who received a bases clearing double from Bob Darwin, "which was followed by Eric Soderholm's single in the first."

And just think, a little bandage might have caused all the damage.

HALOS—Minnesota infielder Eric Soderholm consulted Mike Marshall during the winter about the overall physical and mental care of the body.

Marshall, who teaches kinesiology at Michigan State University, is credited for the marked improvement in the condition of Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton's throwing arm.

Tarkenton spent more time with Marshall recently and is said to be the ideal of the National League's Cy Young Award winner.

Soon they forget department: The seat in the upper deck of the leftfield stands which marked Hank Killebrew's most prodigious homerun at the Met, has been removed.

Sign in the Twins clubhouse: "Let's live in '75."

Red Carew was surprised at being in the opening day lineup.

"It's just not my place to comment. If my name is on the card I play. It's just that simple," sighed Carew, who described his right arm as "murderous."

Of the Angels' speed, win manager Frank Quilici observed, "They're going to be a thorn in somebody's side."

On the predicted closeness of the Western Division race, Quilici said, "It all depends if nobody gets whitewashed the first month. If everybody stays even, it'll really be interesting."

Impressive Marks By 3 O.C. Preps

Newport Harbor High's David Kurasch grabbed a share of the Southern Section discus lead, Santa Ana's Steve Moraga ran the county's second-fastest 800 of the year, and Saddleback's John Peterson ran a windy 13.9, Wednesday in prep track action.

Kurasch, the national prep shot put leader, spun the discus 175-8 Wednesday in a dual meet against Fountain Valley to equal the CIF mark set last week by La Quinta's Richard Stewart. Kurasch also threw the shot 64-6 in his only put of the day.

Moraga's 1:56.7 came in a dual meet with Corona del Mar and is just shy of the county best 1:56.4 set last Saturday by Edison's Tom Lloy. Moraga

Gubler Pitches 4th Shutout

Don Gubler hurled his fourth shutout of the season, a school record, as he pitched El Modena High to a 10-0 win over Corona del Mar, giving the Vandergaards sole possession of first place in the Century League baseball race Wednesday afternoon.

Estancia outlasted Santa Ana, 3-2, in 10 innings, in the only other game played. Gubler struck out six and walked three in the contest while allowing only two hits. Bill Stokes paced the El Modena hitting attack with three hits, raising his league batting average to .421 (eight for 19).

Ralph Ronquillo singled home Glenn Robertson with one out in the 10th inning to give Estancia the win. Both teams scored an unearned run in the ninth.

CENTURY LEAGUE:
El Modena 5-2, Villa Park 4-3, Santa Ana 4-2, Estancia 4-3, Magnolia 3-4, Corona del Mar 3-4, Costa Mesa 2-4, Tustin 1-5.

Cal Lutheran Blanks SCC

Visiting Cal Lutheran College took advantage of two unearned runs to blank Southern California College, 2-0, Wednesday afternoon.

Cal Lutheran scored an unearned run in the sixth and seventh innings, although it failed to get a hit in either inning. Southern Cal pitcher Mike Wardlow struck out eight and walked three while giving up only two hits, but his team mates committed five errors.

Steve Bertoni, Cal Lutheran's hitting star, made two diving catches in the ninth winning to snuff out SCC's rally.

Sorce's Homer Powers Tars

Art Sorce hit a solo home run, his third of the season, in the sixth inning Wednesday to break a 1-1 tie and lead Newport Harbor to a 2-1 win over Western in Sunset League action Wednesday.

Edison stopped Westminster, 6-2, while the Marina at Los Alamitos contest was postponed until next Wednesday.

SUNSET LEAGUE:
Los Alamitos 3-0, Los Altos 1-1, Fountain Valley 4-2, Marina 3-2, Edison 4-3, Newport Harbor 2-1, Western 1-4, Westminster 6-2.

Jane Longs For End Of Golf Feud

PALM SPRINGS, (AP)—Jane Blaylock wishes the Ladies Professional Golf Association would put an end to the long legal hassle that began when it suspended her nearly three years ago.

The LPGA would like to see it finished, too, but says it has no plans to drop the issue.

Miss Blaylock, who comes into today's $200,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle tournament as the leading ladies money winner this year, has won every round in court.

"If I were going to a golf pro-couldn't beat 100, I'd try something else," she said.

"Everything that has come up, all sorts of issues, orders, appeals, I've won every one. So I'm batting 1,000 and they're batting zero."

"I would like to see it over with," she said. "It would be better for everyone."

LPGA Executive Director Bud Erickson said, "Obviously, if our attorneys didn't feel there was an opportunity to reverse the decision, we wouldn't appeal."

He noted the lengthy process and said, "Nothing ever moves fast in the courts. We'd like to have it over with, but you have to go at the pace the courts set."

It all started when the LPGA suspended Miss Blaylock in 1972 for allegedly in a tournament improving the lie of her ball—i.e., moving the ball. She went to court and in Atlanta U.S. District Court Judge Charles Moye ruled she could continue playing.

Last August, a jury awarded her $4,500, the amount she could have won if she had captured the only tournament she missed under the suspension.

Last month, Judge Moye tripled that amount and ruled the LPGA must pay Miss Blaylock's legal fees, which have totaled $98,303.

LPGA attorney John Howard, said the ruling would be appealed.

"In my mind it has been going on for so long but all the pressure and anxiety were relieved last August when the jury made the award and I won the suit," said Miss Blaylock.

"I would like the entire thing wiped off the slate, but they keep appealing."

"When I first took it upon myself, I knew what to expect, but I'm disappointed they keep appealing because I'm a member of the LPGA and I think for the welfare of the organization, it would be an intelligent decision to take care of this. It's kind of a dead issue."

"Let's start anew and realize that maybe we've made a mistake."

Tennis Anyone? 15,000 To See Collegians

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (AP)—While most college athletic departments are cutting the budgets of their so-called "minor sports," Stanford University's tennis team is booking accommodations at such places as Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

"We're in a very fortunate situation right now. We're capitalizing on it in a fun way," university's national championship team.

"Of course, it helps in recruiting," added the coach, whose former players include Roscoe Tanner and Sandy Mayer, and whose current squad is led by NCAA singles champion John Whitlinger from Neenah, Wis.

Gould's Cardinals will host their two most respected Pacific-8 Conference rivals, UCLA and Southern California, at Stanford's Maples Pavilion this weekend in matches expected to draw more than 15,000 paying tennis fans.

"We've sold more than 4,000 advance tickets for each night and expect at least one sell-out," said Gould.

The sellout of the 8000 indoor arena should come Friday night against UCLA, also unbeaten and bringing along a tough test for Whitlinger in Bill Martin, who has scored singles victories over Davis Cuppers Stan Smith and Tom Gorman.

In college athletics, the term "minor sports" can be translated to mean those sports other than football and basketball which lose money or—in many cases—produce no revenue at all.

"I don't know whether we're making money," said Gould. "We're certainly doing better than most."

It's a good bet that the Stanford tennis program has done better than break even since last season, when Gould invited UCLA and Southern Cal up for indoor night matches that drew 14,900 fans who paid $2 and up for seats.

Elder Returns To Favorite Course

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Lee Elder, the first black to play in the Masters Golf Tournament, returns to the site where he earned his invitation to that prestigious event when he defends his title in the Pensacola Open.

Elder, who failed to make the cut in the Masters' last week, won the Pensacola title last year by trimming Great Britain's Peter Oosterhuis in a playoff after each had scored 10-under-par 274s.

birdie on the fourth hole at the Pensacola Country Club course, a relatively flat, 6,679-yard layout lined with pine trees. It plays to a par 71.

Oosterhuis and 1974 Masters champion Gary Player also are in the field for this $125,000 event that opens today. A victory will be worth $25,000.

Player, who only tied for 30th place at Augusta National last week, said he is making a point of playing at Pensacola, "because they've been so very nice to me in giving me releases (from competing) the last two years."

Cuba To Play Major Teams?

PONCE, P.R. (AP)—Cuba apparently is interested in inviting U.S. major league teams to meet their powerful amateur squads, according to the International Amateur Baseball Federation monthly bulletin.

The latest bulletin quotes FIBA President Angel Zambrano of Venezuela as saying that the Cuban authorities have asked for permission to make the invitation. A FIBA authorization is needed in order for a professional team to meet an amateur one.

The bulletin does not mention any specific dates for the games, or if the invitations have already gone out, and to which teams.

"We're certainly doing better than most."

Pete Newell Reflects On Bill Walton

It seems the time to talk with Pete Newell of many things, not the least of which is Bill Walton. Newell's team, the Los Angeles Lakers, whose artistry has swayed to remarkable depths of depression, had indicated interest in entering into a transaction with the Portland Trail Blazers for ownership of Walton. This was to the delight of a portion of the population which somehow regards the fortunes of the Lakers as vital.

At the moment, however, there is a noticeable cooling trend on the boulevard. Having considerable to do with this is the most recent outburst of Walton wherein he called for the rejection of the United States government and referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation as "the enemy."

In view of all of this commotion, you inquire of Newell as to whether he still entertains a notion Walton would be an asset to the Lakers. Indeed, would Newell have such a controversial individual on his ball club? "Please let me digress a moment," Pete replies. "I have known Bill since he was in high school at La Mesa. At the time, I was general manager of the San Diego Rockets and Bill came to see most of our games."

No Political Views
"He had no political views that I knew of. All he was interested in was basketball. I came to know him as a potentially great basketball player and a fine young man."

"During the summer, he worked at the golf club where I was a member. He worked hard, conducted himself like a gentleman and certainly never came close to causing any trouble."

What Newell is telling us is that he does not know the Bill Walton of today's six o'clock news. This is a stranger, this creature who appears as if from the darkest area of the forest at the side of colleagues known to be of radical backgrounds.

"That's right," Newell says. "Therefore, I would have to have a long talk with Bill. Several long talks."

"It would be a matter then of Bill convincing me that he wishes to play basketball above all else and his attitude was such that he would help our ball club. At this point, I wouldn't have any idea whether he could convince me."

"But assuming he made me believe, then it would be a matter of me going to Jack and making my feelings known. After all, any final decision in this regard would have to be made by Jack."

Jack would be Jack Kent Cooke, the proprietor of the Lakers. Cooke is known to be beside himself with anguish over the dismal showing of his basketball side and has pledged that no stone shall be left unturned in order to correct the existing state of affairs.

Cooke Non-Committal
Whether he would go so far as to turn over a stone which would uncover Bill Walton, Cooke has not committed himself.

There is the attitude of the general public to consider. Dispatches out of Portland indicate much milling in the streets and fear from the offices of the Trail Blazers that stones may be thrown.

"There isn't any question the public is terribly down on Walton," allows Pete Newell. "The intangible is whether all this can change. The country was once as far down as it could get on Muhammad Ali."

"Anyway, to sum up the entire Walton issue, we had a great deal of interest in him before this latest thing happened and I will not now state that we do not still have interest in him."

What would have to be determined, of course, is the interest of the clients who purchase tickets.

It has come to this, beyond any dispute. The degree of civic involvement which was once projected by professional sports has vanished and it is no longer to what takes place. All transactions and understandings are strictly between those who stage the games and those who pay to see them.

La Quinta Gains Tie For G. Grove Lead

La Quinta High moved into a tie for first place in the Garden Grove League at the halfway point of the season Wednesday when the Aztecs stopped Santiago, 3-2, in nine innings.

Dana, El Toro Move Closer

Dana Hills High and El Toro moved within one-half game of first place Mission Viejo with victories in South Coast League baseball action Wednesday afternoon.

Dana Hills blanked Laguna Beach, 9-0, El Toro tripped San Clemente, 5-3, while University at Mission Viejo was postponed until Monday.

El Toro broke open a close contest in the top of the seventh inning with three runs and then held on as San Clemente rallied back for two in the bottom of the inning, only to fall short.

SOUTH COAST LEAGUE
Mission Viejo 5-2, Dana Hills 5-3, El Toro 5-3, University at San Clemente 3-5.

NEXT GAMES: Friday (3:30)—Laguna Beach at Dana Hills, San Clemente at El Toro, Mission Viejo at University.

NEXT GAMES: Friday (3:15)—Glenn at Neff, Mayfair at Gahr, Artesia at Cerritos.

Garden Grove edged Rancho Alamitos, 2-1, to tighten up the league race, which has only two games separating the top and bottom.

Rick Norris drew a bases-loaded walk with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning to give La Quinta the tying run and force the game into overtime. Randy Hunt, who led off the inning with a double, scored.

In the ninth inning, Greg Hanson singled and alertly sped to third on Charlie Leidenheimer's sacrifice bunt down the third base line. He scored on Kevin McCarthy's squeeze bunt. McCarthy, batting .400 in league (eight for 20) had two hits for the Aztecs while all-CIFer Oscar Millan returned to the La Quinta lineup after an absence of two and one-half weeks because of injury.

Leidenheimer (4-0) picked up the win, not allowing a walk in the nine innings of work. The La Quinta senior has given up only three free passes in 27 innings of action.

John Harmon tripled home Adrian Martin and Greg Brandt in the bottom of the third inning for Garden Grove's only runs. Steve Nemeth tripled home Rich Johnston in the top of the inning for Rancho.

ANGELUS LEAGUE

Relief Ace Saves ELA, 6-5

the rescue in the eighth inning to put down a Harbor uprising after two runs had scored to earn the Seahawks a 5-5 tie with the conference leaders.

Joe Villalobos singled with one out for Harbor in the eighth and scored on Bill Sambrano's double. Sambrano later scored on a passed ball and the clubs went into the final inning all even.

Sutherland put the Seahawks down in the top of the ninth and earned his eighth win of the season without a loss when Melvin Quarles walked, went to second on a wild pitch, then moved to third when Al Esparza drew an intentional walk and Darnell Barnett took an intentional walk to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Frank Fonseca punched a single to drive in the winning run and keep Sutherland in relief again Wednesday as he walked out of the bullpen and helped East Los Angeles College record a 6-5 Southern Cal Conference baseball win over Harbor's Seahawks.

The victory kept the Huskies entrenched in first place with an 8-2 record, thirty-three percentage points ahead of second place Golden West. The makeup game between the Huskies and Seahawks was the only conference game played Wednesday.

Today's schedule sends East LA to Cypress, Harbor to Rio Hondo and Los Angeles City to Santa Monica. Golden West draws a bye and waits until Saturday to resume its chase of East LA. The Rustlers host cellar dweller Harbor Saturday at 1 at Huntington Beach.

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — That grey-haired man laughing up his green sleeve these days is Charles O. Finley, controversial owner of the Oakland A's.

It was Finley's administrative slip-up that made pitcher Catfish Hunter a free agent and set up baseball's great bidding sweepstakes last winter. The New York Yankees won that auction for a cool $3.75 million, but so far Catfish has been ice cold and has won nothing for them.

Hunter has started two games for the Yankees and lost both by identical 5-3 scores. His 0-2 record is accompanied by an inflated 5.40 earned run average and when he left Tuesday's game against Boston, he was jeered and booed by the home crowd.

"I'd have booed me too," said Hunter. "I just wasn't making good pitches when I had too."

Good pitches involve a combination of factors, the most important being location. The speed and deception of pitches aren't in the right places. So far, Catfish's location has been nowhere.

Hunter says he knows what he's doing wrong and he intends to throw some between starts in an effort to get straightened out. That will instantly make him the highest paid batting practice pitcher in the history of the game.

Cerritos Hosts State Archery

NORWALK — Cerritos College will host the fourth annual California State Collegiate Archery Championships Friday and Saturday.

Cerritos, also the site of the 1974 championships, will greet California's top archers representing 16 different colleges. Community college archers will represent Mt. San Antonio, Los Angeles Pierce, Rio Hondo, Glendale, Palomar, Cypress, Citrus, Cerritos, East Los Angeles, Los Angeles Harbor, Los Angeles City, San Bernardino Valley, Riverside and City College of San Francisco. State university participants will travel from California State University, Long Beach and California State University, Los Angeles.

He just isn't throwing strikes, and throwing strikes is Catfish's secret. "I am not a power pitcher; I am a control pitcher," he said. "I have to hit my spots. That's what I have to work on now."

Catfish's control has been absent so far. He's walked six batters in 16 2-3 innings, a huge ratio when you consider that he walked only 46 batters in 318 innings last season with the A's. He's also given up 16 hits and 10 runs all of them earned, accounting for that giant-sized ERA.

In his first start against Detroit, Hunter surrendered a pair of long home runs that produced all the Tiger runs. Against the Red Sox, he kept the ball in the park—but barely. Boston batters hit some bawaka shots, and even some of the outs were slugged.

"My slider was good," said Hunter, "but I didn't know where it was going."

Catfish was in trouble early against Boston but squirmed off the hook until the fourth, when the Red Sox bunched four hits, a walk, a stolen base and a sacrifice fly for four runs. "I couldn't believe it," said Hunter, who saw a three-run lead go up in smoke in that single frame.

Bernie Carbo had three of Boston's nine hits against Hunter. Last year, Carbo had one hit all season against the Catfish. But that was when Hunter was wearing Finley's green and gold with the A's.

As for Finley, he decided in spring training that non-roster pitcher Mike Norris would replace Hunter on the A's staff. In fact, the replacement would go all the way to the uniform number—Norris was given Catfish's No. 27.

Like Hunter, Norris has made two starts so far. Unlike Catfish, the youngster has an earned run average of 0.00 and has allowed just four hits in 16 innings.

Fairgrounds Cycles Ready To Roar

The REGISTER Thursday, April 17, 1975 D7

Read Dear Abby In The Register

By ART PARKA
The Orange County Fairgrounds speedway grandstands have been repainted, infield decorated with colorful flowers, pit area hard-topped and the Costa Mesa police department decibel meter uncovered.

All this means the seventh season for speedway motorcycle racing will open Friday night at the familiar stand.

Harry Oxley, entrepreneur of the 30-week program, has everything in readiness and is marking time until his starter waves the green flag. This marks a big year for the man who successfully brought back Speedway bike racing.

Fact is, Oxley and his operation is sitting at the crossroads and anxious to see just which turn the sport will take.

Will attendance level off or will it continue its upward spiral? This is one of the questions waiting to be answered.

Oxley is expecting another record-breaking year. "We've broken attendance records every season since presenting our first race here at Costa Mesa back in 1969," explains an enthusiastic "Godfather" in the sport. "I don't feel 1975 will be any different."

Great '74 Season

Last season showed a fantastic 30 per cent increase in turnstile count over 1973. If this figure is met again, fans will be sitting on each others lap as the majority of programs last season ran before capacity crowds.

The fan count will have to level off sometime. This might be the year. If overflow crowds continue greeting the popular "scratches", Oxley is looking down the barrel of another major problem.

Seated in the stands Friday night will be proponents of the so-called Speedway Motorcycle League. If response if overwhelming, these "Johnny-come-lately" promoters will mount an all-out effort to get the four city (San Jose, Seattle, San Fernando Valley and Orange County) league underway. They will have necessary ammunition to "sell" financial interests in the undertaking, although there doesn't seem to be much hard cash showing at this time.

Should this take place, riders will be caught in the middle. If will take top performers participating before the league would have any chance of survival. Should "name" riders defect and join the "quickie" (10-week) league, it would create chaos. Chances of this taking place is remote but so is the second year for the World Football League and they say they are going ahead.

Test Of Loyalty

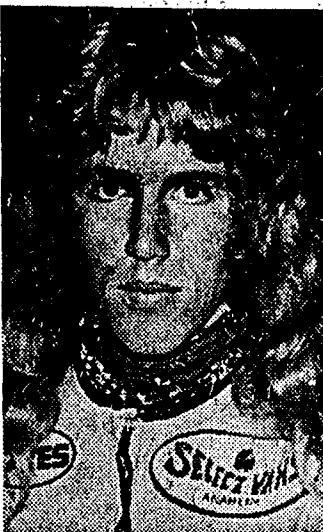

Should several super stars sign SML contracts, it would then switch to a test of fan loyalty. Would they desert the Fairgrounds operation in favor of a new enterprise? Not likely!

Oxley has provided top entertainment at a price within reach of every family. There hasn't been a ticket cost increase in two years and parking along with programs are free. Fans sit close to the action and the facility is the best to be found. There isn't another spot in Orange County as comfortable and as convenient, all plus marks toward Oxley holding what his group has developed.

When the first riders are called to the line Friday night, the field will sound like a "who's who" in Speedway. Included will be national champion Steve Bast, former champion Mike Bast and Rick Woods, Sonny Nutter, Wild Bill Cody, Larry Shaw, Scott Sivadge, Dubb Farrell, Billy Gray, Danny Becker, Mike Curoso and the new golden boy of speedway Jeff Sexton.

The scene is set, the track is ready and the world of speedway will soon set a path for the future.

Hillclimbers Here

Motorcycle hillclimbing moves in closer to Registerland on May 10-11 after a meeting at Utah last week. The World Championship Hillclimb, sponsored by Anaheim's James Mock, Inc., will be held at DeAnza Cycle Park in Sunnymead.

Hillclimbers from across the nation will converge on the Super hill, competing for trophies, finisher pins, money and contingencies. Saturday will see stock and street bikes trying their luck, beginning at 9:00 sharp. Sunday's event is the big run for money, starting at 8 o'clock. DeAnza Park is located eight miles east of Riverside Raceway on Highway 60, off the Theodore ramp. Signs will direct fans to the park.

Dacas Is Racing

Dacas Competition, Ltd., a racing group formed by David Day and Jon Castle in 1973 will keep Garden Grove on the Sports Car Club of America motorsport scene. Since the pair formed the organization, Marv Wright and Jim Klyce have been added and now the foursome are pursuing their sport in a more professional manner.

Day will do the driving, Castle is crew chief, Wright handles public relations and Klyce is the fabricator and handles metal work. They were now building a new E Production MGB with a thought of renting it to drivers...The car will also be available for regional races. DACAS long range plans indicate future expansion toward preparing the shop as headquarters for fellow competitors.

PARRA-graphs — Tom White (Santa Ana) is one of the top riders in the AMA action. Last Friday, White won the rain-delayed trophy dash opener. Another program is slated for Friday night with John Allison, a 19-year old scholar from Poway, challenging veterans Gene Romero and Mert Lawwill.

Ron "Sleepy" T. (Costa Mesa) scored a clean sweep victory at Speedway 605 last Saturday night, driving a VW-powered midget.

NHRA and Winston Cigarettes have a great marriage going. They will put on a 43-race series henceforth to be known as the NHRA Winston World Championship Series.

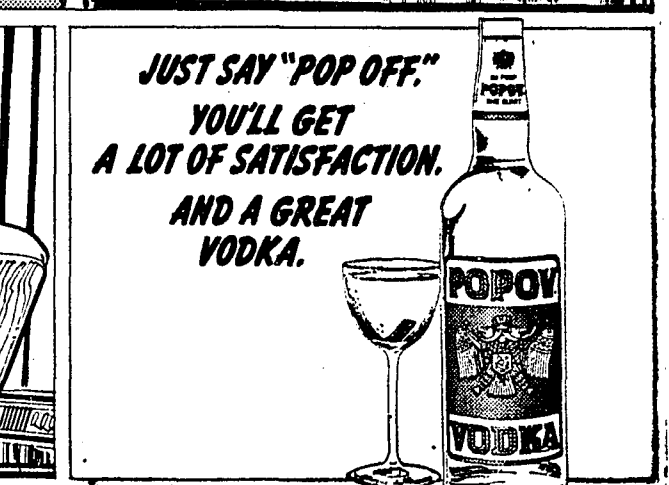

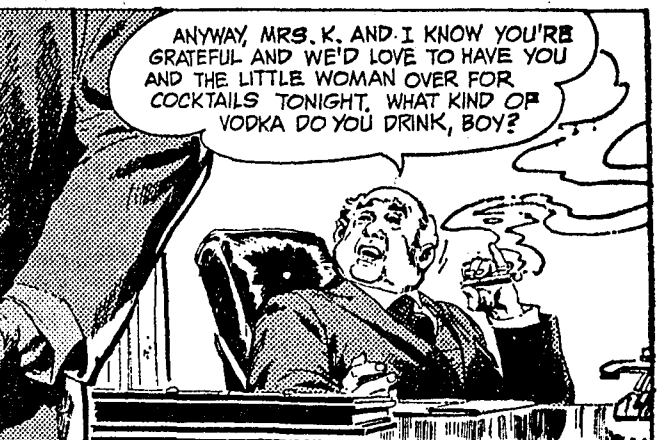

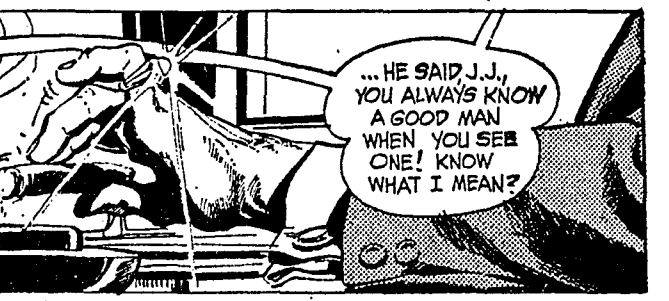

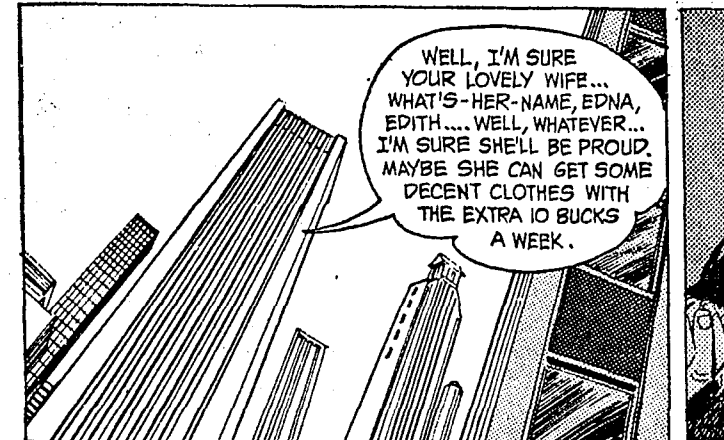

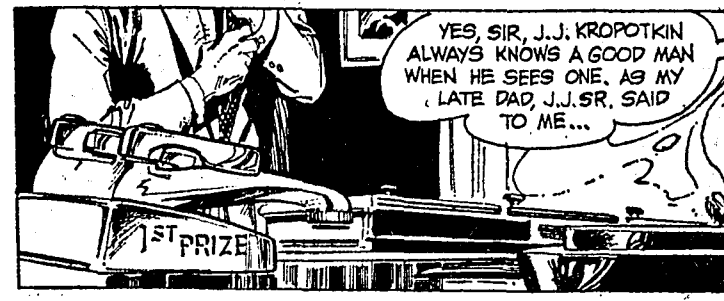

How about some USAC tid-bits? Jimmy Carruthers' (Anaheim) Nanzanita victory was his 20th career win in midget division, tying him with A.J. Foyt for a USAC midget wins. Nanzanita is near Phoenix.

Rick Autbeloe (Laguna Beach) seemed hapless at having run 17 laps quickly at Ontario than some winners seen at major tracks. Rick is hoping the ride he gave Foyt's backup Copple will get him a crack at Indianapolis with the Houston flash. Foyt said, "Rick might have to get a haircut if he drives for me at Indy."

Jim Hurtubise, one of the most popular drivers to sit a car at Indy or any other track and last to exit the old roadsters has a barn full of semi-police dogs in the puppy stage. He is going to train them for watch dogs.

Another Gutman is getting into the racing picture. Joe Rutman, brother of 1957 Indy winner Troy is campaigning a sprint car this year.

Lloyd Ruby's 500-mile race starting string snapped at 24 when failing to land a car at Ontario. He had started in 15 straight at Indy, plus every one at Pocono and Ontario until passed over on March 9. Time marches on!!!

HORNETS, MT. SAC MEET FOR ANNUAL TRACK TITLE SHOWDOWN

For the fourth time in the state championship. South Coast Conference's six-year track and field history, Fullerton College and Mt. San Antonio meet to decide the conference dual-meet championship.

The two undefeated teams—Fullerton is 4-0 and Mt. San Antonio 3-0—meet on the Hornet track at 3 p.m. Friday. Last year Fullerton handed Mt. SAC its first-ever South Coast dual-meet loss and went on to win as a common foe. Fullerton rates as a slight favorite. The Hornets edged Orange Coast 75-23 to 69 1-3, while Mt. SAC nipped the Pirates 74-23 to 70 1-3.

Friday's showdown could hinge on how rapidly John Winstead's sore leg has healed. The Hornet sprinter, who has bests of 9.7 and 22.0, suffered a hamstring injury against Orange Coast and has not run since. He is expected to run Friday.

With Winstead healthy Fullerton would be able to split with the Mounties in the sprints and its strong distance corps to nullify Mt. San Antonio's fleet hurdle crew. Freshman Jose Saavedra is the Hornets' fastest miler with a 4:14.1, while Armando Cendejas has the best three-mile time at 14:19.8.

The Santa Ana-Orange Coast matchup at Long Beach State will pit Don frosh Bill Graves against the Pirates' undefeated John Olsang in the mile. Graves sped 4:11.5 last Saturday in the San Diego Relays, and leading the PCAA while the perennial national champion Trojans have slipped to 23-9 and are off to another slow start in the Pacific Eight race. USC has several Orange County players on its young team.

It will follow an American League clash between the Angels and Boston.

The Titans are currently 23-8

Saddleback, Valley, Katella Duel VP For 'County Title'

Saddleback High, Santa Ana Valley and Katella are expected to provide most of the competition for defending champion Villa Park in the 3rd annual Orange County Championship track meet this weekend at Bolsa Grande High.

The two-day meet has entries from 23 county schools and gets underway with prelims Friday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. Saturday's field events finals will begin at 2 p.m. with the first race slated for 4 p.m. Friday, prelims will be held in everything except the mile and two-mile races.

Saddleback is paced by hurdler John Peterson, who leads the Southern Section with a windy 13.8 clocking. He ran a windy 13.9 Wednesday and has three 14.0 times to his credit this year.

Santa Ana Valley, which defeated Saddleback in the City winners. They are aided by halfmile. Santa Ana's Steve Moraga, who set a meet record of 1:56.0 last year, will be the favorite after running 1:56.7 in Wednesday's dual meet against Corona del Mar.

Pushing Moraga will be El Toro's Ken Young (1:57.6), Mission Viejo's Tim Borland (1:58.4), and Saddleback's Randy Cammer (1:58.6).

The high jump will also be competitive with El Toro's winners. They are aided by sprinters Glen Evans and Dave DeLeese.

Villa Park will be minus its automatic pole vault points since Keith Schimmel (16-1½) and Tim Vahlstrom (16-1) will be competing in the Arcadia Invitational on Saturday night.

Spartan soph Jim Sider has gone 13-4.

Protectora In Hollypark Race

INGLEWOOD — Protectora, fresh from a convincing victory in the $35,000 added Orchard Handicap at Gulfstream Park, Fla., makes her western debut Friday when she takes on five rivals in the $25,000 morning-side Purse.

The Morningside, a mile-and-one-sixteenth turf race for older fillies and mares, also attracted Joli Vert, Victorian Queen, Kamadora, Belle Marie and Mercy Dee. Many of these fillies are pointing for next week's $40,000 added Long Beach Handicap.

Protectora, a six-year-old clean-bred mare, has won three of six outings this year, including the grassy orchid Cap in Florida three weeks ago. The Randy Winick-trained mare, dominated the sophomore filly division in her homeland in 1972, winning seven of eight before being shipped to the U.S. Octavio Vergara, likewise from Chile, will do the riding.

Youth Signups

Signup dates for boys interested in playing Golf or Thoroughbred racing in the Los Alamitos area have been set for Saturday, April 19 and again on April 26. Boys from 12 to 18 years of age may sign up for the Los Alamitos Golf and Thoroughbred Association. The sign-up fee is $1.00. Additional information may be secured by calling 528-2445.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks advanced again in near-record trading volume today, but some of the profit taking reduced the size of the gains.

Brokers said the gain, the steepest since the market's eighth in a row, stemmed from investors' continuing to look beyond the present economic slump to a hoped-for recovery later in the year.

Thus prices showed few ill effects from the government's report that the nation's Gross National Product fell at a record 10.4 per cent annual rate — after adjusting for inflation — in the first quarter of the year.

"The rate of decline in the GNP was actually a little less than the Street had been generally expecting," pointed out Larry Wachtel at Bache & Co.

A government economist, furthermore, said the inventory reductions and lower inflation rate shown in the government figures tended to bolster hopes for a flattening out in total output in the current quarter and as upturn in the second half.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up more than 13 points in the early afternoon, settled for a 3.75 gain at 819.46.

New York Stock Exchange volume reached 32.65 million

NEW YORK (AP) — Union employees of the American Stock Exchange announced today they have voted to strike the exchange on May 1 unless demands covering wages, automation and a union shop are met.

John Brady, president of the United Financial Employees Union local 205 said the key stumbling blocks to a settlement before the current contract expires are the union shop and the Chicago Board of Trade to open under light, but steady support. Prices were still rather small except for new crop soybeans which were bought by some of the speculative element.

Iced broiler prices were steady to about 1/2 cent a pound higher.

Gold futures advanced near $2 an ounce, reflecting higher prices for bullion in Europe.

After the midway point, soybeans were 2 1/2 cents lower to 5 higher, 5 3/4; corn was unchanged to 2 higher, May, 2.80%; wheat was unchanged to 1 higher, May 3.49%; and oats were unchanged to 1 higher, May 1.17.

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar declined Thursday while gold rose in fairly quiet foreign exchange and bullion trading.

The British pound was quoted late Thursday at $2,8680 compared with $2,3650 in early dealings Thursday and $2,3655 in New York late Wednesday.

Gold was quoted in London late Thursday at $168-169 an ounce bid and offered up from $166-167 late Wednesday and $163.75-164.75 late Tuesday.

MUTUA FUNDS

Central Bell 25-year bonds priced earlier in the week at par to yield 9.20 per cent traded up at par bid, 100.25 offered. The utility's 8-year securities, offered at par to yield an 8.20 per cent, slipped to 99% offered, par asked.

Municipal issues, exhausted from the sharp drop over the past two weeks, were unchanged and quiet.

Fed. funds traded at 5 7-16 bid, 5% asked.

EECO Earnings

Electronic Engineering Co. of California, Santa Ana, (EECO) reported net income of $280,000—equivalent to 46 cents per share for the quarter ended March 31, 1975.

This compares with $286,000—47 cents per share for the corresponding quarter of 1974.

Auto Show Planners Lauded By MCDA

Harvey Hiers, executive secretary of the Motor Car Dealers Association of Orange County, cited a number of members for special assistance in planning the current Orange County International Auto Show.

The show, now attracting large crowds at the Anaheim Convention Center, is exhibiting 1975 models of both U.S. and foreign auto makers, as well as many classic and exotic cars.

Among those singled out by Hiers for recognition are Bob Booz, immediate past president and director of the association; Les Elmore, director; Bob Wilde, 2nd vice president, director, and line chairman for Datsun; Lyle D. Roy, director and line chairman for Chrysler-Plymouth; and Ward S. Lee, line chairman for American Motors.

RULES 'IDIOTIC'

U.S. Water Standards Drowned In Protests

BOSTON (AP) — Proposed new federal standards to insure that water is fit to drink drew fire this week from community and state water officials who said they lack the money and people to follow the rules.

"Where are we going to get the chemists and sanitarians and people to do this job?" asked William H. McGinness, Cambridge water superintendent, who told an Environmental Protection Agency hearing his city's water system is 125 years old.

McGinness objected particularly to a provision requiring advertising in newspapers and informing local radio and television stations if the community water supply does not meet the federal standards.

"What is all this waving of the red flag; what is all this hysteria?" he asked. "It doesn't make any sense in Massachusetts and New England where we have been behaving ourselves and doing the job."

Kenneth L. Johnson, deputy regional EPA chief, said New England has had some problems with its drinking water — that 80 cases of giardiasis, a water-borne intestinal illness, have been discovered in three New England outbreaks, and there were 1,793 cases of infectious hepatitis last year, "many of which were probably caused by contaminated drinking water."

McGinness, former president of the New England Water Works Association, was the only speaker to draw applause from an estimated 150 water authorities at the public hearing. He termed the reporting rules "absolutely idiotic."

But James Rogers, an EPA lawyer, told the hearing that those rules follow the language of the law. "In the act, Congress was fairly specific about the comments for public notice," he said.

Philip C. Beale, water superintendent for Hanover, said for him to follow up the demands for a minimum of 14 tests every other day all year would cost up to $25,000 more per year.

"Just because Uncle Sam says it's got to be done doesn't mean the 600 to 1,000 people at town meeting are going to go for it," he said. "We sample right now all our ground water sources each week."

The exchange came at the first of four EPA public hearings on the proposed maximum limits for pollutants in drinking water supplies. This hearing covered New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Other hearings are scheduled for Chicago, today; San Francisco, April 22; and Washington, April 25.

The hearing panel noted that the new rules won't take effect until December, 1976, and other regulations, planned for 1977, are being developed on water supply sources.

Orange Restroom Ordered Closed

ORANGE — The public restroom in the 100 block of S. Orange St. has been ordered closed by the city council because the facility has become a "favorite hangout for homosexuals from all over Orange County," said police chief Merrill Duncan.

Duncan said restrooms are available at nearby stores, offices and service stations.

Councilmen suggested moving the sinks, commodes and urinals to a new restroom facility scheduled to be built this summer at Hart Park.

Candlelight Ball To Fete Assisteens

National Assistance League Medallions will be presented to 13 graduating members of the Assisteens Auxiliary of Assistance League of Santa Ana during the 11th annual Candlelight Ball Saturday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in Santa Ana Country Club.

Miss Janet Tweedie, Assisteens chairman, will entertain members and their dates at a 6:30 p.m. pre-party in the Santa Ana home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Tweedie.

Assisteens are the daughters and granddaughters of Assistance League members. The ball is a traditional family gathering to honor graduating Assisteens.

In addition to Miss Tweedie, the seniors include Misses Shirley Bierma, Lori Boyer, Ginger Canfield, Kelly Christeson, Debbie Franklin, Mary Ann Hodges, Cathy Johnson, Lori Long, Mary Nienow, Martha Pleshe, Barbara Schuh and Lynn Stopher.

Arrangements for the ball are under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Gordon Mann and her daughter, Missy, and Mrs. Christeson and her daughter, Kelly. Assisteens ball chairman is Cathy Johnson.

Others planning the program include Mrs. Robert Threshie and daughter, Ann, invitations and programs; Mrs. William Rogers and daughter, Dana, reservations; Mrs. Don Martens and daughter, Kim, decorations; Mrs. Warren Finley and daughter, Cheryl, bouquets; and Mrs. R.S. Holt and daughter, Jennifer, photography.

Mmes. Hodges, chairman; Bryon McMillan, alternate; and Boyer, advisor, are coordinators for the auxiliary.

Philanthropic projects which the Assisteens supported this year were the deaf children's bowling league at Madison School, baby layette program for needy mothers, Operation Schoolbell of Assistance League, and Children's Dental Clinic of Junior Assistance League. They also helped staff the recreation room of Children's Hospital of Orange County and the League Thrift Shop.

Eyes Need More Than Makeup To Be Pretty

By JENNIFER ANDERSON

The eyes are probably the focus of more attention than any other facial feature. But before we even think of beautifying their appearance, we should emphasize the importance of protecting their health. Sight is one of our most precious gifts. Healthy eyes are too often taken for granted. Women who normally have regular check-ups in other health areas often neglect a regular eye examination.

Here, then, are some tips on putting a natural sheen, clarity and sparkle back in our eyes.

Dear Jennifer:

I'd like to wear eye make-up but my eyes are often bloodshot and have puffy lids. I feel that make-up would only call attention to them. Is there any way I can get rid of these problems so that I can wear eye make-up effectively?

Cathleen T., Vancouver, B.C.
EYE EXAM

Dear Cathleen:

See your eye doctor right away. Bloodshot and reddened eyes with puffy lids need immediate attention. By the way, the rule is to have an eye examination once every two years if you are under 40, once a year after that age and more often, of course, if there are special problems about which your doctor will advise you.

Here are some eye care tips for natural health and beauty:

HEALTHY TIPS

- Never let anyone other than your doctor remove a foreign body from your eye.
- Have the proper lighting when reading, sewing, watching television, working on hobbies.
- Don't use cosmetics if your eyes are sore or inflamed.
- Never swap eye make-up with a friend. Disease can be transmitted this way.
- Give your eyes rest periods during visual activity.
- Do wear safety glasses for any job or hobby that calls for eye protection. And that includes sun-bathing.
- Don't overdo the use of eyedrops. If bloodshot eyes persist, see your doctor.
- If your eyes itch, your nail polish could be the culprit that is causing an allergic reaction. Remove the polish, but still make an appointment to see your doctor. It's better to be sure.
- And, I repeat, most important of all is to have regular eye examinations.

SENSITIVITY PROBLEMS

Dear Jennifer:

My eyes are very sensitive. Some days they will be sore and burning just from walking to work in dust, smoke and fumes. My eye make-up certainly doesn't look very good by the time I get there. Any suggestions?

Marilyn P., Davenport, Iowa

Dear Marilyn:

Smoking, smoke-filled rooms, city pollution, alcohol and chlorinated swimming pools are just a few of the enemies of sensitive eyes.

I'd suggest that you leave off all eye make-up until you arrive at work. Tearing eyes, mixed with mascara and eyeliner, can make anyone's eyes sore and burning.

Ask your doctor to prescribe some mild eyedrops as a wash to soothe your eyes. Use them before you apply your eye make-up.

Banks Lure Depositors' Money With Various Gifts

An ad for a bank just promised me a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange) if I deposited $500.

This is not the first time they've tried to woo me into parting with my money. A few months ago, it was a popcorn popper for a new $1,000 savings account and a thermal blanket with dual controls for a $10,000 certificate.

Frankly, I'm delighted to see that banks have finally become realistic about the value of money.

The other day my husband and I went into the bank to float a loan for a new car.

The banker was pleased. "Fine," he said. "Now what do you have as collateral?"

We could hardly contain our excitement as we exchanged glances. "Mr. Farquardt, for the use of your $1,000 for one year. . . no fair taking it back before then. . . we are going to give you either a set of matching Cannon bath towels or a genuine cowhide billfold with a picture of Debra Paget, suitable for framing."

"You're kidding," he said.

"I told you he'd get choked up," I said nudging my husband. "Tell him the rest."

"If you let us have the money for two years without touching it, we'll throw in a Bonsai tree guaranteed to grow 1½ inches a year."

"Just a minute," said Mr. Farquardt. "The bank is not a discount house. It's a lending agency."

"Then what are all those cookbooks and dishes doing in the lobby?"

"That's just an incentive for people to deposit money."

"Wonderful, and we are offering you the same opportunity to lend it."

"I'm afraid that's quite impossible," he explained. "You have no car?"

"That's why we are borrowing the money."

"Your house?"

"You already own it. Look, Mr. Farquardt, this is our last offer. For the loan of $1,000 we will give you a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange)."

"What would I do with it?" "The way we figure it," we said, "you're the only one in town with a pot to cook in."

CONVENTION HEAD — Mrs. Jack M. Lyons of South Laguna is chairwoman of the Auxiliary Section of the Convention of Association of Western Hospitals, Monday and Tuesday, April 21-22, in the Embassy Room of Disneyland Hotel, Anaheim. The conclave is being held in conjunction with the association's 3-day convention which will extend through Wednesday. Auxiliary representatives will include more than 1000 hospital volunteers from 11 western states, Hawaii and Alaska. Assisting the chairman with advance preparations are Mrs. Kenneth Dukes of Garden Grove, secretary and coordinator of round table discussions and workshops; Mrs. William H. Welch of Fullerton, public relations and publicity; Mrs. F. L. Sorsabal of Costa Mesa, state leaders reception chairman; and Mrs. Robert Lane of Buena Park, guides and hostess chairman.

OC Chinese Club To Hold Membership Tea

CULTURAL GATHERING — Orange County Chinese Club has scheduled a membership tea Sunday, April 20, at 2 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Lee, Huntington Beach. Richard Sun of Los Angeles and Miss Marilyn Chen of Cypress will present the program. Sun, an authority on Chinese art and a painter, will lecture on 'Appreciation of Chinese Ceramics' and Miss Chen, first place winner of the 1974 Mozart Festival held in Long Beach, will play piano selections by Bach, Chopin and Bartok. Refreshments will be prepared and served by club members. Guests will be greeted by Messrs. and Mmes. Frank Wong, co-presidents, John Petruzzello, third vice presidents; Mmes. Lock Gee Ding, first vice president; Arthur Powell, second vice president and Fred Jue, treasurer, with Chester Yee, parliamentarian. Club advisors are Dr. and Mrs. Loh Seng Tsai; Dr. and Mrs. Ding, Messrs. and Mmes. Henry Chow and Kenneth Lui. Prospective members wishing to attend the tea may call Mrs. Petruzzello of Stanton for reservations. Taking a tea break from planning the event are Mmes. Petruzzello, chairman, Lee, hostess, and Miss Chen.

LB League To Attend Theatre

The Assistance League of Laguna Beach bus trips to the Shubert Theatre in Century City will begin Wednesday, April 30, with the matinee performance of "Seascape", starring Deborah Kerr.

According to Mrs. Grover Brown, ways and means chairman, price of tickets includes bus transportation, leaving from various locations at 9:30 a.m., center front, orchestra seats at the matinee and happy hour on the return trip.

A list of stores in Beverly Hills will be provided for those who wish to shop in the morning. Subscribers may patronize the restaurant of their choice.

Proceeds from the Shubert trips, which will continue through Jan. 7, will benefit the League's philanthropies: a friendship club for senior citizens, a homemaker's service for persons unable to care for themselves at home, craft classes and an activities group. In addition, the Assistance League has an annual scholarship fund and an aid to Indians program.

Further information may be obtained by calling the League office.

CHOC Guild Plans Annual Game Brunch

Serapes and sombreros will provide a Mexican background for the annual game brunch Thursday, April 24, planned by Peter Pan Guild of Children's Hospital of Orange County. The 10:30 a.m. event will be held in the Assistance League of Anaheim service center, 1341 W. La Palma.

The benefit will feature cards, brunch and door prizes including a money tree. Funds will be donated to the CHOC outpatient department clinic. Mrs. Roland Smith, chairman, is being assisted by Mmes. Martin Vier and Alex Knox, decorations; Phillip Joujon-Rouche, refreshments; Carl Karcher Jr. and Sealy Yates, door prizes; and Richard Gates, tickets.

Reservations are open to the public and may be made until Monday, April 21, with guild members or by calling Mrs. Eugene C. Kozlowski, Anaheim.

"MAPS," Mission Auxiliary for Providence Speech and Hearing Center, is sponsoring a bridge and other card games luncheon Friday, April 18, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the hostess room of the Great Western Savings and Loan, Laguna Hills.

Hostesses are Audrey Smith, Catherine Cleveland, Evelyn Zimmerman and Grace Shorter. Proceeds will go towards partial scholarships to Mission Viejo Satellite Center pupils needing financial assistance.

Night At Races To Raise Funds For Hospital

A benefit "Night at the Races" will be sponsored by Harbor Chapter Hadassah at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 19, in Midway City American Legion Hall, 14582 Beach Blvd. Script will be sold for purchase of gifts to be auctioned. Proceeds from the event will be used for rebuilding and rededicating Mt. Scopus Hospital in Jerusalem, a non-sectarian hospital in ruins when the Israelis recaptured the Holy City. The hospital, which functions in conjunction with the Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem, will be rededicated in October of this year.

Mrs. Howard Geller, general chairman, or Mrs. Mark Cohen may be contacted for further information.

NEW AUXILIARY

The first meeting of the newly formed Women's Auxiliary for the Children's Neurological Foundation will be held Wednesday, April 23, at 10 a.m. in the Foundation, 2650 Avon St., Newport Beach. The public may attend. Further information and reservations for the meeting may be made by calling the Foundation.

MAY CO

FASHION

Krist Gudnason, fashion director for Alice of California, will make personal appearances Wednesday, April 23, and Thursday, April 24, at the Westminster May Company to introduce his summer collection.

Hours will be noon to 9 p.m., both days. During Gudnason's appearance, a slide presentation of the entire summer line will be shown in the Loungewear Shop, and selected pieces from the collection will be modeled informally in the restaurant and department. Each afternoon at 2 p.m., a drawing for one Alice of California garment will be held. Entry blanks will be available in the Loungewear Shop of each store during Gudnason's appearance.

FASHIONS AND CARS

A spring festival of fashions and cars is scheduled for a two-week run at four Orange County locations April 27 to May 10. Fashions will be by the makers of Catalina women's sportswear, and the car display will feature Chevrolet's Monza.

Locations for the events which will include twice daily narrated shows will be Broadway stores at 444 N. Euclid Ave., Anaheim; 7777 Edinger Ave., Huntington Beach; 47 Fashion Island, Newport Beach; and 2300 N. Tustin St., Orange.

BOUQUET SALE

A special sale of designers clothes will be held Friday, April 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Saddleback Community Thrift Shop, 23539 Calle de la Louisa, Laguna Hills. The boutique features better suits, coats, knits, evening wear and lounging attire as well as a wide selection of shoes, purses and jewelry. All funds raised by the thrift shop benefit the non-profit Saddleback Community Hospital.

Drivers Needed For Hospital's Meal Program

More volunteer drivers are needed for the Meals on Wheels program sponsored as a public service by Saddleback Community Hospital. Volunteers deliver meals between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., seven days a week, including holidays.

Assignments of volunteers are made on a weekly, bi-weekly or monthly basis. Wives of male volunteers may work in the program to complete two-member teams for meal delivery.

Those interested in volunteering may call the community relations department, Saddleback Community Hospital.

EBELL TRAVEL

Second Travel Section of Santa Ana Ebell will meet Monday, April 21, in the Ebells Clubhouse, for a 12:30 p.m. program by Dr. John Schultz. His topic will be "Five in a Volkswagen in Africa."

Women And New Six-Month Old Goes Laws To Be YW Luncheon Topic To Work With Mother

By ANN HELLMUTH

Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) —

Six-month-old Miguel Esquerro finds plenty to gurggle about as he spends his days lying on a blanket beside his mother's desk in a busy Orlando law firm.

"He's been coming to work with me since he was two weeks old," legal secretary Cynthia Esquerro said Tuesday. "He hardly ever cries and seems fascinated by all the activity in the office."

Mrs. Esquerro, 24, said that often when she is on the phone she is juggling Miguel in one arm, trying to change his diaper and take a message at the same time.

"Sometimes, the clients can hear him laughing and making baby noises while we are talking," she added. "But they don't seem to mind at all."

Mrs. Esquerro said she could not afford to give up work when Miguel was born. "I didn't want to miss those first precious months of my first baby, so I decided to bring him with me," she said.

Visitors to lawyer Stuart Smith's office often find themselves holding and playing with Miguel while they wait for appointments.

"One woman was in the conference room and she came rushing out, picked up Miguel and took him back with her," Mrs. Esquerro said. "She held him all through the meeting."

At first, Miguel had a mechanical swing to keep him amused while his mother worked. But now he prefers a blanket on the floor and a rattle.

"He loves his food and I just give him a bottle while I'm working," Mrs. Esquerro added. "I guess it wouldn't be possible if he wasn't such a happy, contented child."

Membership Coffees Set By AAUW

The San Clemente-Capistrano Bay Branch of the American Association of University Women is planning three April coffees for prospective members.

The first coffee is scheduled for Monday, April 21, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. James Cherry, 506 Avenue de la Riviera, San Clemente. Interested women living in the San Clemente area may attend.

A coffee is planned Thursday, April 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Paul Yoder, 26961 Calle Granada, Capistrano Beach, for women residing in Dana Point, Capistrano Beach or San Juan Capistrano.

Mission Viejo and Laguna Beach residents may attend a coffee Tuesday, April 29, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Albert Weeks, 27001 La Paja Lane, Mission Viejo.

Further information and reservations may be obtained by calling Mrs. Weeks. All women graduates for four year accredited universities and colleges are eligible for membership.

Antique Show Set At Temple

Temple Beth Shalom of Orange County will hold its annual antique show and sale Sunday, April 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the parking lot of the Temple, Tustin and Fairhaven Avenues, Santa Ana.

Over 100 dealers will be exhibiting antiques and arts and crafts items. Dealers may reserve spaces through Friday, April 18. There will be an admission charge.

Grand Opera Loses Grandeur

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Puccini's La Tosca was performed by singers in street clothes without scenery at La Scala opera house Monday night because of a wildcat strike by electricians, other technicians and wardrobe people. A sell-out crowd warmly cheered the performance.

The strike came as Italy's major opera house was already struggling with a growing budget deficit and a bitter political controversy over the staging of a costly work by a Communist composer.

Without special lights, Spanish tenor Placido Domingo, playing Cavaradossi, sang in a black jacket and gray pants. Orianna Santamione, as Tosca, wore a black gown and a white chemise. Scarpia, the police chief in the opera, wore a blue suit and a white shirt.

"It was like rehearsal," said Domingo after the performance. "I had no trouble singing without costumes and scenery."

La Tosca is the story of tragic love in mid-19th century Rome. The backstage workers struck Monday for higher wages, which management says La Scala cannot afford.

The opera house recently reported a substantial deficit because of insufficient and delayed funds from the state.
